Truckers Defy WLB; Vote to Continue Chicago Strike

UNION CHEERS CHALLENGE TO U.S. SEIZURE

Told Army Cannot Force Work

Chicago's striking truck drivers last night flatly rejected the war labor board's demand that they return to work today.

Not even government seizure of the truck lines, they indicated, will force the drivers back to work. Such action had been threatened by WLB members at a meeting with officials of the striking independent Chicago Truck Drivers' union Sunday in Washington. The WLB demanded that the strike end today.

There were reports last night that the government has completed preparations to take over all truck facilities today. It could not be learned whether the seizure would be made by the army or the office of defense transportation, or by both agencies jointly.

More than 3,000 members of the union who crowded into a hall at 4715 Madison st. voted uproariously to continue their strike no matter who operates the lines.

AFL Teamsters Act

The executive board of the Teamsters Union council [AFL], whose members are not on strike, last night instructed all members of AFL teamsters unions "to let nothing interfere with the transportation of urgently needed war supplies and essential food commodities," unless all necessary legal steps have been taken; that is, unless a strike should be authorized under the provisions of the Smith-Connally act.

At the same time, the AFL group laid the blame for the present situation squarely in the lap of the WLB, and criticized what it termed the WLB's "vacillating policies and indecision," which, the board said, has placed the AFL teamster unions in a false position.

Disappearance of prospects for an early ending of the strike—now entering its sixth day—shattered the hope of grocers and housewives, ruefully surveying empty food store shelves. It was already too late to save tons of butter, bananas, eggs, fruits, vegetables, and other perishable foods which have spoiled in warehouses for lack of transportation.

Huge Food Supplies Spoil

The Jewel Food stores, with warehouses at 3617 S. Ashland av., was scheduled last night to dump 100,000 pounds of fruits and vegetables, no longer fit for human consumption, today.

The Kroger Grocery and Baking company has given away 19,000 loaves of bread to the Salvation Army and other charities since the strike began because it has been unable to get the broad delivered to its stores.

The company also has tons of spoiled butter in its warehouse at 8235 Vincennes av., together with three carloads of spoiled bananas, and quantities of eggs, bulk coffee, and fresh fruits and vegetables that must be dumped.

Chain Bakeries Closed

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, after giving away quantities of bread in the early days of the strike, shut down its bakeries, and has been supplying its stores by

Put Washing Machines on '45 Schedule

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The war production board today disclosed a proposal for production of 700,000 household washing machines this year. The board also removed all restrictions on the manufacture of repair and replacement parts for automobiles and trucks.

Along with the washing machine plan, it was announced that production of home ironers and driers will be freed of all restraint, and their output will be "limited only by the availability of materials, facilities, and man power."

The washers will not be available generally for retail sale until late in 1945, the agency estimated, since some materials and parts may be scarce in the early stages of resumed production.

Just a Drop in the Bucket

The proposed level of manufacture—350,000 washers each in the third and fourth quarters of the year—is approximately 70 per cent of the pre-war production rate. However, it amounts only to a drop in the bucket of the estimated pent up demand for home laundry equipment; latest WPB figures indicate that 5,800,000 householders want to buy washing machines.

While still technically in the "proposal" stage, the 350,000 a quarter production has been approved at a high WPB level and industry representatives consulted in closed meetings here have expressed general approval, a WPB spokesman said.

Production of washers beyond the 700,000 volume will be permissible, WPB said, if manufacturers are able to get materials, motors, and parts without priority help.

Ban to End July 1

After July 1 manufacturers will be free to place orders for copper, steel, and aluminum without WPB authority, and the mills may fill such orders to the extent that they do not interfere with military or essential civilian work.

Five per cent of the material allocated for washing machines would be set aside for manufacturers who were not previously in the business.

The action on automobile parts, expected to permit a substantial increase in output when steel and copper become available on July 1, carries priority aid for the production of necessary functional parts—those which previously were the only ones permitted at all.

Makers of parts for military vehicles and medium and heavy trucks will get the high priority rating of AA-1; parts for passenger cars and light trucks will command the "essential civilian" rating of AA-2X.

"MEANS A LOT" HERE

Edward N. Hurley Jr., president of the Electric Household Utilities corporation, said last night the manufacture of 700,000 washing machines "means a lot" as the heart of the industry is in the middle west. The country's need for the machines can best be seen by the fact that the last peak year before war produced 2,000,000, he said. Hurley added that altho some companies will need to reconvert, his won't because it has been making washing machines for the army and navy.

DE GAULLE ACCEPTS TRUMAN INVITATION FOR MEETING SOON

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—Gen. De Gaulle of France will meet with President Truman at the latter's request, French Foreign Minister George Bidault said today.

Bidault in a statement issued several hours after a conference with President Truman said "The meeting which Gen. De Gaulle, in answer to the wish expressed by the President of the United States, will have with him in the future—I hope not distant—will be a new step toward a closer Franco-American friendship which is dear to both our peoples."

RUMOR VIRTUAL HALT TO DRAFT OF MEN OVER 30

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The Washington Post said tonight selective service is considering an order "virtually halting the drafting of men over 30 years of age."

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, declined comment.

The Post said that under the prospective order men over 30 engaged in "useful" work would be freed of all draft pressure.

"Provision may be made, however," the Post continued, "for the continued drafting of those who might be classified as loafers."

"Complete abandonment of an over 30 draft is not being contemplated at this time," the Post said, "because it is desired to retain the stick-to-your job incentive for men deferred because of work essential to the prosecution of the war against Japan."

TRUMAN URGES ANOTHER CUT IN WAR SPENDING

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—President Truman recommended another $92,119,000 reduction in war expenditures today, in addition to a previous saving of $4,265,000,000. The slice included $6,400,000 from the FBI's emergency fund.

Among the other cutbacks were office of war information, $4,750,000; censorship, $5,107,000; office of strategic services, $14,000,000; office of scientific research and development, $18,000,000; federal works agency, $6,400,000; war food administration, $2,000,000, and commerce department, $3,000,000.

The senate today approved the President's recommended cancellation of maritime commission authorization amounting to $4,265,000,000.

Doctor Tells How He Kept Up Hitler's Energy with Drugs

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, May 21 (AP)—A 59 year old man who said he was Hitler's personal physician since 1936 declared today he gave the fuehrer injections of glucose and caffeine regularly in order to sustain his energy during the last months they were together.

He said his name was Dr. Theodore Morrell. He was gravely ill in a hospital, suffering from a stroke he said was caused when Hitler berated him in a fit of anger on April 21.

This was his story:

Morrell called on Hitler in his underground headquarters in the reichschancellery in Berlin the morning of April 21 for his regular 15 minute consultation, held every other day.

"I heard officers outside the fuehrer's door talking excitedly and I knew something was in the air," Morrell said. "They said it was ridiculous for Hitler to remain in Berlin, and that they must force him to go to Berchtesgaden.

Hitler Goes Into Rage

"Dr. Strohfeger of the SS told me I had known the fuehrer for a long time, and he suggested I give him an injection of glucose or something stronger as a stimulant. He was physically worn out."

Morrell said he told Hitler: "Mein fuehrer, we have thought it over and decided you are very tired. I am going to give you an injection to make you feel better."

Despite the fact that Hitler had been receiving injections from Morrell for several months, he went into a rage and shouted: "Do you think I am crazy? You're trying to give me morphine.

"You're fired. Get out. Go home and take your medical uniform off. Forget I ever had anything to do with you!"

Morrell said he collapsed at Hitler's feet. Later he recalled waking up in the fuehrer's bunker. Hitler seemed remorseful, Morrell added, and offered to have him removed to a safer place.

Morrell said he left Berlin the next night for Berchtesgaden in the same plane with Gerhard Herrgessel, the last of Hitler's shorthand secretaries to leave him.

Tells of Treatment

Morrell explained that he had administered the glucose and caffeine intravenously to Hitler every other day for several months. He prescribed the treatment because of the terrific strain Hitler was under, and to relieve painful cramps and colic that affected Hitler after meals.

Morrell described Hitler as a difficult patient, who refused to submit to X-ray examinations for cancer in order to dispel rumors that he was suffering from that disease.

Morrell said that Hitler had gall bladder trouble and in the fall of 1944 was in bed for a week because of jaundice.

More recently, Morrell added, he had feared that Hitler might become afflicted with heart trouble. He said a Berlin throat specialist removed a polyp from Hitler's throat in a minor operation.

Morrell declared he was not an eye-witness to the bombing attempt on Hitler's life, but was one of the first to reach his side.

Finds Him in "Ecstasy."

"I found him in a state of ecstasy," Morrell related. "His hair was singed, his face was bleeding, his trousers were torn, and his leg was scratched.

"He was sitting and saying over and over: 'Think of it. Think of it. Nothing has happened to me. Just think of it.'

"I was astonished to find his pulse absolutely normal."

Morrell said the blast ruptured Hitler's eardrums and later caused a slight continuining head discharge.

He described Hitler as an "egocentric" and a thankless patient who used to fly into rages. He said there was nothing to the story that Hitler chewed rugs.

Grew Quiet and Ruthless

"It was much worse when he grew pale and quiet and remained that way for several minutes," Morrell related. "These scenes were invariably followed by some ruthless order. Some one was killed, removed from office, or something equally drastic.

"He was easily annoyed—a man who could not stand to be interrupted in conversation. In a group he demanded that he lead the conversation. I've seen him terribly annoyed at himself when illness made him unable to perform as he wanted."

Morrell said he was convinced that Hitler did not commit suicide —"it was absolutely inconsistent with a man of his type."

FIRST BRITISH ELECTION IN TEN YEARS LOOMS

Laborites Reject Churchill Plea

BLACKPOOL, England, May 22 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Great Britain's first general election in 10 years appeared imminent today after Laborite ministers rejected Prime Minister Churchill's proposal for extension of the coalition government until the end of the Japanese war, and opposed a proposed referendum on continuing the present parliament.

Political observers at the Labor party's national convention here predicted that Churchill would announce in parliament later today that King George VI. intended to dissolve the parliament in three weeks, and that the election would be held July 5. The date was the concensus of informed British political writers.

The coalition government, formed in 1940 just before Dunkerque, appeared likely to crumble. Laborite ministers were opening their campaigns.

A Flat Rejection

While the Laborites flatly rejected Churchill's proposals, leaders of the Liberal party and the Liberal National party expressed willingness to continue the coalition at least temporarily.

Archibald Sinclair, head of the Liberal party, said, however, this group doubted the wisdom of prolonging the present parliament, and would prefer an election in late autumn.

More than 1,100 delegates to the labor party's national convention here roared down Churchill's proposal that the united front be carried on indefinitely as well as his alternate suggestion that the whole issue be taken to the people by referendum.

Attlee Uses Blunt Words

Clement Attlee, Laborite deputy prime minister, in a personal letter to 10 Downing st., employed the bluntest language he ever used in addressing Churchill.

It would not be "either right or possible" to extend the present parliament, which already is 10 years old, he said, and he condemned the referendum plan as a "device—alien to all our traditions . . . which has only too often been the instrument of nazism and fascism."

Attlee pledged the Labor party's "fullest support to the war until Japan is defeated."

New Cabinet Expected

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 21—Prime Minister Churchill is expected to submit a list of proposed new cabinet ministers to the king as a result of the impending breakup of the present coalition government.

Laborite ministers expected to leave the war cabinet are Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin, and Home Secretary Herbert Morrison. First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Aircraft Production Minister Stafford Cripps, and Board of Trade President Hugh Dalton are also expected to quit.

The Liberal Nationals probably will retain the few cabinet posts they hold, as their leader, Ernest Brown, has pledged the party's support to Churchill.

Get Furloughs for 30 Days at Home on Way

Washington, D. C., May 21 [Special]—The 1st army, commanded by Gen. Hodges, is on the move from Europe for the Pacific, the war department announced today.

The department issued a statement saying:

"It is being redeployed by way of the United States, and its personnel will receive furloughs before proceeding to the war against Japan.

Division Shifts Likely

"The divisions and army corps that fight with the 1st army against Japan will not necessarily be the same as those that fought in Germany. However, enough veteran units and veteran personnel will take the field under Gen. Hodges to insure the same vigorous assault against the Japanese as was made by the 1st army against the Germans.

"The fighting record of the 1st army ranks with the proudest in the allied expeditionary forces. Altho the army itself did not enter combat until the invasion of the Normandy coast several of its units took part in its original landings in North Africa, Sicily, and Italy.

"Troops of the 1st army parachuted into France before H-hour on D-day, led the way across the German frontier, broke thru the Siegfried line, seized and established the Remagen bridgehead, and were the first to make junction with the Russians at the Elbe.

Thousands of Nazis Slain

"Hundreds of thousands of Germans were killed or captured by the 1st army in its battles across France, Belgium, and Germany.

"Under the point system for the release of men with extended and arduous combat service, many of the present personnel of the units to be sent into the Pacific with the 1st army will be separated from their organizations before they leave Europe and replaced by men who do not have enough points to qualify for discharge."

The furloughs granted to the 1st army troops will be for 30 days.

The war department would not estimate the number of men composing the 1st army, but said that as of April 12 it was composed of the following major units:

Third corps, Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet; 5th corps, Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner; 7th corps, Maj. Gen. Joseph L. Collins, and 18th air borne corps, Maj. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway.

Divisions in 1st Army

The composing divisions as of the above date were:

First infantry, Maj. Gen. Clift Andrus; 2d infantry, Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson; 3d armored, commander not announced; 7th armored, Maj. Gen. Robert W. Hasbrouck; 8th infantry, Brig. Gen. Bryant Moore; 9th infantry, Maj. Gen. Louis A. Craig; 28th infantry, Maj. Gen. Norman D. Cota; 69th infantry, Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt; 78th infantry, Maj. Gen. Edwin P. Parker; 82d air borne, Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin; 99th infantry, Maj. Gen. Walter Lauer; 104th infantry, Maj. Gen. Terry Allen; 106th infantry, Maj. Gen. Donald A. Stroh.

Withdrawal of the 1st army leaves five American armies in Europe—the 3d, 5th, 7th, 9th and 15th.

Britain to Deduct Taxes from Nazi Prisoners' Pay

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 21—German prisoners of war, who will start repairing buildings in London tomorrow, will have income tax deducted from their wages, it was reported today. Net income will be about 60 cents for a 48 hour week, it was said.

JAPS WEARING U. S. UNIFORMS ATTACK YANKS

Marines Drive Back Okinawa Foes

GUAM, May 22 [Tuesday] (AP)—Japanese wearing American marine uniforms and using captured United States weapons made a strong counter-attack on the 6th marine division sector near Naha Sunday night. The attack was repulsed.

Three other groups of Japanese, using suicide bombs, attacked the 1st marine division sector. They also were repulsed, Adm. Nimitz said in today's bulletin.

Both the marine 3d amphibious corps—the 1st and 6th divisions—and the 24th army corps—the 77th and 96th infantry divisions—made advances on both flanks and in the center of the Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru line.

Five Warships Damaged

Making their first attack in several days, 35 Japanese planes struck at American shipping off Okinawa Sunday evening. They damaged five light units, Nimitz said. Twenty-six attackers were shot down.

Search planes have sunk 86,880 tons of Japanese shipping and damaged 81,500 tons since inauguration of their sweeps to Korean and Japanese waters. They also have destroyed 21 Japanese planes and damaged 15. These Privateers and Liberators went into action from Okinawa bases only a few weeks ago. Their latest raid was a bombing attack on Yaku Island.

77th in Surprise Attack

Attacking before dawn, 77th division infantry captured Taira Machi, north of Shuri, despite intense small arms fire. This division already was within 900 yards of Shuri's northeast fringes. Fighting all day and throwing back enemy attempts to retake Taira, the 77th moved south of the town in the evening.

The division launched its surprise attack at 3 a. m.—not long after 6th division marines had fought off the Naha counter-attack by 400 to 600 Japanese. Half of the attackers were killed and the rest driven back.

After daylight the Japanese counter-attacked, trying to drive the Yanks back out of Taira. But the assault was repulsed and the infantry pushed on south from the village toward Shuri.

The suicidal assault in the 5th regiment sector was made by three groups of Japanese carrying satchel demolition charges tied around their waists. Their attack was intended to blow up tanks. The infiltrations were stopped, with no damage to the tanks.

Castle Tough Bastion

Nimitz said 6th division marines held Sugar Loaf hill securely after having taken the summit of that height 11 times.

Front reports said the 1st marine division in a mighty tank supported thrust drove to the crest of the last ridge overlooking Shuri, second largest city on the island.

Shuri is a mass of rubble, blasted by naval and land artillery and aerial bombs, but Shuri castle, thick walled, moated home of medieval Ryukyuan warlords, remained a tough bastion to be cracked.

Heights around Shuri and Naha must be cleared of the Japanese before the two cities can be taken or become useful to the Americans, said Brig. Gen. Walter Dumas, Temple, Tex., member of the staff of Lt. Gen. Buckner, 10th army commander. There are no prospects of spectacular American progress, Dumas said.

Expects Hard Slugging

"It will be hard slugging all along," the general said. "The Jap has one advantage. He is underground. The attacker has to get out into the open."

Japanese counter-attacks are coming with more frequency "as they always do when things become desperate," said the staff officer.

Lt. James Paulos, commander of a company which seized one ridge, told Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland:

"The men took heavy mortar fire all the way up the ridge. Tanks

Sinatra Flies; Okinawa Vet Waits

Mt. Vernon, Ill., May 21 [Special]—Eugene Harshbarger, 18, a signalman 3d class who fought on Iwo Jima and Okinawa, is back home here today a little puzzled, but not angry, he says, because his homecoming was delayed 4 hours by being bumped off an air liner by Frank Sinatra.

It was last Thursday in Los Angeles that Harshbarger appeared at the airport to claim a reservation he made a week before when his ship reached port. He was given his ticket and was waiting for departure time when a commotion took place in the waiting room. "The Voice," accompanied by a group of friends, had arrived.

"They told me I was bumped," Harshbarger explained. "Sinatra came over and spoke to me. He was very nice and said he was sorry if his trip was going to delay me. He went to the manager and asked him to do everything he could for me. But when the plane left Sinatra was on it and I wasn't."

Harshbarger got a plane four hours later and flew to St. Louis. He reached Mt. Vernon Saturday, and must leave Thursday. In New York an agent for Sinatra said the singer had been alerted for an overseas U. S. O. tour and was traveling on a No. 3 priority under government orders.

went into draws and threw flames into caves, and the men shot down the Japs as they came out. Finally, we had to leave the tanks behind as we mounted higher. The men fought hand to hand, cave to cave."

Use Burning Oil

WITH U. S. MARINES NEAR SHURI, May 21 (AP)—Leathernecks of the 5th regiment, 1st marine division, are looking down on Shuri castle, key to the stubborn Japanese defensive belt.

To reach the outskirts of Shuri they had to crack the Wana ridge area, one of the last natural barriers to the ancient Shuri castle just behind the town. Tanks driven to within a few yards of the enemy's lines spearheaded the attack.

Burning oil was poured down on the Japanese infested ridge before Shuri town after dark. Drums of oil were brought to the front in amphibious tractors and hauled to the top of the ridge with ropes pulled by 16-man teams. The marines punched holes in the drums and poured the contents down the rugged coral bluff.

Flames Light Up Town

"The whole cave pocked bluff burst into flames and lit the sky with a pinkish glow that silhouetted Shuri in front of us," said Capt. Lawrence K. Hennessy, Schenectady, N. Y., commander of the company.

Maj. Gen. Pedro del Valle, Alexandria, Va., 1st division commander, who watched his men from a hilltop vantage point, said the Japanese were using more artillery than he had even seen them use before and "it's a bunch of nasty hardware sailing thru the air."

Del Valle described Shuri castle itself as badly battered and mostly "high ground which is probably heavily fortified underground." Japanese artillery fire is dropping off, Del Valle said, now that they are losing more and more observation posts.

Japs Well Dug In

WITH U. S. 6TH MARINE DIVISION, Okinawa, May 20 [Delayed]—(AP)—Fighting around Sugar Loaf hill is so strenuous at night that the 4th marine regiment had to move in during daylight to relieve the 29th.

When the Japanese spotted the troop movement they opened up with a heavy artillery barrage on the sector. American artillery replied in force, and the change was made with light casualties.

Col. Alan Shapley, commander of the 4th regiment and a veteran of New Georgia, Bougainville, and Guam, says nowhere has he seen the Japanese fighting harder or so well dug in.

"These Japs are well dug in," said Shapley, "and we are at a great disadvantage."

But he emphasized his 4th marine regiment, made up of former Carlson and Edson Raiders, would take the ground they wanted.

Chicagoan "Banzais"

Two of Shapley's campaigners gave the Japanese small scale tastes of their own banzai attacks.

First Lt. Richard E. Goheen of Chicago led a patrol 400 yards in front of the American lines around Half Moon hill, where they were caught in a cross fire and had to pull back. Japanese on a hilltop began rolling grenades down on his men. Goheen saw a Japanese officer poke his head up out of a hole 75 yards away.

Figuring the Japanese were getting ready to attack, the American officer yelled "banzai" himself and led his marines in a charge which broke up the potential counter-attack.

On the 96th division front, a Missouri bulldozer operator blazed a trail thru enemy territory for advancing tanks. The 383d regiment placed two tanks and a squad of riflemen atop King hill, between Charlie and Conical hills.

Staff Sgt. John Horton, Antioch, Ill., was a member of the battalion operating the bulldozer.

CANADA SAYS 60 OF ITS WARSHIPS WILL FIGHT JAPS

Two New Carriers to Join Allies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21—Sixty Canadian warships will join United States and British naval forces in the Pacific war against Japan, Douglas C. Abbott, Canadian naval minister, announced today. Previously it had been announced that a division of Canadian troops, American trained and equipped, would fight with American land forces.

Most of Canada's Pacific war fighting ships will be small craft, but Abbott said they would include aircraft carriers, cruisers, an anti-aircraft ship, fleet destroyers, and frigates. The Canadian cruiser Uganda, he said, already has seen action with the British Pacific fleet.

Get 2 Aircraft Carriers

Abbott disclosed that two aircraft carriers, now nearing completion, are being acquired from the United Kingdom. Known as "light fleet" carriers, they are Canada's largest warships. Each will be manned by 1,300 men including air personnel.

The destroyers will include the Haida, Huron, Iroquois, Sioux, and Algonquin, all of which have served in convoys to Russia, in operations off Norway and in invasion waters off France. The Micmac, first destroyer to be built in a Canadian ship yard, will join them.

Get New Destroyers

The Canadian navy also is receiving from Britain a flotilla of fast new fleet destroyers and these will form part of the Canadian destroyer group in the Pacific. Thirty-six of the newest Canadian frigates will be assigned to the western Pacific.

Naval participation in the Pacific war will be on a voluntary basis. Bonuses of about $10 a month will be paid to seamen, which will make the Pacific pay rate $54 a month, as compared with $60 a month for United States combat troops.

About 13,500 men will be required for Canada's Pacific war navy operations, Abbott said, excluding personnel required to serve ashore.

JAPANESE MOBILIZE 20,000,000 STUDENTS FOR WAR, SAYS RADIO

San Francisco, Cal., May 21 (AP)—Japan today mobilized its 20,000,000 students on a full war time basis, the Japanese Domei news agency reported, and began formation of an "agrarian militia" for defense of the homeland.

As these moves to combat an expected invasion developed, Tokyo radio reported that the government looked to a solution of its basic Chinese policy as the "key to overcoming the crisis" confronting the empire.

The plan to mobilize students for active participation in defense measures was announced by the ministry of education. Students will receive special training "to qualify them for active combat duties."

The statement on policy toward China came from Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo and was made to the empire's representatives in occupied China, meeting in Tokyo.

Togo's definition of that policy, as quoted by Domei, referred to establishment of friendly relations between the two countries in economic and political matters "in addition to giving support to China's independence, defense, and unification."

FINDS HUNGARY'S GOLD, WORTH 160 MILLION, IN ALPS

Sgt. William I. De Huszar, 28, who was named in a cable dispatch yesterday as the soldier who uncovered Hungary's cache of 160 million dollars in gold bullion and pengos in the Austrian Alps, is the son of Mrs. Jolanda De Huszar, 1545 E. 60th st. His wife, Mary, and daughter, Madelane, 2, live in Indianapolis. An accountant before he entered service two years ago, Sgt. De Huszar has been overseas a year. Three letters written early in May somewhere in Austria were received by his mother yesterday. In one of them he expressed his jubilance over news of the death of Hitler.

B-29s RETURN A FAVOR—ESCORT FIGHTER PLANES

GUAM, May 22 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Four Tinian based Super Fortresses flew navigational escort for the 318th army fighter group P-47s in their recent flight from the Marianas to their new base on Okinawa.

"The mother hen" mission was led by Brig. Gen. John H. Davies of Piedmont, Cal. The B-29s could not land on Okinawa. The round trip lasted 13 hours and 11 minutes.

"More and more fighter planes will be escorted to Okinawa," said Gen. Davies. "These planes of the 7th fighter command should prove a great help in securing Okinawa—springboard to Japan. We are glad for this chance to coöperate with the fighters. We like the cover they provide for our B-29s during our strikes on Japan."

BRITISH PLANES FLY 2,500 MILES, BOMB ISTHMUS

ADVANCED HDQRS., Burma, May 21 [Reuters] — British Liberators made their heaviest attack yet upon the Japanese communications system leading from southern Burma and Siam into Malaya, when they raided Chumphon on the Kra isthmus yesterday.

The flight, the longest carried out in such strength by the air force in southern Asia, involved a round trip of 2,500 miles. Chumphon, which was left in flames, is the vital control point in the isthmus.

In Burma the Japanese trying to escape toward Thailand were also bombed. Remnants of the Japanese Burma army have been unable to hold the allies advancing east of Toungoo, northwest of Rangoon.

YANKS WIPE OUT 500 JAP TROOPS IN LUZON POCKET

MANILA, May 22 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Two-thirds of a big Japanese force trapped in central Luzon's Ipo pocket were liquidated Sunday by the 43d infantry division and guerrillas, a spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

The spokesman added that all organized resistance south of Metropolitan road had been eliminated. Ipo dam itself, source of one-third of Manila's water, was captured Thursday. Subsequently a tank-led column split the Jap force in two by taking Metropolitan road. Five hundred dead Japanese were counted.

The 38th division, operating a few miles southeast, continued its drive toward the Wawa dam behind a 150 plane 5th air force explosive and fire bomb strike.

On Luzon's Pacific coast the 1st cavalry, moving north toward Japanese positions at Infanta, hit opposition nine miles south of that objective and was fighting it out with a Nipponese force equipped with mortars, artillery, and small arms.

Capture Sasa Air Field

On Mindanao Island the 24th infantry division captured Sasa airdrome north of Davao and now holds five of the six air fields in that area. The field was defended stubbornly.

In central Mindanao the 31st infantry swept 10 miles northward to within one mile of Malaybalay, capital of Bukidnon province. It reached the edge of the air field and was within 25 miles of a junction with the 40th and Americal divisions, which are moving southward along Sayre highway.

Driven Back in Valley

P-T boats continued the destruction of the former Japanese torpedo boat base at Piso point in Davao gulf.

On Luzon the Yanks steadily drove the Japanese back into the Cagayan valley along the mountainous Balete pass, closely supported by bombers and fighters which dropped 238 tons of explosives. P-T boats bombarded Japanese shore defenses on the east coast.

Philippine based bombers ranged in strength over Formosa for the sixth straight day, concentrating on harbor installations at Keilung, rail yards and airdromes at Toyohapa and Taito, and scattered industrial targets on the big island.

On Tarakan Island, Australian and Dutch patrols penetrated to within three miles of the north coast while bombers struck airdromes and harbors at neighboring Borneo. The seaplane base at Balikpapan, on eastern Borneo, was set ablaze.

HOUSE APPROVES SPECIAL HONOR MEDAL FOR F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The house today voted unanimously to authorize the posthumous award of a special medal of nonor to the late President Roosevelt.

The vote was taken after a long discussion in which Rep. Robsion [R., Ky.] objected to award of the congressional medal of honor to the late President. Rep. McCormack [D., Mass.] author of the bill, agreed to substitute the words "special medal of honor" for "congressional medal of honor" and the bill was passed. Under this language it probably will be necessary to strike a special medal for the award.

On objection of Robsion, McCormack also agreed to eliminate from the bill an identification of Mr. Roosevelt "as commander in chief."

Japs Warn People to Turn in B-29 'Leaflet Bombs'

San Francisco, Cal., May 21 (AP)—Radio Tokyo told the Japanese people today that Super Fortresses are bombarding the country with leaflets "aimed at causing anti war thoughts and antagonism among the military, government and civilian people." It warned that all leaflets must be turned in.

HOME FROM WAR! TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS OF THRILL

Describes Voyage with Thousands of GIs

[The thrill of returning home from Europe soon will be experienced by many GIs. Robert Cromie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent who covered the war in France and Germany for 15 months, described his voyage back to the United States in the following story.]

BY ROBERT CROMIE

An ocean voyage from the European theater of operations to the United States is a necessarily cramped business these days with the emphasis shifting from the defeated Nazis to the Japs, but nobody complains. Every one's too happy about seeing the United States once more to mind a little thing like 18 to a cabin intended for six or standing in long lines for chow.

We were in a relatively fast convoy—11 days from Southampton to Boston and New York—and since V-E day didn't come until we were almost home we zigzagged all the way.

There were a few alarms, and our guard vessels—jaunty little destroyer-escorts—dropped a few ashcans, but on the whole the trip was quiet except for the tail end of the big New England storm that tossed us and shook us for 24 hours.

Our passengers were all military personnel with the exception of one war correspondent and two naval technicians. They included air force men, young naval officers, Dutch marines, and some hundreds of convalescent wounded and repatriated prisoners of war.

Trip Well Managed

The ship carried—with crew—about 3,300 and the trip was a miracle of fine management. Recreation included movies daily—with two or three showing at once—a really fine ship's library, sunbathing [when the sun coöperated], a daily newspaper, radio music, and of course the usual impromptu affairs that can be arranged with the help of a deck of cards or a couple of ivory cubes.

V-E day caused little stir. It was announced over the ship's loudspeaker as soon as received by radio, but while every one was happy for those still left in Europe, those aboard for the most part, were either already done with war or heading for new assignments in the Pacific.

Excitement Grows

As we drew near that magic place, the U. S. A., however, the convoy split, part going to Boston, part to New York, and excitement grew. Tiny sailing vessels off Cape Cod were the signal for rejoicing, as was the first navy plane and a lazy navy dirigible that floated above us the final evening, so low that some one aboard shouted at us on deck, his voice audible but his words unintelligible.

Every one had his plans made. Red was going to marry his Elvira as soon as he could reach North Carolina. Bob was heading for his girl in New York, Van for Kalamazoo and the bride he left behind. Women, women will be happy to know, seemed the most important thing on earth to nearly all the boys. Or, more accurately, woman.

Wags Go to Work

When we reached Boston harbor the wags began working. As the pilot boat drew alongside some one called out: "What have these natives got to trade?" And when we were close enough to shore to see the lights and the cars driving along there was a constant stream of chatter. A neat little convertible that drove past the open door of the pier where we docked drew a spontaneous cheer. You could almost hear the boys wondering how long it would be before THEY were in a job like that.

Only one tragedy marred the homecoming. One youngster, just released from a German prison camp, was taken suddenly ill halfway across with spinal meningitis. He died not long after crying thru the delirium that made him think he was once more in Nazi hands:

"I knew I was never really going to be liberated."

They brought his body home, tho.

Probably nobody ever realizes just how wonderful a place is home until he leaves it for a while.

Ace Flyer Returns

Lt. Col. F. S. Gabreski as he arrived at New York airport after flight from Paris.

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

New York, May 21 (AP)—Lt. Col. Francis S. Gabreski, ranking ace of the United States 8th air force in Europe, returned today by air from Paris with three flyer companions and said he was anxious to get into the fight against the Japs. The four were among the first group of 10 American flyers who had been imprisoned at Stalag Luft 1, Barth, Germany, to return home by air.

Col. Gabreski, 26, whose home is at Oil City, Pa., was forced down July 20, 1944, after downing 28 enemy planes in combat.

"I spent ten months at Barth," he said. "There were 9,000 airmen in the camp, of which 1,500 were British and 7,500 Americans. If it had not been for the Red Cross packages we would have starved."

He will visit his parents, then call on his fiancee, Miss Kay Cochrane, Prairie du Chien, Wis.

INCOME TAX? ON OKINAWA THEY CALL IT KUKUZEI

BY THOMAS MORROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, May 21—Zukeyama Yoshiaki, a city clerk of Naha, Okinawa's capital city, said thru an interpreter that the island city officials were "of Abraham Lincoln type," respected in the pre-invasion days.

Bespectacled, serious, 5 feet 3 inches and stocky, 39 years old, Yoshiaki said his yearly salary was 1,384 yen. Like other city officials he was appointed by the mayor, who selected his men according to ability without consulting them.

The mayor was elected once every four years by male citizens 25 years of age. He served if the election was sanctioned by the Japanese minister of home affairs.

Pays Three Taxes

Yoshiaki paid three taxes—the kukuzei or federal, kenzei or county, and shizei or municipal. His total tax bill was only 6.90 yen, but his was a poor man's salary.

The physician or merchant, whose income reached 10,000 yen, paid 1,200 yen kukuzei, which went directly to Japan; 150 yen kenzei, and 200 to 300 yen shizei. The average income in Naha was 5,000 yen while the farmers averaged 600 yen a year.

For amusements there were baseball games between middle and junior high schools, basketball, rugby, tennis, and ping-pong. There were two movie houses, where for 59 yen downstairs or 75 upstairs—better seats because the screen was tilted upward—he could see a feature and a newsreel.

Johnny Weissmuller in "Tarzan" was his last remembered American movie four years ago. He remembered Mickey Mouse with equal pleasure. Then some one mentioned cowboy pictures. Yoshiaki understood and beamed. His excited comment literally translated was that cowboy pictures were "the business."

Gambling Discouraged

The Okinawa blades gambled with "go," a sort of checker game, and high stake card games. Police, however, looked upon these pastimes as "lots of noise" and discouraged them.

There were 1,500 prostitutes, he recalled, in 300 establishments. They often gave up their profession to marry business men. Only bad women went into pubs where saki, beer, and lemonades were guzzled," he said.

Any Okinawan, Yoshiaki said, would tell you his religion was "shingonshu." This is a mixture of Buddhism, Luchuism, and Confucianism—all stemming from the Chinese. There were no meeting places, no priests, and each family figured out its own service at home.

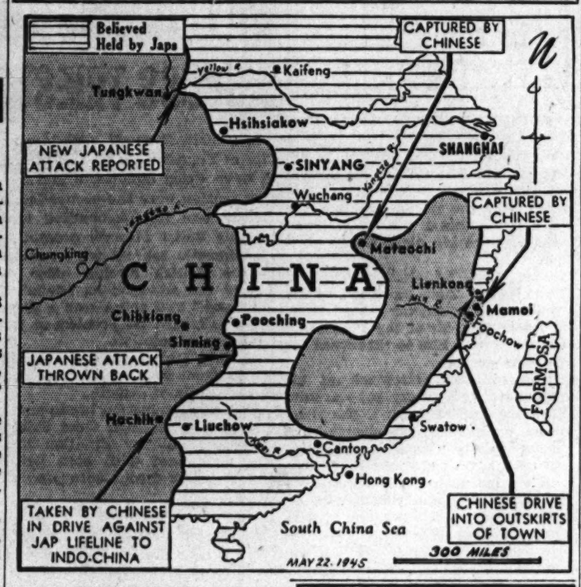
Yoshiaki gave a little local gossip. He said Miyazato, owner of the fine Okinawan hotel and two hotels in Kobe and Yokohama, was suspected of being an American spy because his hotel didn't get knocked down by bombers when other buildings did.

Expected an Invasion

Apparently the Japanese had none too much faith in the home team as far back as Pearl Harbor. Yoshiaki recalled a garrison troop commander who came to Okinawa at that time. Interviewed by six Naha reporters, Yoshiaki said, the commander intimated that Okinawa might be invaded some time.

He was troubled by the invasion, Yoshiaki said, not because he feared bad treatment, but because he has lost track of his wife and four children during the bombardment confusion. He believes they are safe on Kazarin peninsula.

Chinese Smash at Jap Lifeline



CHINESE OPEN OFFENSIVE; TAKE JAP RAIL BASE

Attack Life Line to Indo-China

CHUNGKING, China, May 21 (AP)—Chinese troops, in preliminary counter-offensive blows against an estimated 2,000,000 Japanese troops in China and Manchuria, have launched a new drive in the south against Japan's lifeline to Indo-China, the high command announced tonight.

The Chinese offensive 330 miles south of Chungking and 150 miles north of Indo-China already has ripped out one major bastion in the Japanese supply corridor across China—the heavily fortified Kwangsi province rail town of Hochih, a bulletin said.

Take Another Port

Chinese forces on the east China coast captured another escape port for Japanese forces fleeing Foochow, taking the Min river estuary coastal town of Mamoi, nine miles east of the reoccupied treaty port.

The Chinese also carried their banner 17 miles northeast of Foochow to the outskirts of Lienkong as they pursued the enemy.

In southern China, Chinese warriors launched their offensive against the western side of the Japanese corridor across China Saturday, storming Hochih from the north, west, and south.

By evening one column had broken in thru the west gate of the city, which lies on the Kwangsi-Kweiyang [Kweeichow] railroad, and later two other columns battered their way into the city's heart.

Kill 400 Japanese

Mowing down 400 Japanese in street fighting, the Chinese put the enemy garrison to flight and completely occupied the city Sunday. The Japanese took to their heels in a southeasterly direction.

In Hunan province Chinese troops and American bombers and fighters joined in to lessen the threat of a renewed Japanese drive toward the American air base in Chihkiang, 250 miles southeast of Chungking.

The Japanese movements possibly were designed to divert pressure from an encircled enemy group in the Shanmen area, 46 miles west of Shaoyang. A Japanese unit of 2,000 men had been fighting for several days in the area to break out of a Chinese encirclement and fall back to Shaoyang.

Far to the north, the Chinese captured Mataochi, nine miles northwest of the Japanese held bastion of Hsihsiakow in southern Honan.

"He's a doctor first and an officer second," Lt. Hurley said of the official's son. "I saw him work two days and two nights without sleep on the transport which carried wounded. He's doing a magnificent job."

LATEST RUMOR ON JAP PEACE: WITHIN 10 DAYS

BY ALFRED WAGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NEW DELHI, India, May 20 [Delayed]—Japanese peace feelers have set off rumors that if there is a peaceful end to hostilities in the Pacific it will come in the next 10 days. Neutral Afghanistan is said to be the contact country for the peace negotiations.

The general view is that if the Japs do not try to make peace in the immediate future it will indicate that they will fight until the last inch of Jap soil is destroyed.

Tells Japanese Scheme

An authority on Japan today gave the following view of how the Jap militarists are thinking:

The Japanese, while rapidly conquering allied colonial territory in the Pacific, realized that if Germany surrendered first they would have difficulty in retaining the ground conquered. They figured that after the European fighting the allies would be war weary and prepared to negotiate on terms which would provide the Japs with oil from Tarakan, Dutch Borneo, or Sarawak.

For a few months after Pearl Harbor the American government, he said, was informed of these truths.

Would Keep Manchuria

Japan considered that if a negotiated peace were accomplished she would retain sovereignty over Korea and Manchuria and expand her political and economic hold on north China.

Until the middle of 1944 nothing happened to change seriously the Japanese viewpoint, he continued. The conclusion of the New Guinea campaign and Gen. MacArthur's advances, paralleled by the success in Europe, forced all emphasis on the defense of the Jap homeland.

Allied dismissal of Jap peace offers is said to be having a basic affect on the Japanese leaders. They figure their defeat certain, the informant asserted, and being realists they are planning on how to work out as favorable a barter as was offered Italy under "unconditional surrender" terms.

BERLIN JAMMED BY THOUSANDS RETURNING HOME

MOSCOW, May 21 (AP)—Germans are returning by the thousands to the ruins of Berlin where 20 Russian administrative districts have registered 2,000,000 inhabitants.

Dispatches from the reich capital said streets are crammed by returning residents arriving in carts, wagons, on bicycles, and afoot.

Electricity has been restored in some less heavily bombed districts. Water and sewer systems are operating in several others. The railway system is functioning around the Ring. Buses, street cars, and some sections of the subway are reported operating. Guards still patrol the Wilhelmstrasse district where search continues among the rubble of government buildings for fugitive nazi leaders.

PETAIN TO ASK LEAHY TO TAKE STAND FOR HIM

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—Counsel for Marshal Petain said today that Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to President Truman, would be asked to come to France as a witness for Vichy government leaders. Leahy formerly was United States ambassador to Vichy.

Jacques Isorni, one of the lawyers, said Petain wanted Leahy to testify and was certain the admiral's appearance would be of value to the defense. He said two months more would be required to collect evidence, altho the state has said the case would be tried within a month.

Petain faces a possible death sentence on charges of collaboration with Hitler. He is being held in a fortress outside Paris.

ARABS PROMISE TO GUARD SYRIA INDEPENDENCE

French Troop Movement Called 'Imperialistic'

CAIRO, Egypt, May 21 (AP) — The newly formed Arab league of seven Arab states strongly protested today movement of French troops into the member nations of Syria and Lebanon, and declared the league would safeguard "the independence of any threatened member."

A statement issued by the league secretary, Gen. Abdel Rahman Azzam, said the league considered the French action as "representing an imperialistic frame of mind."

Meanwhile, reports here said Arabs thruout Palestine would go on a general strike tomorrow in sympathy with Syrian and Lebanese strikers protesting the presence of the French forces.

At Damascus, Syria's acting premier, Djemil Mardam, announced that both Syria and Lebanon had refused to negotiate the problem with France.

[Mardam has asked the allies for the evacuation of all troops from Syria now that the war is over, and reëstablishment of full authority for the Syrian army, a Reuters dispatch from Damascus said.]

Tribal Leaders Offer Aid

Syrian tribal leaders were reported to have offered their services to the government, declaring they would defend Syrian independence with their lives.

Syrian Home Minister Assaly announced that eight persons were killed and 25 wounded in a clash with French soldiers in the northern Syrian city of Aleppo. Demonstrations were reported at Damascus.

In the Lebanese capital of Beyrouth, where 500 French troops were reported to have landed, the French were represented as maintaining that the presence of their military forces was necessary and that full respect was held for Syrian-Lebanese independence.

The Paris radio said the troop movements were necessitated by military operations in the far east.

The broadcast said France was responsible for order in Lebanon and the movements were carried out to enable the French to meet their obligations. The operations did not alter France's recognition of Syrian-Lebanon independence, the report added.

Arab quarters here said the strikes in Lebanon and Syria would be halted or considerably diminished in order to "create an atmosphere of calm" for discussions of the situation by both parliaments, which meet within the next 24 hours.

Leagues First Foray

The Arab league's statement is its first foray into international politics since its formation two months ago. Azzam said former French Premier Edouard Herriot had discussed the situation with Syrian and Lebanese leaders and expressed the hope that he would help in arranging a settlement.

The league secretary emphasized that Great Britain, Russia, and the United States recognized the independence of Syria and Lebanon and said "We are particularly grateful for the unhesitating United States stand with regard to their independence."

CZECHS PLEDGE CLOSEST TIES WITH MOSCOW

New York, May 21 [Special]—The Czechoslovak society for cultural relations with the soviet union adopted a "solemn proclamation" at a mass meeting yesterday thanking the Red army and Marshal Stalin for the liberation of Czechoslovakia and declaring that "the fate and future of the Czech nation is inseparably linked to the soviet union," the Prague radio said today.

The proclamation, adopted at a "great demonstration" in Smetana hall in Prague, declared that "May 9, 1945, consecrated by the bloodshed of Czech fighters and Red army soldiers, imposes an obligation upon us. It was the soviet union which held high the banner of Slavdom." The proclamation added:

"The Czechoslovak republic and the U. S. S. R. will continue on their common road. We shall carry out a great purge of all the remnants of fascism in the cultural work of our nation. We shall build a happy and free Czechoslovak republic, truly democratic, and remain faithful as Slavs to our greatest ally, the soviet union—our shield in war and peace."

OVER THE HUMP WITH THE INDIA-CHINA ATC—The storm closed in on the big ATC plane flying gasoline into China. Ice formed on the wings, the whalelike fuselage, even the whirring propellers. In a few minutes the ice weighed tons and the big plane began sinking.

The pilot, Lt. Robert Seekins, Fort Worth, Tex., motioned to his radioman, a youngster named Ford, and over the roar of the motors and the storm told him to throw out the gasoline drums.

The radioman strapped on his parachute, tied heavy rope around his waist, and lashed it to the plane floor, unloosened the drums, and began rolling them, one by one, thru the door.

A sudden gust knocked the plane aside like a giant brushing a fly from his face. The radioman flew thru the door. The rope held. He dangled in the air. The plane fought on.

Blown Back Inside

Another gust caught the plane. The radioman flicked thru the air like a fly on a fishing line. He smacked into something solid. It was the plane floor.

The plane, minus its load, made its base.

But the storm was one of the worst the ATC pilots have known while flying "the Hump," the route across the Himalaya mountains between India and China.

Somewhere else in the storm Lt. Joseph Dechene, Auburn, Me., had both of his engines cut out by the ice. But instead of falling the plane rose—from 15,000 to 20,000 feet.

At 20,000 the wind blew the plane clear of the storm. And as the ship went into a glide the engines caught again.

Finds Men Praying

Capt. Anthony Ball, Utica, N. Y., carried a precious cargo—ATC personnel on the way home. When things looked bad he went into the passenger cabin to tell the boys to jump. He found them all on their knees praying. He went back to the cockpit. The plane came thru.

But that night 15 of the planes that left to tackle the Hump did not come back. Most of the crews bailed out and three-fourths of these eventually will return to their base.

The flyers respect the Hump. On a nice day she's beautiful. But when she gets mad there is no stretch of air on earth that can beat down the most powerful plane as she can.

Stories of horror over the Hump are legion. The other day Flight Officer Irwin Cole, Chicago, lost both engines of his gasoline laden plane but still set it down safely. He found a rice paddy and slid the plane in.

Speed Pins Men to Wall

A C-54 four engined plane was caught in a downdraft. The pilot, Flight Officer James Mayfield, estimated the air speed at 600 miles per hour. He ordered the crew to jump, but the speed was so terrific the men were pinned to the wall. After a dizzy 15,000 foot fall the plane straightened out. Mayfield brought it home, twisted and torn.

After 14 months as gunner in the southwest Pacific Sgt. William Voght hoped for peace on the Hump. But on his first trip the gasoline tanker on which he was radioman also was caught in a downdraft.

As the plane straightened it seemed to graze the side of a mountain. Voght swore he felt the plane bump the ground. When they landed he found one engine cowling smashed and caught on the fuselage were twigs, blades of grass, and dirt.

TITO INDICATES WILLINGNESS TO DISCUSS TRIESTE

LONDON, May 21 (AP)—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia appeared tonight to have eased diplomatic and military tension over the occupation of Trieste and its surrounding area, possibly under Moscow prompting.

Diplomatic sources with contacts in the British foreign office described the situation as "definitely improved" and there was a disposition to regard the problem as ripe for an early solution.

Already, Tito was withdrawing his troops from southern Austria, one of the points of dispute.

Yugoslav occupation headquarters had been withdrawn from Trieste, altho the military situation there was unchanged with both British and Yugoslav troops occupying the Adriatic port.

[Another dispatch said that Americans of the 91st infantry division also are in the Trieste area.]

Slavs Make Two Points

Diplomatic channels said it had become quite clear in the last 24 hours that the Yugoslavs were prepared to seek a solution without armed force; and that Tito's government had indicated a willingness to discuss the question with the allies.

The communist daily, Dorba, published in the Yugoslav capital, said in an editorial broadcast by the Belgrade radio that the Yugoslav government had stressed these two points:

"First, that it does not intend to annex these territories unilaterally before a peace conference that will finally settle the question of Slovene coast line and Trieste; i. e., before the possibility of a direct agreement between Italy and Yugoslavia.

"Second, that for these reasons Yugoslavia is prepared to discuss the situation . . . so as to find, in agreement with the allies, a solution that will satisfy both parties and will not be contrary to the interests of the population of these territories."

Thru Diplomatic Channels

It was regarded by persons familiar with the British foreign office that the settlement of the immediate question of occupation would be thru diplomatic channels rather than military.

There was no immediate official confirmation of reports by the Belgrade radio that direct negotiations had been opened with the Italian government in regard to Trieste, but diplomatic sources accepted them as authentic.

A dispatch from Trieste said that there was no relaxation of Yugoslav military control within the city despite the removal of the main headquarters.

It appeared likely in London that the Yugoslavs would press their claims on Trieste, Istria, and on Austrian Carinthia and Styria at the peace conference.

Tito Speaks to Croats

LONDON, May 22 [Tuesday]—[Reuters]—Marshal Tito, speaking last night in Zagreb, capital of Croatia, and quoted by Yugoslav radio, said "this new Yugoslavia was not created at a round table—it was created thru four years of tortures endured by our peoples."

For four years, Tito said, the people of Zagreb were told the lie that the Partisans were the vanguard of Serbia with greater Serbian tendencies—just as they lied in Belgrade that the Partisans, headed by a Croat, were the vanguard of the greater Croat idea.

"We are now given the opportunity of proving that we are prepared at the price of sacrifice to preserve the achievements for which the best sons of all the peoples of Yugoslavia have given their blood and lives—what has been achieved has been achieved for good and there is no power which could take it from us."

DANISH NAZIS FAIL IN PLOT TO KILL MINISTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 21—Members of the notorious Hipo corps [Danish Nazis] tonight attempted to assassinate a newly appointed government minister, Frode Jacobsen, who had been a leader of the resistance movement. The Hipos approached Jacobsen's home in taxicabs, but fled when the minister's bodyguard opened fire.

Speaking at a liberty rally of 200,000 persons, Svend Wagner, chief of the resistance groups, said:

"I think you will agree that it's absurd to give up the weapons we have kept ready for the fight for liberty. It must be parliament's task to make possession of arms legal. An armed resistance movement can never be a threat to Danish democracy. On the contrary, it's a guarantee that democracy will be preserved and developed." His statement was wildly cheered.

PARIS POSTERS DEMAND SAAR BE GIVEN FRANCE

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—Placards calling for restoration of the coal producing Saar valley to France appeared today on Paris billboards. They were distributed by an organization listed as the French Saar association.

"When France was strong the Saar was French" and "For security of country and that of our children the Saar must be French," the placards read.

The French government has formally announced that it expects the Saar to come within the French zone of occupation.

IKE'S CHICAGO DOUBLE ACTS AS NAZIS' TARGET

'Five Star' Colonel Only Intercepts Salutes

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—A gigantic hoax perpetrated by the Germans at the time of the Ardennes offensive last December was taken so seriously by the allied command that a double replaced

Gen. Eisenhower

Lt. Col. Smith

Gen. Eisenhower in the general's official car, and a drastic curfew was clamped on the Paris area to foil would be nazi assassins.

The American officer who volunteered to serve as a decoy and occupy Eisenhower's official car on trips between St. Germain and Versailles was Lt. Col. Baldwin B. Smith, 1127 Oakdale av., Chicago, who bears a striking resemblance to the allied commander in chief.

In an atmosphere of increasing intensity, military police had patroled the streets of the capital, and at least 43 road blocks had been set up covering all approaches to the city.

Top Secret Revealed

The story of the nazi "plot" to kill Eisenhower and other high ranking allied officers—one of the top secrets of the European theater—became public property only last Thursday, after the United States 7th army captured Lt. Col. Otto Skorzeny, aid to Gestapo Chief Himmler.

Censors permitted the disclosure that Skorzeny, who effected the spectacular rescue of Mussolini from Italian custody in 1943, was reported to have planned to lead a band of picked killers wearing American uniforms in a bold foray into the allied rear at the height of Von Rundstedt's "bulge" offensive.

Evidence has been obtained which shows conclusively that the Nazis planted the story of the assassination plan among their own forces to boost their morale and to sow confusion among the allies, who were certain to get wind of it.

WIFE UNDERSTANDS NOW

It was news but no surprise to Mrs. Esther M. Smith, 1127 Oakdale av., to learn yesterday that her husband had been Gen. Eisenhower's double. She said the family and friends often had noted the resemblance between the two.

The announcement that Col. Smith had posed as the general explained to Mrs. Smith what he meant when he wrote that he was proud of a new assignment, calling it "exciting and thrilling."

Col. Smith, who had been in the Illinois national guard for 19 years when he went on active duty in February, 1940, is 5 feet 9 inches tall and of stocky build, his wife said. He has large brown eyes and light brown hair.

GOERING NURSE LEADS YANKS TO $1,000,000 CANVAS

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, May 21 (AP)—A prize painting from Hermann Goering's art collection—valued by United States army art experts at $1,000,000—was recovered tonight. Jan Vermeer's 17th century "Christ and the Adultress" was found in the possession of Choista Gormans, Mrs. Goering's nurse.

The discovery was made in Schloss Fisch Horn, near the Zellam See, where Goering's wife has been staying. Evidence had been found in Goering's luxury railroad cars that the Dutch artist's painting was somewhere in the vicinity. Goering's wife denied any knowledge of it. As Capt. Harry Anderson, Ossining, N. Y., walked downstairs, the nurse followed him and said:

"If you're collecting all of Goering's paintings perhaps you'd better take mine."

The nurse went to her room and pulled out a four-foot length of stove pipe wrapped in a blanket. "I don't know what it is," she said. "He just told me to keep this and I'd never have to worry for money again the rest of my life." Anderson unwrapped the blanket and found Vermeer's masterpiece wrapped around the stove pipe.

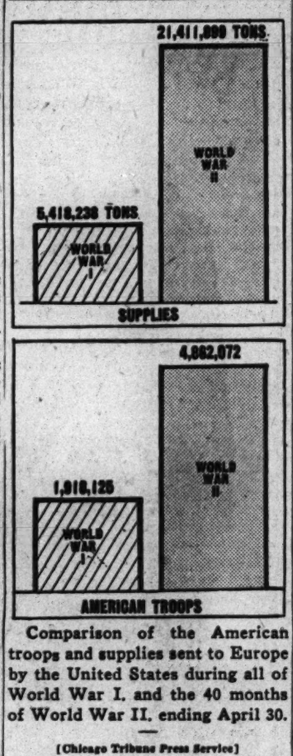
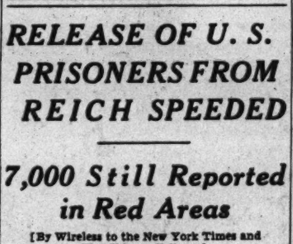
War Contrast





Comparison of the American troops and supplies sent to Europe by the United States during all of World War I, and the 40 months of World War II, ending April 30.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

PARIS, May 21—Ten times as many motorized vehicles, more than twice as many soldiers and four times the quantity of supplies were brought to Europe between January, 1942, and April 30 of this year as during the first World war, headquarters of the communications zone of the European theater of operations announced today.

Unloaded were 21,411,899 tons of supplies as against 5,418,238 tons in the last war. The more than 60,000 port soldiers debarked 4,862,072 American troops in this war as compared with 1,918,125 in World War I.

In the last war the cargo was chiefly quartermaster supplies. In this one ordnance amounted to 34 per cent and quartermaster and engineers 28 and 10 per cent respectively. Transportation, signal, and air forces equipment accounted for 3 per cent each and chemical warfare service 1¼ per cent. Medical corps and army exchange service had less than 1 per cent of the total.

RELEASE OF U. S. PRISONERS FROM REICH SPEEDED

7,000 Still Reported in Red Areas

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, May 21—Of the 75,850 American prisoners of war of the reich in March, 62,960 had been evacuated by air by May 17, supreme headquarters said today. Another source reported that the Americans had begun to leave the zone occupied by the Russian army and that by last Saturday there were only 7,000 Americans still in that area.

About 1,500 transport bombers are being used and as many as 26,000 prisoners have been evacuated by air in one day. In addition to the American prisoners, 130,140 British, 603,940 French, and a number of Belgian and Dutch nationals have been evacuated from the reich.

All the Americans, 118,900 British, and 99,270 French have been evacuated by air. The French total includes a number of displaced French civilians.

By May 17 there were still 69,360 Britons and 150,660 French remaining in prison camps in Germany, altho they, like the Americans, are being evacuated as speedily as possible.

The number of British and French soldiers held by the enemy was, of course, far higher than the number of American prisoners. Figures for the middle of March when Gen. Eisenhower opened his final assault into the reich show 75,850 Americans, 199,500 British, and 754,600 French prisoners of war in Germany.

FALLS 3 MILES OVER BERLIN AS HE FIXES CHUTE

U. S. STRATEGIC AIR FORCE IN EUROPE HDQ., May 21 (AP)—Lt. John Morgan, Amarillo, Tex., 8th air force bomber pilot and holder of the congressional medal of honor, today described how he escaped death when his flying Fortress exploded at 20,000 feet in the second daylight raid on Berlin on June 3, 1944. Morgan, who spent 14 months in German prison camps, was liberated when the Russians overran Stalag luft 1 at Barth, on the Baltic.

The 200 pound airman said he was hurled thru the fuselage with his parachute clutched beneath his arms and fell more than three miles before he could attach it.

Three Seconds to Spare

"Three or four seconds after it popped open I landed on top of a tree," Morgan said. "I fell out of it, about 30 feet, and landed on my feet. It felt as if I had busted every bone in me. What a jolt!"

The 30 year old Texan praised Maj. Fred Rabo, Chicago, who was at the controls as the bomber led a formation over Berlin.

"They should create a brand new decoration for him," Morgan said. "They can't come too high for the job he did.

"We were bombing thru the clouds. The flak was bad, and we got hit several times as we swung onto the bombing run. I was standing between the pilots' seats.

Afire, Go on Bombing

"Flak set two engines on fire and the ship was getting out of control. Maj. Rabo fought it and told the navigator, 'Be sure and get the bombs right on the target.'

"We waited and waited and finally got the bombs away in the right place. Maj. Rabo then gave orders to bail out. 'Everybody get the hell out of here,' he said."

Morgan said only four of 12 men on the bomber survived.

He was awarded the medal of honor in 1943 when as a flight officer and co-pilot of a Fortress he held his wounded and delirious pilot off the controls for an hour and single handedly brought the damaged bomber onto the target at Hannover.

The interphone lines had been knocked out by enemy fire and he was unable to summon help. The crew dropped the top turret gunner out by parachute after his arm had been severed by fighter shells. The gunner had agreed to the action, realizing it was his only chance of survival. He landed in Germany and lived.

24 YANKS, BACK FROM OVERSEAS, HURT IN WRECK

Piqua, O., May 21 (AP)—Twenty-four soldiers, all veterans of two or more years of overseas service, were injured today when a troop train was derailed on an embankment near downtown Piqua.

There was no immediate explanation of the derailment. Eight cars of the 14 car westbound train were derailed, two of them plunging down a 20 foot embankment, and three others falling part way down the fill.

Among those hurt on the train, en route to Camp Atterbury, Ind., were listed Pfc. Narl Avery of New Albany, Ind., and Corp. John A. Tyler of Jeffersonville, Ind.

Swiss and Allies Agree on Minor Border Traffic

LONDON, May 21 [Reuters]—An agreement signed in Berne today between allied military authorities and Switzerland provides for "small frontier traffic" along Switzerland's southern and southeastern borders, Swiss radio reported tonight. It will be possible now for Swiss nationals to resume cultivation of their vineyards on Italian soil, the radio said.

FEAR QUISLING SEEKS SUICIDE; STRIP BUTTONS

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, May 21—The metal buttons have been removed from the clothing of Vidkun Quisling to prevent him from killing himself in the city jail here, where he is awaiting arraignment for treason this week.

His guards, it was learned tonight, became suspicious of his brooding. Quisling, it was said, has been pacing his cell, talking to himself in words defending himself for his surrender of Norway to Hitler.

He protests that he "saved Norway from the fate of Poland." He seems to be learning for the first time that his name has been adopted in all languages of the allied nations as a synonym for traitor.

Publicity Displeases Norse

Tomorrow the special prosecutor, Sven Arntzen, is scheduled to tell the press of Norway's plans for Quisling's prompt trial before a jury of three judges and four civilians.

While the government is still in London with the king, the civil authorities here have protested against the publicity given Quisling since the German surrender. They consider him a national disgrace and believe that disposition of him is a national duty that should not attract international attention.

In furtherance of this Norwegian attitude, some of the local authorities went so far as to informally request the SHAEF censorship here to coöperate in suppressing publicity about Quisling. The censorship retorted that its function is to protect military security.

Lord Haw Haw's Boss

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, May 21 (AP)—Edward Dietze, former chief of German anti-allied propaganda, has been captured by Canadian counter-intelligence agents, it was announced today. The dapper onetime radio commentator, who broadcast accounts of the summer and winter Olympic games in 1936, was the boss of Lord Haw Haw, the notorious British traitor.

Twins Reunited

Denver, Colo., May 21 (AP)—Identical twins, separated three years by war service on opposite sides of the earth, were united at Lowry field today.

Capt. John H. Woolnough, who was an instructor in the army photographic school at Lowry, became a B-24 pilot with the 8th air force and flew 30 overseas missions. He returned to Lowry recently to attend pilot officer's photographic school.

Pfc. Charles M. Woolnough, one inch shorter and 10 minutes younger than John, is on furlough after three years in the Asiatic Pacific area as a marine corps photographer.

The twins, 24, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. Woolnough of Aurora, Ill.

REPORT FRENCH LABOR TO CALL GENERAL STRIKE

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—Rumors that French labor leaders were planning a national general strike circulated thru financial and industrial circles today and the belief was expressed that the country approached a crisis in internal affairs.

Officials of the central committee of labor unions said important conferences were held over the weekend but denied general strikes were imminent.

The recent municipal elections were dominated by Communists and Socialists in the original polling. Supplementary elections last week in communities where clear majorities hadn't been established confiremed the leftist trend.

CONGRESS SEES TRUMAN GIVE G. I. MEDAL OF HONOR

Cheers Heroic Sergeant at Presentation

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 21—The medal of honor, the nation's highest military award, was placed on Tech. Sgt. Jake W. Lindsey by President Truman today in a unique and colorful ceremony before a cheering joint session of congress.

The award by the President before congress—the first occasion of its kind—marked the 100th medal of honor to go to an infantryman in this war. Lindsey was flown from Czechoslovakia for the ceremony.

The sergeant strode into the packed chamber with Gen. Marshall. Both wore summer khaki. As they mounted the speaker's dais the general murmured words of encouragement to the sergeant.

Lindsey permitted himself a brief glance toward his mother and father and sister who were sitting in the front row just like the members of Mr. Truman's cabinet. His self-possession was evident when the President strode up.

Audience Rises

Leaning toward a battery of microphones, Marshall asked the audience to rise as he read the official citation:

"For gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty on Nov. 16, 1944, in Germany. Tech. Sgt. Lindsey led his platoon reduced to six from its original strength of 40 . . . intense enemy counter-attack . . . exposed to heavy machine gun, rifle and tank fire . . . knocked out two machine guns . . . altho painfully wounded, he engaged eight Germans . . . hand-to-hand combat . . . fearlessness . . . fighting courage . . ."

As the words rolled out Lindsey's mother hastily wiped her eyes.

Following the citation, President Truman placed the medal of honor, with its broad blue ribbon, around the neck of Sgt. Lindsay. The "one man army" from Lucedale, Miss., gave a brisk salute and Truman smilingly shook his hand.

President Truman, in a brief address, then paid tribute to Lindsey and other American service men for their victory making deeds "in the finest tradition of American heroism."

"Beyond Call of Duty"

He said today's proud occasion "finds us striking devastating blows in the Pacific" and he promised that "we are preparing to strike them later in overwhelming force."

"We have heard in the citation," Truman went on, "what Sgt. Lindsey did. His inspiring deeds on the battle field require no further praise from any man. They stand—with the deeds of the others on whom this decoration has been conferred—in the finest tradition of American heroism.

"This medal, to repeat, is given for gallantry at the risk of life beyond the call of duty. No officer ordered Sgt. Lindsey to stand alone against a company of the enemy. No officer ordered him when wounded to engage eight Germans in hand to hand combat.

"A Flash of Nobility"

"Those decisions came from his own heart. They were a flash of the nobility which we like to think is a part of every American. They were the unselfish valor which can triumph over terrible odds. They were the very essence of victory.

"It seems fitting that in this symbolic ceremony we should honor an infantry man. There is little glamor in his service. He faces not only the enemy before him, but the cold and heat, the rain and snow, the dust and mud, which so often make his life miserable. These things he endures, and rises above them to such valorous deeds as those we celebrate today."

The whole thing only took about 15 minutes.

Later Lindsey said Truman told him:

"I'd rather have that medal than be President of the United States."

Truman is a veteran of World War I.

Guest at House Luncheon

Following the ceremony, Sgt. Lindsey and Gen. Marshall were luncheon guests of House Speaker Rayburn. House leaders and members of the Mississippi congressional delegation also attended.

Today's award marked the 223d medal of honor in this war, including 162 to the army, 33 to the navy, 27 to marines, and one to the coast guard.

At a press conference Lindsey said he plans to get a discharge from the army and that he has had two job offers. He has 140 points, against 85 needed for discharge.

Sgt. Lindsey has a girl friend, Beverly Hargreaves, 19, of Centerville, Mass. Lindsey had sent her a wire but was unable to get in touch with her. Later Miss Hargreaves sent him word congratulating him and telling him how happy she was.

LST Veteran of Normandy Invasion Reaches Chicago

Sets Precedents

The battle scarred LST-512 [landing ship tank], damaged in action at Normandy, will dock today at the Calumet Shipyard and Dry Dock company, 9367 South Harbor, to be fitted out for an exhibit tour of 30 cities thruout the Mississippi and Ohio river regions and the great lakes.

The 512 is the first of her type to come up the Mississippi river from New Orleans, and the largest naval combat ship likewise to make the up-river trip. The 512 began her cruise from Norfolk, Va., and completed the 1,800 mile run from New Orleans to Chicago in 11 days.

Amphibious equipment, heavy guns, and other materials will be put aboard in Chicago. Her shipload of timely invasion exhibits will be open to the public in a series of demonstrations called "Hit the Beach." The Chicago exhibit will run from Aug. 25 to Sept. 3. The crew includes five combat tested Chicagoans, Irwin J. Schiff, Joseph B. Bondi, Aloyzy D. Caffill, Robert J. Canavan, and Raymond F. O'Malley.

Lawyers Honor Circuit Judge

Handles 5,000 Cases

Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, veteran Circuit court jurist, was honored yesterday by attorneys, friends, and well wishers who gathered in his courtroom on the completion of Judge Klarkowski's second year in the assignment branch. Atty. Royal W. Irwin, acting as master of ceremonies, presented the judge with a gold watch and a scroll attesting to his handling of 5,000 cases in the last two years. Among speakers who paid tribute in the flower decked courtroom were Corporation Counsel Hodes and Judge Robert E. Crowe, head of the law division of the Superior court.

YANKS OF 40 CAN BE RELEASED IF THEY REQUEST IT

Further Cut in Age Level Likely

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—Army enlisted men 40 years old or more now are eligible for discharge if they apply for it.

The war department announced this today, barely a month after an earlier decision to allow those over 42 years to leave service.

Further Cut Likely

Moreover, a further reduction in the age level is in prospect, the department said, but explained that for the present it is holding to the 40 year level because release of men younger than that would jeopardize operations and slow down the release of combat veterans under the point system of discharge.

In the case of the 40-41 year olds, commanders will be permitted to hold them for not more than 90 days if replacements are not available at the time the application for discharge is made.

About 30,000 enlisted men in the army are in the 40 and 41 year age group. Approximately 60,000 are 42 years or older. The average age of an army man is between 25 and 26.

Near Original Age

The latest reduction in age brings the level down near the 38 years at which men were at one time released for essential industry and agriculture. That policy was followed for only a few months, being terminated in July, 1943.

The department said the point system indirectly involves age consideration because the average age of fathers [one of the heavily weighted factors in the system] is several years above the average for soldiers without children.

The 40 year level for discharge also is applicable to WACs. In the case of WACs, they must have served one year or more, either in the United States or overseas. About 8,000 WACs are eligible under this provision.

Name Two New Directors of The Tribune Company

Elbert Antrim, business manager of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mrs. Peter Miller were elected directors of The Tribune company yesterday at the annual stockholders' meeting in Tribune Tower. Mrs. Miller succeeds her mother, the late Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms. Antrim's election fills the vacancy created by the death of Daniel M. Deininger, retired auditor and controler of THE TRIBUNE.

OXYGEN BARREL FAILS TO RESCUE TRAPPED MINER

Rosiclaire, Ill., May 21 [Special]—Efforts of rescue workers to keep Hester Holloman, 40, trapped miner, alive by pumping oxygen into a barrel placed over his head failed here today.

Holloman died half an hour before workers were able to free his body from a fall of gravel which buried him to the neck. The miner was trapped by the gravel about 1:30 a. m. at the 300 foot level of the Fairview flurospar mine.

His wife and 9 year old son were in the crowd which watched the rescue work. The body was brought out about 4 p. m. The mine is operated by the Aluminum Ore company.

2 GUNMEN GET $2,528, BUT MISS $10,000 BY HOUR

Two gunmen stole $2,528 yesterday in a robbery of the Valentine Federal Building and Loan association, 4947 W. 13th st., Cicero, but missed a bigger haul of $10,000 by an hour.

John Szyrdlewski, manager, and Miss Olga Nobile, 1301 S. 49th av., Cicero, clerk, were in the office when the robbers entered. One wore a pair of smoked glasses. Both men displayed revolvers.

They compelled Szyrdlewski and Miss Nobile to sit down. Then one robber emptied a money drawer behind the cage. An hour earlier, police took $10,000 of the association's funds to a bank.

2 Slot Machines Seized in Raid by County Police

County highway police led by Lt. John Burns of the Morton Grove station confiscated two slot machines last night in a raid on the Mount Prospect Country club. Harold Willison, 44, resident manager, was arrested on a charge of keeping gambling devices.

GIRL, 15, MARRIED TO TWO SAILORS BY SAME JUSTICE

New Haven, Conn., May 21 (AP)—Police today sought to straighten the affairs of a Bridgeport girl, 15, and her latest husband, a sailor with 11 battle stars.

The girl, whose name juvenile court authorities declined to disclose, married Seaman William O. Beaumont, 21, of Bridgeport, last September. The ceremony was performed here by Joseph M. McGovern, justice of the peace. She turned up in McGovern's office again May 10 with Seaman Thomas Pellica, also of Bridgeport, to be married. McGovern said the license was issued to her under the name of Beaumont and gave her age as 22. He didn't remember her.

Beaumont's mother learned of the second marriage and asked police to investigate. Detective Simon Reisling said Pellecia and the girl were arrested, she as a juvenile delinquent and he on a technical charge of idleness.

Reisling said the girl told him she didn't know why she married both men and said Pellecia admitted he knew there had been no divorce but had been assured by the girl one would be granted soon. The sailor is at liberty on $1,000 bond.

Dutch Prince Reviews Canadian Army in Holland

THE HAGUE, Holland, May 21 (AP)—Jamming the rain drenched streets of this Dutch capital, thousands of Hollanders turned out today to watch Prince Bernhard take the salute of 12,000 Canadian 1st army troops and 1,000 members of the Dutch forces of the interior. Also taking the salute were Gen. Henry D. G. Crerar, commander of the Canadian 1st army, and his staff.

FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH

James Donovan, 42, of the Tonty hotel, 809 S. State st., an itinerant express handler, was found beaten to death and robbed yesterday morning at the rear of 2428 Cottage Grove av. The victim's shoes were missing and his pockets turned inside out.

MOVE IN HOUSE TO CUT FLOW OF SUGAR OVERSEAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 21—A demand that basic sugar needs of American consumers be given priority ahead of shipments to allies and liberated areas abroad was voiced today by the special house committee investigating food shortages.

The group, headed by Rep. Anderson [D., N. M.], warned in a report on the sugar scarcity that even the meager ration of five pounds a person every four months will not be assured unless the administration limits foreign shipments to meet domestic needs.

The report also protested against the government's policy of secrecy in refusing to make public the allotments of sugar abroad. It hinted at the extent of foreign demands in noting that 630,000 tons of Cuban sugar have been tentatively allotted to the United Kingdom and Canada for 1945.

Quota Revision Urged

Its 11 recommendations included a proposal that all foreign commitments for sugar be reviewed and adjusted to safeguard "minimum allotments for United States civilian use." It also proposed that sugar beet seed be sent to European nations, so they can raise more of their own sugar, and that other carbohydrates, such as cereals, be substituted in part for sugar in foreign countries.

The committee urged the army and navy to take all possible steps to conserve sugar. The report disclosed the sugar allotment to the military for 1945 is 1,221,000 tons, a jump of 25 per cent over 1944 use. This, the group noted, amounts to 220 pounds of sugar a year per service man, or 3 times the civilian share of 70.8 pounds a person.

Civilian Supply Reduced

If government estimates of supplies are correct, the group reported, domestic allotments for the last half of 1945 will be reduced to 2,358,000 tons, a cut of 40 per cent from usage in the same 1944 period.

The committee traced the sugar crisis to a variety of causes, many of them from alleged maladministration by various government bureaus.

Among the factors it found have contributed to the shortage are: Over issuance by OPA of sugar coupons in relation to supplies in the 1944 election year; lack of coordination among federal agencies dealing with sugar, a 500,000 ton war time reduction in the yearly domestic sugar crop, and limitation of the Cuban sugar output under a contract with the United States government.

The committee proposed that all authority over sugar, including procurement, transportation, pricing and distribution be placed under one coördinator, and that adequate equipment and labor to boost sugar output in this country and Hawaii be provided. It recommended immediate negotiations for the purchase of the 1946 Cuban and Puerto Rican sugar crops, so maximum imports from there will be assured.

'O GOODY!' GASPS 'THE LOOK' AS SHE WEDS 'THE LEER'

Bacall's First Marriage; Bogart's Fourth

Mansfield, O., May 21 [Special]—The 20 year old girl who came to Hollywood an unknown two years ago and became "The Look" gasped "O, goody" here today as she received a kiss from her bridegroom, "The Leer," after a three minute wedding ceremony in the farm home of Novelist Louis Bromfield.

For Lauren Betty Bacall it was her first marriage and for Humphrey Bogart, who has played opposite her in her two pictures, it was the fourth. Bogart's third wife, Mayo Methot, whom he married in 1938, recently divorced him in Reno, Nev. His other wives were Actresses Mary Phillips and Helen Menken.

Municipal Judge Herbert S. Schlettler performed the ceremony at noon in the presence of a few friends and members of the families.

Bride Wears Pink

Miss Bacall, whom Bogart calls "Baby," wore a pink two piece dress with brown accessories. A splash of lipstick was her only noticeable makeup and she wore a bracelet on each arm. George Hawkins, manager of Bromfield's farm, gave her away.

Hope Bromfield, 18 year old daughter of the novelist, played the wedding march on a piano.

Bogart, 45 year old "hard guy" of the screen, wore a gray suit, maroon tie, and sported a white carnation in his lapel. Bromfield stood beside him as best man.

"O, baby," said Bogart. A little later he was saying "I do," his bride was saying the same thing, and Miss Bromfield was catching the bridal bouquet of orchids.

Coming to Chicago

Bogart said he and his bride will go to Chicago tomorrow and then to the coast where they will complete pictures on which they are working. They hope to start a honeymoon 10 weeks from now.

The Bacall-Bogart romance has been the A-priority item of Hollywood gossip since Miss Bacall's smashing debut in the fall of 1944 in "To Have and Have Not." In the picture she was the character "Slim," but to the nation she became "The Look."

Star in "Big Sleep"

A few months before, she was modeling in New York for Harper's Bazaar.

After the success of "To Have and Have Not," Miss Bacall and Bogart were promptly restarred in "The Big Sleep."

After the ceremony today a reporter asked her wether she intends to continue her movie career or stay home and raise a family.

Bogart jumped in with an answer: "A lot of people would like to know about that," he said, "including Warner Brothers."

"And what do you think about it, Mrs. Bogart?" the questioner persisted.

"I love you," said "The Look," "you're the first to call me Mrs. Bogart."

Gable Goes Camera Shy

Actor Clark Gable, back before movie camera for first time since his retirement from army service, does a coy act for the benefit of Director Victor Flemming and Actress Greer Garson on Hollywood set. At right is Louis Wolf, The Tribune's west coast staff photographer.

Mariner Role

Hollywood, Cal., May 21 (AP)—Clark Gable donned makeup and returned to movie cameras today after an absence of three and one-half years on the war fronts. Enlisting as a private soon after the 1941 death of his wife, Carole Lombard, in an airplane crash, Gable served in the army air forces at home and at British bases until his recent discharge with the rank of a major. In his first picture, an adventure story, he plays a merchant mariner.

SUPREME COURT VOIDS A NEVADA 6 WEEKS DIVORCE

Washington, D. C., May 21 [Special]—The Supreme court ruled today that bona fide residence in Nevada is essential to the validity of a Nevada divorce decree. In a 6 to 3 decision, the court upheld a North Carolina conviction of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Williams of Pineola, N. C., on charges of bigamous co-habitation.

Nevada six weeks divorces which both obtained from previous spouses in 1940 are invalid because their claims to domicile in Nevada were fradulent, the court said. In 1942, the Supreme court set aside a previous conviction of Mr. and Mrs. Williams on bigamous co-habitation charges, holding North Carolina had improperly refused to recognize the validity of Nevada divorce procedure.

After the 1942 ruling, Mr. and Mrs. Williams were retried and reconvicted in North Carolina, with the good faith of their asserted Nevada domicile made an issue for the first time. A trial jury found they had not established residence in Nevada in good faith.

Justice Frankfurter wrote the majority opinion with Justices Roberts and Reed joining. Justices Stone, Murphy, and Jackson concurred in a separate majority opinion. Justice Black dissented and was joined by Justices Rutledge and Douglas.

HIGHLAND PARK OFFICER MEETS HIS SON, AGED 3

Capt. Joseph M. Collins, 8 N. 1st st., Highland Park, an administrative officer in the army medical corps, saw his 3 year old son, Marshall, for the first time yesterday when he returned home on leave from the South Pacific.

He has been in the army since 1938, when he enlisted as a private. He has been a captain since October, 1944. He last previously saw his wife, Hulda, Feb. 28, 1942. Capt. Collins sailed for the South Pacific March 19, 1942, and his son was born the following day.

After his 30 day leave, Capt. Collins will spend some time at a rest camp in Florida, accompanied by his wife. Altho he has 116 discharge points to his credit, he expects to remain in the army.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY DAMAGE SET AT $545,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 21 — German air raids were estimated today to have caused $545,000 damage to Westminster Abbey. Restoration will take at least a year. More than 80,000 sandbags saved many of the abbey's monuments from serious damage, but five of the abbey's houses were destroyed by bombs — that of the dean, the Cloisters, Little Cloisters, and Westminster and Choir schools. On the night of May 10, 1941, when London suffered the worst fire raid, 30 incendiary bombs fell on the abbey's roof. All except two were put out.

Among items of historical interest which were moved for safety was the coronation chair, in which all of England's sovereigns for 600 years have sat to be crowned. It was moved to Gloucester, while the newer coronation chair made for King William and Queen Mary was taken to Winchester. The main stained glass windows were removed early in the war.

KRUPP SHOVED OUT OF PALACE; PUT IN COTTAGE

ESSEN, Germany, May 21 (AP)—Alfred Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, former ruler of the Krupp armament empire, was evicted today by American officers from his mansion and moved into the gardener's cottage on his Essen estate. The palatial Krupp family home, staffed by 125 servants, was taken over by Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon's United States 22d corps as military billets.

Krupp, who admitted joining the nazi party in 1936 and having become a colonel in the nazi sponsored national flieger korps, is still under investigation by allied counter intelligence and is technically under "house arrest."

The blond, angular industrialist, in frequent conversations with American interrogators, was reported to have urged that "my plants" be allowed to start production on rails, locomotives, bridge girders, and other equipment necessary for the restoration of German communications.

SWEDISH PRINCE CARL ENGAGED TO COMMONER

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 21 (AP)—Defying royal objections to his marrying a commoner, Prince Carl Johan, 28, youngest son of the Swedish crown prince, has become engaged to the editor of a women's weekly magazine and may take her to America to live.

Prince Carl Johan

The prince's fiancee is Mrs. Kerstin Wijkmark, who formerly was married to Dr. Henning Wijkmark, Swedish theologian.

Tell Royal Objections

A statement issued at the royal palace today said 86 year old King Gustav had refused his grandson permission for the marriage and a statement from Crown Prince Gustav Adolf said Prince Carl's engagement had been entered into without his father's consent.

The romance is of several years' standing. The prince and Mrs. Wijkmark, who is older than her fiance, have been friends for six years. Two years ago their engagement was reported in the newspaper Aftonbladet, but the entire edition of the paper was recalled at the request of the king, who even then objected to their plans.

Loses Right of Succession

Under Sweden's basic law the prince will lose his right of succession by marrying a commoner.

The newspaper Expressen said today that the marriage probably would take place in England this summer and that the couple then planned to go to New York, where the prince would represent Swedish business interests.

Joe Simms is typical of thousands of merchants in small towns. He's lukewarm to his suppliers' national advertising because Joe thinks in terms of local effect. Most of his customers live in and around his home town and somehow Joe can't get interested in advertising aimed primarily at the large cities.

A sure way to impress dealers in small cities and towns is to point to your advertisements in PATHFINDER. These business men regard PATHFINDER as the one family news magazine that is published for and read by small town America. They look upon it as their magazine.

PATHFINDER reaches the progressive thinking families in a market that has 56% of the retail outlets in the U. S. A. Special attention to these people through the pages of PATHFINDER pays advertisers well.

CHARGES POLISH DEMOCRACY IS BALKED BY REDS

Free Election Prevented, Says Ex-Premier

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 21—A democratic government cannot be established in Poland until Russia removes from the country large bodies of troops and secret police, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former Polish premier and acting chairman of the Polish Peasant party, charged today.

"Free, unfettered elections can be held only if freedom of speech, press, and assembly are secured and no foreign troops remain on Polish soil," Mikolajczyk said. "In the name of future friendship and collaboration with Russia we appeal for the early release of arrested political leaders and for the discontinuation of persecutions and political terror in Poland.

"We desire the establishment of a truly democratic government in Poland and freedom for the Polish people. We reject a one party government that is exclusively communist."

Praise Warsaw Regime

MOSCOW, May 21 [Reuters]—In an article stressing the accomplishments of the Warsaw provisional government in Poland, the soviet magazine War and the Working Class, said today:

"All foresighted politicians who really desire a firm peace in Europe and who understand the role of Poland, must realize the indisputable fact of the constant growth of the authority and strength of the provisional democratic government. Further support lent to the camp of reactionary emigration becomes ever more destructive to the cause of the normal development of peaceful relations in Europe."

HELD IN JERUSALEM
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

A Moscow radio operated by the soviet sponsored Polish Warsaw government said last night that a number of Polish army officers who opposed the exiled Polish government in London had been imprisoned in Jerusalem by London Polish military authorities.

Press for Action

San Francisco, Cal., May 21 (AP)—The Polish American congress today accused the soviet union of violating international law, and asked the United States government to denounce the Yalta decisions affecting Poland.

Claiming that it represents 6,000,000 American citizens of Polish descent, the congress declared the London Polish regime was the only legal government of Poland and should be represented at the united nations conference.

CHICAGO AREA MEN DECORATED FOR GALLANTRY

New York, May 21 (AP)—Ninety-seven members of the crew of the U. S. S. Franklin, which limped home after a Japanese bombing attack, today were decorated aboard the carrier's torn and charred flight deck for gallantry in action.

Twelve navy crosses, 16 silver stars, and 69 bronze stars were presented the officers and men who battled fire and explosion to keep the ship afloat.

Among those decorated:

Silver star: Lt. [j. g.] Ernest A. Swanson, 1621 23d st., Sioux City, Ia.; Seaman 1st Class Norman C. Mayer, 2504 S. Pulaski rd., Chicago, Ill.

UPHOLD POLISH FREEDOM, AID TELLS ALLIES

Calling for a moral unity of the western democracies to uphold Poland under soviet domination as they did under German rule, Lt. Arnold Ronke, Polish commando and paratrooper, yesterday called attention to the plight of the Polish army which finds the homeland it fought for still not free altho there is peace in Europe.

Lt. Ronke, who said he is a spokesman for the Polish army of 180,000 men stationed in Holland, Germany, Italy, and the Middle East, said the Polish soldiers are bitterly disillusioned at the futile end of their long battle. Ronke is in Chicago to help raise funds for aiding Poles impressed into the German army and liberated by allied troops. He is making speeches under the auspices of the Committee of Friends of Polish Soldiers.

Ronke refused to comment on the uses to which the Polish troops might be put with their country under soviet control and with no Nazi foe. He pointed out, however, that statements have been published saying the Polish troops will not be used against the Japs, and that the army is being increased to 250,000 men.

ARREST 5 PUPILS IN BLUE ISLAND CAR THIEF GANG

The smashing of another band of young auto thieves, four of its members pupils in the Blue Island High school, was disclosed yesterday by the state's attorney's office.

The arrests were brought about after the seizure Sunday night of Ronald Muller, 17, of 10248 Eggleston av., a student in the Chicago Vocational school, in a stolen car. Others arrested yesterday, all residents of Blue Island and students in the suburb's high school, were Muller's cousin, Harold Muller, 16, of 2529 Cochran st., who admitted acting as "lookout" during nine auto thefts; James Mahar, 15, of 2549 Cochran st., two car thefts; James Sullivan, 16, of 2438 Cochran st., seven thefts; and Richard Wood, 15, of 2524 Lewis st., four thefts.

NEGRO LEADER HITS POLICY OF U. S. AT PARLEY

Walter White of New York, national executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged last night that the American state department at the San Francisco conference has not kept faith with the darker races on colonial issues. He spoke before an audience of 3,000 in Du Sable High school auditorium, 49th and State sts. White said the United States has sided with the colonial powers, such as France and Great Britain, in denying colonial peoples the right of participation in government.

HISTORIAN STUMPED BY ALLIED FAILURE TO PROTECT POLAND

San Francisco, Cal., May 21—Dr. Oscar Halecki, a history professor from Fordham university, New York City, who has written books on eastern Europe, said today it has become more difficult for him to understand the subject since the convening of the San Francisco security conference.

"I am perplexed by many questions which can't be answered by history," he said at a press conference held in the Palace hotel by the Polish American Congress, Inc. "For example, why has not one of the allied nations at the conference asked the obvious question: 'Why isn't the legal government of our ally, Poland, represented here?'

"The 'Cursed line,' which some people call the 'Curzon line,' is another puzzle. Why did some of Poland's allies draw this line to give Russia a piece of Polish territory, which has a Russian population of only 1 per cent?

"It also causes a historian some wonderment when he hears that Russia is asking for independence for colonial peoples, such as the Burmese. Why does Russia not give independence to Esthonia and the Baltic countries, a historian must ask?"

SPANISH GROUP ASSAILS FRANCO AT CONFERENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 21—Five men representing the Spanish committee of liberation, which has headquarters in Mexico and says it embraces "the five large political parties which formed the revolutionary committee of 1930 and which in 1931 set up the first government of the Spanish republic," excoriated Gen. Franco before 150 newspaper men and lobbyists today at a press conference held in a hotel here.

Alvaro de Albornoz of the left Republican party, who was chairman, dodged a question as to whether the Spanish Communist party had any connection with his committee, or junta.

He referred questioners to a statement which said the junta would support any Spanish government in which all political parties were represented. He admitted his junta's objectives are the same as those of the "friends of the Spanish republic," a lobbying organization of left wing Americans which has many supporters among fellow-travelers and pro-communist newspapers here.

POLES REVEAL QUESTIONS PUT TO 16 CAPTIVES

New York, May 21 [Special]—The Polish telegraph agency, in a London dispatch, today made public the text of a soviet questionnaire which was said to have been presented to the 16 Polish resistance leaders arrested late in March by the soviet.

The Polish government has charged its underground officials were seized by the Russians when they accepted an invitation for political talks.

Party's History Asked

The questionnaire, which, it was said, was handed to the underground chiefs individually by the soviet representatives, a Col. Pimenov, asked:

1. Political affiliation of the individual leader.
2. Outline of his party's history and influence.
3. Party's program and basic principles.
4. Internal political organization of party.
5. Publications of the party since 1939, under German occupation.
6. Names of professional, sports, educational, and cultural organizations attached to the party in 1939 and since.

Activities Questioned

7. Political activities of the party and its branches.
8. Military activities of the party, including number of units registered in the underground home army.
9. List of party members arrested in Poland by the Red army in 1939.

According to the dispatch, the questionnaire was filled out by the Poles and handed to Col. Pimenov last March 28 by the underground Polish vice premier, Jan Jankowski, the same day all the Poles who met with Pimenov were arrested.

WOMAN TRIPS BEFORE TRAIN; FOOT IS CUT OFF

A woman identified by police as Catherine Ptasic, 22, of 2006 S. May st., was in serious condition yesterday in Southtown hospital after being struck by an Indiana Harbor Belt railway freight train at 54th st. and Kilpatrick av. Her left leg was severed above the ankle and she suffered a possible skull fracture and internal injuries. Harvey Jordan, 2750 S. Tripp av., engineer of the train, said the woman stumbled on a rail and he was unable to stop his train. She was taken to the hospital by Chicago Lawn police. Hospital attendants said she had not regained consciousness and her condition was grave.

TRUMAN ORDERS STETTINIUS TO CAPITAL PARLEY

Little Nations Rebel at Conference Plans

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 21—Amid general fighting on the peace front today State Secretary Stettinius was recalled to Washington temporarily from the international conference to abolish war.

President Truman sent for his secretary of foreign affairs for conference on urgent matters that could not be dealt with by telephone.

"I will return to Washington this week for a day or two of consultation with President Truman and state department officials on a variety of subjects not related to the conference," Stettinius said.

Asked About Truman Trip

Asked if President Truman will return to San Francisco with him or will come later for the conclusion of the conference the state secretary replied:

"I am not commenting."

During the absence of Stettinius Chinese Foreign Minister Soong will be the only one of the four co-presidents of the conference on the job. The other two—Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov and British Foreign Secretary Eden—have returned home.

It is inferred from his statement that Stettinius has been summoned to Washington for discussion of the crises in Europe, including the Polish dispute and the clash between the American and British forces on the one hand and Yugoslavian Marshal Tito over the latter's occupation of Trieste and part of Austria.

Seek Limit on Speeches

The steering committe sought to speed the work of the conference with a recommendation that speeches in committee be limited to two for each delegate on each subject, 10 minutes for the first, 5 minutes for the second. There will be no roll calls except in the final plenary session, which Stettinius thought would be "the early part of June."

Controversy raged in three conference committees. When the committee on regional arrangements for peace enforcement met tonight, Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] presented the agreement reached by the Big Five powers last night under which the Pan-American system of collective security is integrated with the machinery of the world peace league.

Vandenberg made a speech intended to speed the agreement thru the committee and was commended in a seconding speech by Australian Foreign Minister Evatt. The Latin-Americans, who had fought any impairment of the Monroe Doctrine and the act of Chapultepec, providing for hemisphere security, professed themselves satisfied with the compromise.

Arab Delegate Asks Time

Just when the agreement was sliding smoothly to approval, up rose Egyptian Foreign Minister Abdel Hamid Pasha Badawi signaling a dead stop. He said the Arab nations have a league and a region and a system of collective security and the Arabs would like to look into this arrangement before going any further. So the committee adjourned till tomorrow to hear further from the Arabs.

In the committee on trusteeships Comdr. Stassen labored arduously for a compromise between Russia and China, which have no colonies but are demanding independence for dependent peoples and the great colonial powers, Britain and France, which shudder at the mention of independence and are unwilling to promise anything more than self-government. Stassen thought he was making some progress.

There appears to be little doubt that if any agreement is reached on trusteeships the United States will be able to retain full sovereignty over the Japanese islands it has conquered unless and until congress should decide to place any or all of them under a peace league trusteeship.

Rebel at Veto Idea

In the committee considering the voting formula for the peace league's security council the small nations staged a revolt against the provision under which a great power could veto the invocation of pacific measures to settle a dispute to which it is not a party but a nation in its sphere of influence is a party.

The Yalta voting formula giving each one of the Big Five—Russia, the United States, Great Britain, France, and China—veto power over the use of force to curb acts of aggression was assailed fiercely by delegates representing Greece, the Philippines, Egypt, Bolivia, Norway, Cuba, Argentina, and Brazil.

While the Big Five leaders sat silent, the British viewpoint was expressed by the Union of South Africa and the Russian attitude by its satellite, Yugoslavia. They argued for a "practical" approach and, in effect, supported an appease-

Summerlike weather came to Chicago yesterday with the temperature reaching 85.2 degrees at 3:45 p. m. It was the warmest day since last Oct. 6 when the mercury went to 85.4 degrees. The previous high this year was 81.8 on March 27.

Weatherman E. S. Hanlon said the average temperature this month has been 51.7 degrees compared with the normal of 57.8. If the month is to be average in temperature, the remaining days will have to exceed the normal by 5.5 degrees, he said.

May rainfall totaled 6.50 inches yesterday. This is 3 inches above the normal of 3.50 for the entire month. Clear but cooler weather was predicted for today. The high will be about 60, Hanlon said.

connection with the pacific settlement of disputes.

The Egyptian delegate argued for a majority of 8 of the 11 members of the council to reach decisions but said his country was willing to accept anything that would "soften" the Yalta voting formula.

Yugoslavia, following in Russia's footsteps as always, declared "no solution of world problems could be reached without unanimity of the large powers" and Douglas D. Forsyth of South Africa pleaded with his colleagues for "a reasonable approach."

Under the world peace plan drafted at Dumbarton Oaks the league's security council could employ force to stop an aggression or other breach of the peace only with the unanimous consent of the Big Five powers, which are to be permanent members of the council. The use of force would require the approval of not only the Big Five but of at least two of the six smaller nations which will be nonpermanent rotating members of the council.

Aid to Big Powers

Any one of the Big Five powers, therefore, could veto the employment of armed forces against itself, if it were accused of aggression, or against any country in its sphere of influence.

When it comes to efforts to settle an international dispute by conciliation, abitration or other pacific means, members of the security council, if parties to the dispute, would not be permitted to vote. But any member of the Big Five, if not a party, could veto the invocation of pacific measures or even the consideration of the matter. Thus, a big power would be able to shield from league action another country in its sphere of influence.

The attack on the veto power is directed chiefly at the provision relating to settlement of disputes by pacific means.

Australian Foreign Minister Evatt regards the power to veto pacific settlement so preposterous that he doubts the authors of the voting procedure in the security council knew what they were doing. The voting procedure was left blank at Dumbarton Oaks where the Russian delegation insisted on the power of a big nation to veto the use of force against itself. The argument was that of course no nation, accused of aggression, would vote to turn the international police force against itself. The American and British delegations differed with the Russians on the point, so its further consideration was postponed.

Mr. Roosevelt turned up at the Yalta conference last February with what he called a compromise voting procedure, the authorship of which has been ascribed to various great legal brains, including that of Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter. It adopted the Russian veto proposal relating to the use of force and added the provision relating to pacific settlement whereby parties to the dispute could not vote.

Mr. Evatt thinks Mr. Roosevelt did not understand exactly what he was doing or at least the potentialities of his formula for defeating the entire undertaking to preserve peace by an international organization.

ment policy toward the sponsoring powers.

Floor Fight Possible

But the eight spokesmen for the little nations roared their protests at the veto power provision in terms which momentarily indicated an open floor fight when the question reaches the plenary commission sessions.

No notes were taken, however, and cooler counsel may prevail before amendments to the charter are decided upon in the next few days.

"The veto provision is contrary to the fundamental principles of democracy for which we are fighting," the Cuban delegate told the committee. "I recognize that the Big Five have a special position to protect but there is no need to go so far as to permit one of them to stop the use of force when he himself is an aggressor. The sponsoring powers here must remember that success depends upon the cooperation of the small nations."

Argentine View Presented

Argentina, speaking up for the first time since it was admitted as the 49th member nation, was heard thru the voice of Adolfo Scilingo, secretary general of the delegation, who said he was aware of the "special responsibilities of the Big Five."

"But something ought to be worked out to give the small nations more standing," he declared. "We will support the Australian amendment."

Bolivia also announced it would vote for the Australian proposal which prohibits use of the veto power in the pacific settlement of disputes and permits it only after all other measures have been exhausted to prevent disputes threatening world peace and armed force is deemed necessary.

The Philippines delegates delivered a fiery attack upon the veto proposal in its entirety. It had no place, he asserted, anywhere in a peace charter.

Norway Reserves Decision

The Norwegian delegate, Arnold Raestad, governor of the Bank of Norway, said his country would accept the veto power in regard to the use of force to settle disputes but reserved decision on its use in

END OF SECRECY URGED BY WILEY TO KEEP PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 21—Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] today demanded an end to secret commitments between nations and of nonmilitary censorship and called for an international free press as steps toward permanent peace.

In a senate speech, the Wisconsin senator warned that Russia has reached a dominant position in world affairs and will use that position to industrialize her economy and control neighboring countries.

"She will do this," said Wiley, "over and against our own pious democratic ideals which we feel can eradicate the scourge of war. Russia bluntly implies that the world is not ready for our pious principles, that she wants a free hand in Europe."

To meet the Russian challenge, Wiley suggested a program of "straight thinking, straight talking, straight acting Americanism." We must look after our own self-interest, while at the same time we continue to cooperate with other nations, he said.

"Let us have the truth about the world picture," Wiley said. "Let all existent secret commitments be aired and then let the practice of making them be banned forever an international policy. Let the veil of nonmilitary censorship be lifted by the allies.

"America must also impress upon her allies the absolute necessity of keeping their own people informed of the true facts in the world picture. An international free press is indispensable to a just and enduring peace."

STRIKERS DEFY WLB AS FOOD SUPPLIES SPOIL

Union Truckers Renew Demand for Increase

purchasing from independent bakers. Its warehouse is virtually idle. Carload shipments of food consigned to Chicago have been rerouted to the company's stores in other towns.

The Royal Blue Food stores reported loss of fresh fruits and vegetables thru spoilage altho its stock of potatoes, apples, and oranges is thus far undamaged. Some stores are borrowing or renting trucks and making their own deliveries from the South Water st. market.

Drug stores were less seriously affected than groceries. Walgreen's reported that its drivers are still working. Steinway drug stores have been supplying their needs by pressing private automobiles into service.

Hospitals Short of Drugs

Most hospitals reported ample supplies of food for the time being, altho some were running short of drugs, and faced the prospect of making their own deliveries in private automobiles. Augustana hospital reported it is short of oxygen in tanks. County hospital reported an ample supply of both food and drugs.

Deliveries of mail between branch postoffices in the Chicago Mail Order company store at 511 S. Paulina st. and Montgomery Ward & Co., usually handled in the companies' own trucks, were tied up. Drivers for Sears, Roebuck & Co., who are not unionized, were working.

The army had 100 trucks handling war goods with government bills of lading. Navy trucks also were active.

Fish Supply Reduced

Supplies of fish to retail stores and restaurants were reduced because the fish truck drivers are on strike. Booth Fisheries reported it is making no deliveries, and that it is rerouting to other cities fish consigned to Chicago.

Some fish deliveries are being made by express, and some retail fish houses are delivering their own fish in taxicabs.

Restaurants generally reported an acute food shortage.

Florists were having difficulty making deliveries, and undertakers, unable to get caskets, were delivering them in their own hearses.

Government Threats Jeered

Jeers, cheers, and catcalls from the striking drivers greeted announcement by their union officials of the form government action is likely to take. Mention by Edward Fenner, executive director, of possible cancelation of occupational draft deferments, brought cheers and shouts of "Hooray, we'll be in the army!"

Told they might lose a pay increase of 8 cents an hour, retroactive to Jan. 1, granted by the WLB, the strikers shouted, "We'll get that later!" and roared, "Let 'em keep it!"

A chorus of "no's" greeted a question as to whether they would return to work if the army or the office of defense transportation took over operation of the trucking facilities.

Unionists Told Their Rights

"The army can't force you to work," Fenner told them. "If a boss doesn't want to pay you the money you want, you don't have to work for him. No matter who runs the lines, you don't have to work unless you get what you want.

"The only way to win is to remain on strike until your demands are granted. When an amicable settlement is made, every one will be notified. There will be no return to work until the demands of the union are met satisfactorily.

"A strike is a legal weapon and not a law violation."

He recalled a teamsters' strike in Minneapolis in which the drivers returned to work after the ODT intervened, adding:

"That's been more than a year ago, and they still haven't got what they were demanding."

Other speakers at the meeting included Steve Slahor, union president; Frank Perkins, vice president, and Edward Ragen, secretary and treasurer, who said the union officials will draw no pay while the strike is on.

"Couldn't you have picked some other day to come home with a cold? My bridge club meets here this afternoon!"

Sixth G. O. P. Candidate Seeks Heidinger Seat

Springfield, Ill., May 21 (AP) — Scerial Thompson, 44, Harrisburg attorney and counsel for the United Mine Workers, filed petitions today as Republican candidate for congress from the 24th Illinois district. The primary in the 11 southeastern counties is set for July 31. Thompson became the sixth Republican aspirant to file for the seat left vacant by the recent death of Rep. James V. Heidinger.

BOY SHOT DEAD, 2 COMPANIONS HURT IN MELEE

Howard Cantry, 16, Negro, who lived at 224 E. 60th st., was shot thru the heart and killed last night as he walked with two other Negroes at Congress and Paulina sts. Police, after an investigation, said the shot came from a group of a dozen or more white men who attacked the Negroes as they emerged from the Chicago Mail Order company, 511 S. Paulina st., where all were employed.

One of the dead boy's companions, Willie Thomas, 17, of 4358 Prairie av., is unconscious in County hospital with a severe head wound, caused by a flying brick. The other, Leonard Moore, 16, of 5045 Michigan av., was cut on the head by a brick. He fled to a near-by elevated platform, where police rescued him.

Tells of Friction at Plant

Capt. Jerry Looney of the Warren av. station said there has been previous friction between Negroes and white persons employed at the mail order plant, and that on April 11 the company requested a police detail be stationed near the plant from 6:45 to 9:30 p. m. The detail was stationed there daily until the beginning of the teamsters' strike, when it was discontinued because policemen were needed elsewhere.

Capt. Looney said he believes the group which set upon the Negroes last night may have included employes of the mail order plant. Detectives last night were questioning persons in the neighborhood in an effort to learn the identity of Cantry's slayer.

Girl Witnesses Attack

Ophelia Brown, 16, of 6514 Rhodes av., who accompanied the three victims of the attack from the plant, where she also is employed, told police that as they emerged from the building, she saw a gang of 15 or 20 men, some with clubs, advancing toward them. She fled to an "L" platform. After the shooting, she said, the group appeared to jump into passing automobiles and disappear.

Ruby Thomas, 17, Negro, of 3322 Wabash av., a plant employe, told police she stepped onto a second floor fire escape about 9 p. m. for a breath of air and saw nearly a score of men in white shirts pummeling a Negro. She saw the Negro get up and run. She heard a shot and saw him fall.

Clarence Henning, 24, of 404 S. Ashland av., an instructor at the Coyne Electrical school, told police of seeing two men beating a Negro, who shouted, "Don't, don't," and then ran. There was a shot, he said, and the fleeing man fell.

The dead boy attended Englewood High school. His companions attend Du Sable High school.

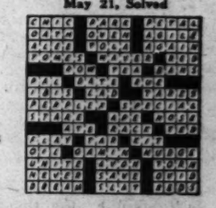
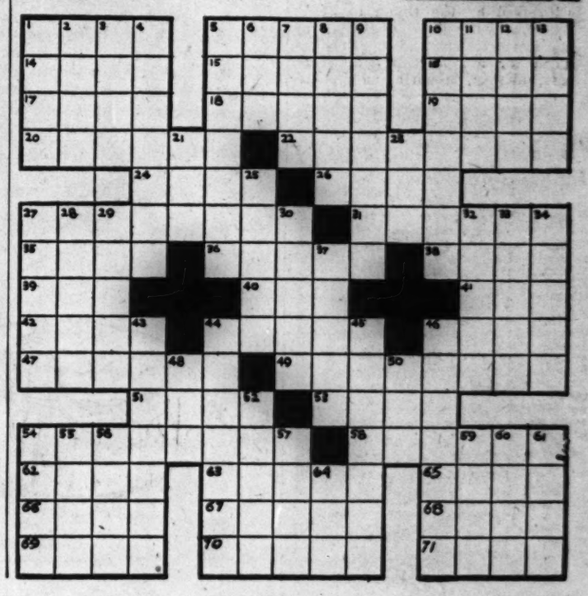
Puzzle of Monday, May 21, Solved





"Willemstad, Curacao," by Clarence Holbrook Carter

Picture of an Important Peacetime Market

Do you realize that full peacetime prosperity and employment in your plant depend on America's ability to do its share of foreign trade?

Practically next door to the U. S. A. lies a rich foreign market of over-eleven million people—convenient Curacao and the other Caribbean islands; Venezuela; the Guianas. Postwar, this area is expected to provide a market for around $500,000,000.00 a year in merchandise of all kinds. In return, this nearby area offers a wide variety of tropical products which are valuable to our U. S. economy and standard of living.

Under the wise Merchant Marine Act of 1936, ships of the Alcoa Line can aid you in serving your fair share of this two-way foreign trade . . . with the promptness, competitive shipping rates and dependability that only a U. S. Merchant Marine can assure.

Free Data Book

Would you like facts and figures on the types of products customarily purchased in this beautiful, close-at-hand, Caribbean area? Write for a copy of "Export Market Opportunities." Address Dept. K, Alcoa Steamship Company, 17 Battery Place, New York 4, N. Y.

Experienced Mates and Engineers Needed!

If you have ever been a deck or engineering officer, you are vitally needed aboard ship. Write or wire collect to Merchant Marine, Washington, D. C., briefly stating your qualifications and saying that you are available. A personal representative of the Merchant Marine will contact you promptly.

Your Merchant Marine saved us during war... let it serve you during peace.

Army, Navy Killed and Wounded Named

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 21—The office of war information today made public a casualty list containing the names of navy men killed, wounded, and safe and army personnel killed, wounded, and missing in the European and Pacific regions.

The list includes the names of 79 from Chicago and vicinity.

The next of kin have been kept informed of any changes in the status of casualties since this report was compiled, the OWI said.

MARINE, SLATED TO RETURN HOME SOON, IS KILLED

Slain While in Action on Okinawa

CORP. OLE EKSTROM, 23, a marine, was killed in action on Okinawa Island May 12, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ekstrom, 500 N. Sheridan rd., Lake Forest, were informed yesterday. Corp. Ekstrom was a veteran of the Bougainville, Guam, and Saipan campaigns, and was scheduled for a return home soon on the rotation plan. A tank driver, he recently had won mention for tracking down and killing two Jap officers.

MEMORIAL services for Sgt. Albert Cundari, 23, of 736 S. Pulaski rd., who was killed in action on April 11 on Cebu Island in the Philippines, will be held at 9 a. m. May 30 in the Presentation church. Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Cundari; a sister, Frances, and three brothers. Sgt. Cundari, who won the bronze star on Bougainville, had spent 40 months in the South Pacific.

MARINE PVT. EUGENE E. HASSELBERG, 20, son of Mrs. Myrtle Hasselberg of 506 Park av., Wilmette, was killed in action on Okinawa May 4. He entered service July 1, 1943, and went overseas in January, 1944. He leaves a brother, Harry, and a sister, Mrs. Peter Cosyn. Memorial mass will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday in St. Francis Xavier church, Wilmette.

SGT. DONALD LEE WILLIAMS, 20, of 2025 Magnolia av., an infantry man in the 3d army, was killed in action May 1 in Germany, his mother, Mrs. Ruth Williams, has been notified. Sgt. Williams entered the army in February, 1943. A memorial mass will be sung at 9 a. m. tomorrow in St. Theresa's church.

STAFF SGT. SAM G. ZAKOIAN, 21, a crew member of a B-17 bomber stationed for 20 months in the Aleutian Islands, has been missing in action since May 10, the war department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Zakoian, 3316 Van Buren st. He had completed 13 missions. Zakoian attended Crane Technical High school and Wright Junior college. He was employed by the Pullman company when he enlisted in 1942.

SEAMAN JOHN PAUL FEENEY, 19, formerly of Chicago, died recently aboard ship from wounds received in the Pacific. He attended Our Lady of Peace parochial school. His parents, Emmett and Bonnie Feeney, now live in Springfield, Ill. Surviving also are twin brothers and a sister.

BOY, 10, BURNED PLAYING WITH LIGHTER

George Moninger, 10, was taken to the Jackson Park hospital, seriously burned on the face, back, hands, chest, and neck, yesterday after he set afire the curtains in his home at 7954 Kenwood av., while playing with a cigaret lighter.

BUDDIES HONOR CHICAGO MARINE KILLED ON IWO

Corp. Jack H. McAdow, 20, of 6413 Eggleston av., was one of 19 marines killed on Iwo Island to whom tribute was paid at a memorial service somewhere in the Pacific recently, a marine corps dispatch said yesterday. McAdow, who was killed Feb. 21 when a Japanese plane crashed on the deck of his LST, was buried at sea, the dispatch said. At the service the name of each of the slain marines was called, and a close friend of the dead hero advanced and placed a small white cross upon an altar.

Actually, the postage stamps we sell are no better than the postage stamps you can buy anywhere. And, frankly, you pay just as much for them at Stineway's as you do anywhere. So why talk about it?

We talk about it because you might feel like Johnson feels.

"You know," he said—"everytime I go into a drug-store to buy stamps—I feel self-conscious."

"Why?" I asked.

"Well—they're so busy these days I hate to take their time on a no profit sale."

If you're one of those tender souls—please buy your stamps at Stineway's, that's a public service we render gladly. And if you're worried about the no profit sale—all you have to do is ask for two stamps. That way we make twice as much.

ROBERT REIS & COMPANY 2 PARK AVE NEW YORK 16 N. Y.

We're curious... so you can be carefree

THEY'RE certainly doing wonders to fabrics these days!

Materials are treated to repel water, outwit moths, resist creases, reduce shrinkage!

Glittering promises attract you on every hand. But, before you make a choice, you'd like to know how well the performance comes up to the promise.

We—at Good Housekeeping—have that same curiosity, on your behalf.

For we want you to regard Good Housekeeping as a source of dependable information. We want you to feel that you can rely upon what you read in Good Housekeeping—whether it's in an advertisement or on an editorial page.

So we refuse to tell you about textiles—or anything else—until we first investigate, analyze, and study, to see how well performance matches promise.

It takes a sizable staff of engineers, technicians, home economists, and researchers to satisfy this curiosity of ours. But we think it's well worth the cost—to win and hold your confidence.

The case of the "Carefree cottons"

There are fourteen pages of cotton dresses shown in the May issue of Good Housekeeping.

Before one page was set in type, we insisted upon satisfying ourselves that these cottons would give the service you ask of them.

To do that, we first got samples of all the fabrics, then washed them—and investigated each for light fastness, color fastness, and shrinkage.

We've named them "Carefree Cottons"—and we're not afraid to do so. For they came through the tests with flying colors—and strictly limited shrinkage.

Will a water-repellent fabric shed water like a duck's back—after it's been dry cleaned?

When blankets are called "mothproof," does that mean a moth will only nibble—or not even sniff?

If a skirt is made of "crease-resistant" material, can you unpack and wear it, with a mere quick shake?

We satisfy ourselves on such questions in the only way we know—by putting things through the double-barreled inspection that is typical at Good Housekeeping.

And what we find—in such studies—we pass on to manufacturers. For we think our service to you can go beyond the pages of our magazine—right into the shops where you buy.

We urge manufacturers to tell you—on fabric and garment tags—how to wash or clean a material, and what you may expect of it, with efficient use. And we are prepared to help them by providing such data.

Costly procedure?

Yes! But procedure that is designed to save you money. To save you time and needless trial and error.

Procedure that is designed to win your lasting friendship, by winning and holding your faith.

Upon that faith, we have built a unique institution. Upon that faith we propose to maintain this institution.

We dress for our readers. Each season we give cotton dresses a vigorous work-out in actual use. These 1943 and '44 models are still bright and fresh, and they still fit well, after many trips to the tub. We predict the same for the 1945 number.

As evidence of our sincerity we make you this pledge:

That at no time, and not for any reason, or any profit, will any page of Good Housekeeping—editorial or advertising—trade unfairly on your trust.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE SCHOOLS?

The National Education association's commission for the defense of democracy thru education has reported numerous abuses in the Chicago public school system. The report condemns President McCahey of the school board for interfering in school management and charges Supt. Johnson with a great variety of offenses, most of them related to the promotion, demotion, or transfer of principals and teachers. The commission believes that Mr. Johnson has abused his powers, and particularly his powers of appointment, to punish his enemies and reward his friends and the friends of important political personages.

The recommendations which accompany the report assume that all would be well in the Chicago school system if Mr. McCahey and Mr. Johnson were replaced with men of a different sort. We doubt it. A review of school administration in this community over a generation invites the conclusion that when school boards, their presidents, and their superintendents behaved more nearly as the investigators wish them now to behave, there was often as much dissatisfaction with school management as there has been in recent years, and often it was at least as well founded.

The fundamental trouble with the school system in Chicago and every other big city is overcentralization. The superintendent has been given more details to manage than any man can handle. This results in an endless elaboration of burocracy and red tape, which only make matters worse. Initiative on the part of principals and teachers is deadened. Honest attempts of a superintendent to improve educational methods are suspected, resented, and sometimes sabotaged. At the same time abuses such as those which the latest investigators have reported can be concealed or half concealed in the burocratic maze. Perhaps the worst consequence of the present arrangement is the helplessness of parents, who are dissatisfied with the education their children are receiving, but can't do anything about it except send protests to the board which places them on file and forgets them.

The remedy lies in decentralization. Let each community elect a board for its school and let the board choose its principal and the principal choose the teachers. There will still be need for a downtown school board and for a superintendent, but their work will be cut down to size.

The superintendent's job will be to set minimum standards of accomplishment for all grades and, by inspection, see that they are met. He will also fix the minimum educational standards for principals and teachers thruout the system. Maybe he can also prepare an eligible list of principals and teachers, from which the local boards will select their staffs, tho it would be better if he didn't. He and the downtown board should also be charged with protecting these people in their tenure. He ought to be in charge of educational research.

The principal business of the downtown board would be to levy a school tax, divide it among the individual schools fairly on a per capita basis, set up new school districts when needed, and establish a salary schedule.

To the local school boards would then be left the details of operating their individual schools. That's the way it's done in the suburbs, where it works well. If the parents are dissatisfied they have a means of making their complaints known and getting action on them. All the furor over excessive administrative costs would disappear. Dishonesty in administration would not disappear, but, perhaps, it would be reduced in quantity and, in any event, it could more easily be corrected when it was merely a neighborhood matter, requiring for its cure nothing more than the mobilization of neighborhood opinion.

The greatest gain, of course, would be in the freeing of the schools from remote control. Absentee management is always second best. Under the system suggested here, a wholesome rivalry would develop among the school districts from which genuine educational progress might come. At any rate a principal could devote the greater part of his time to improving his school and meeting its problems and the problems of its children, instead of having to spend long hours every week in supervising the preparation of reports to be filed away, world without end.

BROOKISH MEN

One of the leading public officials in Chicago was quoted in the paper the other day as saying that he would "brook no interference" with something or other. It set us to wondering whether anybody has ever brooked anything, and if so, what. All the brookers we have ever read about were really nonbrookers, like our friend who would not brook interference. Did any one, waiting for a bus, ever say, "I'm tired and I could certainly brook a seat"? Has any one, facing the necessity of spending an evening with high spirited friends, ever remarked to his wife that he could without unhappiness brook a quiet evening at home?

Possibly so, but we can't be sure. We know no brookers, and, come to think of it, no nonbrookers either, at least in the sense that we have never actually heard any one say that he wouldn't brook something. All the brooking we have encountered has been on the printed page. It is probably an occupational disease of writers.

TWO CHICKENS IN EVERY GARAGE

A member of this department is going to raise chickens. The chickens are already ordered, 50 cockerels and 20 capons, and will shortly take up their residence in batteries in his garage. A battery is just an old fashioned crate coop with a wire floor. If you have ever had anything to do with chickens you will appreciate the floor.

This gentleman is not embarking on his enterprise in any spirit of high adventure. He knows all about chickens. He misspent many a Saturday, 35 years ago, whitewashing the hen coop and catching and dusting the hens. It was his observation then that the chicken is among the dirtiest, stupidest, and most cannibalistic of all feathered creatures, and nothing he learned in the ensuing third of a century has caused him to abandon this dogma. If the boy Audubon had had to clean out a henhouse every Saturday morning, he would have grown up to become an authority on newts and salamanders.

Knowing all this, our colleague now buys chickens. He is without illusions, but not without hope. He has grown accustomed to eating, and in spite of the efforts of the OPA and the WFA, he is still unconvinced that man was intended to be a herbivorous animal.

A good many other people seem to have the same idea. The department of agriculture reports that hatcheries produced 346,621,000 chicks in April, 9 per cent more than last April. If you want to eat meat this fall, it would be a wise idea to park the car in the driveway and put chickens in the garage. If you have children, make them police the coops. No one who has had to clean up after a chicken has ever been tempted to make a pet of the repulsive creature, an important consideration when it comes time to whack off their heads and pop them into the deep freeze locker. The chicken, we mean.

If you have any ideas about fattening your Thanksgiving turkey, don't. By comparison with a young turkey, a chicken is virtually as bright as a fox terrier.

MR. HULL'S HALLUCINATIONS

Mr. Hull has rallied from the illness which forced him to resign as secretary of state and is giving some attention to the proceedings of the San Francisco conference. What is going on there must be most painful to him.

Mr. Hull was a considerable figure in contrast to the nonentities who flowed thru the Roosevelt cabinet. Neither in training nor accomplishment could he be called a great statesman, but he had the great asset of sincerity. He believed what he said and his obvious integrity made a great many Americans believe with him.

He believed free trade would make the world happier and more prosperous, and thereby remove a principal cause of war. He believed in honesty and truthfulness. He believed in good neighborliness. He believed that nations should live up to treaties as rigorously as a gentleman keeps his word. He believed that statesmen who repudiate promises not only are unfit to be called statesmen but are unfit to walk the earth.

Mr. Hull never had any misgivings about entering the war. To him it was a holy struggle against the evil powers to restore light and freedom to the world, and because he is an honest man his observations of the fruits of that war as displayed at San Francisco must be all the more painful.

He sees the Atlantic Charter, to which every one of the united nations subscribed without reservation, made a mockery. The solemn pledge against territorial aggrandizement is being violated right and left, not only by the two great powers of Europe but by the jackal nations which follow at their heels. Russia has taken half of Poland, which the allies went into the war to defend, and the little Baltic nations with which she made solemn treaties of nonaggression. She is digesting her conquests by the same process of killing the leaders of the occupied countries which made Hitler infamous for all time. There is no freedom from fear or want in her concentration camps.

Mr. Hull's dream of international organization has been shattered by the veto clause which makes one law for the weak and no law for the strong. Mr. Churchill is not only fulfilling his pledge that he did not become the king's first minister to liquidate the British empire; he has tossed the Atlantic Charter into the ashcan in order to expand that empire further. The British have their claim to Libya and other Italian possessions in Africa. They beat the Communists to the draw in Greece with a military occupation which shows no more regard for the Greeks' desires of government than is being shown for the people of other Balkan countries by the puppet rulers whom Stalin has installed there. Mr. Eden is quite willing to have an international trusteeship over the Japanese islands paid for by American blood, but he isn't offering to throw into the pot Tarawa, on which our marines also died to drive out the Japanese, nor the Chinese city of Hong Kong, nor any of the rest of the British colonial empire in the east.

The French, who shouted to the heavens against Mussolini's stab in the back after their government had fallen apart in military defeat, moved into northern Italy after the German invaders of that country had been surrendered and Italian partisans had liquidated Mussolini and his puppet army. De Gaulle denies that he is seizing Italian territory. He is merely "rectifying" a frontier. France is sending more troops daily to Syria and Lebanon, and war time republics proclaimed by the peoples of those nations seem destined to be short-lived.

The Russians landed on the Danish island of Bornholm in the Baltic to accept the surrender, so they said, of the German forces there. They show no eagerness to turn the island over to the Danes. Tito, who would be just another Communist bum but for the lend-lease given him by the United States, is at literal sword's points with the British because of his effort to take Trieste and other Italian territory for Yugoslavia.

The honesty and fair dealing among nations for which Mr. Hull was willing to fight is not apparent in San Francisco, nor in the world that jockeys for advantage there. The world law today is that of the wolf pack, and heaven help the wolf who slips, because Dumbarton Oaks won't.

THE MAD KING

Seymour Korman, Tribune correspondent with the 7th army in Bavaria, recently reported a Yanks' sightseeing junket to Schloss Herren Chiemsee, a palace built on an island in a lake. [May 20, early editions.] It struck him and various soldiers, now relaxing themselves among the best scenery in Germany, that this regal housing project was decidedly gaudy, and no doubt it is, for its first tenant was quite a wild-eyed character for the piping times of peace [except for the Franco-Prussian war] in which he flourished.

Ludwig II. of Bavaria, always identified as "the mad king," was a favorite subject for Sunday editors of American newspapers in the good old days before Mr. Korman was born. His eccentric behavior and grandiose ambitions in architecture were often described in "double truck" form, i. e., two pages, facing one another, with surprising illustrations. Mr. Korman's instinct for picturesque sources of "copy" did not fail him when he headed for the Chiemsee.

Ludwig built several ornate palaces, seeking to gild the lily of the German rococo style which had produced masterpieces in the preceding century. As Mr. Korman intimates, his extravagance was not appreciated by the Bavarian taxpayers, who muttered about his mental symptoms for years. He also went off the deep end for Richard Wagner's operas, and fostered the establishment of the shrine at Bayreuth. He was such a close crony of the composer that public opinion became critical of the relationship, and pronounced Wagner an "unwholesome influence."

After 22 years on the throne Ludwig went completely mad and was pronounced incompetent. Shortly thereafter [1886] he died, but not in the bed that the guide at Schloss Herren Chiemsee pointed out to Mr. Korman and the Yanks. [Tourist guides have a notable weakness for regal deathbeds.] He was drowned in another lake, Starnberger, with his physician, who was taking him for a walk. There were no witnesses; the incident remains a mystery. No doubt Ludwig, a powerful fellow, clutched the doctor in a sudden frenzy and jumped into the water.

HANDS TO HOLD

He held her hands and praised their loveliness,
Remarked about their strength and character,
Cradled them in his own in a caress
That made her sleeping pulses wake and stir.
She knew her fingers were forever curved
And sculptured by Tschaikowsky and by Bach,
Twisted to hold a brush and pen, reserved
To paint a portrait and design a frock.
She wondered if their slim transparency
Betrayed them to his quick, appraising eye,
Bespoke their nature inasmuch as she
Had never made a bed or baked a pie.
Withdrawing them, she laced them in a vow
To learn to sweep, and cook, and soothe a brow.

Polishing Up the Fossils

H. R. Jacobs [not J. R.] was manager of the old American theater [May 15], following Billy Emmett. It was formerly known as McCormick's hall. In the early '80s I attended wrestling matches there. Later it was taken over by Sid Euson, who graduated from Sam T. Jack's. It was known as the American theater, not American Music hall.

The Lyceum theater was first the Fox, then the Globe, and then the Lyceum.

NOSE OUT OF JOINT

(A sonnet for C. Middleton.)

My pen is filled, Roget's at elbow, light
Arranged just so, the family in bed
At last, the blessed quiet of the dead
Has been achieved and everything is right
To court the muse, but all to no avail,
The golden thought I had has turned to lead.
I rack my brain, and scratch my silly head,
And chew to ruin my last fingernail.

She brews a pot of coffee, black and strong;
Her pencil poised, she drinks the thing entire,
Then syllables of pure poetic fire
Flame from a spark of genius into song.

I'd not believe it if I had not seen
Such greatness growing from a coffee bean.

Donnafred

Regarding the Lyceum theater of the 1890s: A theater for German performances was established on that Desplaines st. site in 1869 and wrecked by fire in 1870. Then the Globe, which evidently became the Lyceum, was built there. By 1900 it was called Howard's. A Looper

Mrs. F. D. writes: "I am the widow of a World War I. veteran and my only income is from life insurance, paid in monthly instalments over a period of 10 years. This amounts to slightly more than $1,000. Am I entitled to a pension?"

If your insurance income is from a private company you are not entitled to pension, but if the income is from United States government insurance you are, because, in determining annual income, any payments by the United States under laws administered by the veterans administration may not be considered. World War I. veterans carrying government insurance should select a monthly payment plan for beneficiaries rather than lump sum payment because if the lump sum payment is invested the income from investment is counted in computing income for pension purposes whereas payments under the monthly instalment plan are not.

B. E. T. writes: "My only income is $100 a month family allowance received from the government as a result of my husband's service in the navy. We owe a physician's bill of more than $100 and have been threatened with suit by a collection agency. Can any part of my family allowance be taken?"

Payments of monthly family allowances are not assignable or subject to the claims of creditors of any person to whom or on behalf of whom they are paid and are not liable to attachment, levy or seizure under any legal or equitable process. Benefits paid under laws administered by the veterans administration likewise are not subject to attachment.

W. D. asks: "Will I lose the pension paid to me because of the death of my son in service if I am remarried?"

Payment of pensions continues during dependency and remarriage alone would not cause termination of payment if the dependency continues, but there will have to be a new determination of the dependency by the veterans administration.

TORTICOLLIS—DISTORTED NECK

ON each side of the neck is a powerful muscle which extends from the base of the ear to the collar bone. This structure, together with a few of its smaller neighbors, is capable of turning the head. Interference with this function may result in stiff, or wry-neck [torticollis].

Some babes are born with the deformity. It may be that hemorrhage has taken place, following overstretching during delivery. Healing ensues but scar tissue is so extensive that movements are not possible. In others, an abnormal position in the mother's uterus may be the cause. In consequence, the head is bent toward the affected side and the chin is pointed up and tilted in the opposite direction. The shortened "pulley" stands out like a taut string. The victim is handicapped, not only in appearance but because of restriction of activity. In time, other changes are noted. The skull may look slanted and the face becomes asymmetrical.

Mild cases usually correct themselves altho manipulation and exercise may be necessary. By propping the involved side, as the child lies in the crib, the defect often is overcome. Severe congenital torticollis, and those which proceed beyond the third year, may be relieved by cutting or lengthening the tendon.

The disorder may be acquired later in life in a variety of ways. Inflammation in the muscle, subsequent to a siege of tonsilitis with enlargment of the glands in the neck, is often responsible. It also may follow scarlet fever, measles, or sleeping in a draft. If infection is the culprit, the manifestations may disappear spontaneously when the offender is removed. Heat and pain killing drugs give a sense of comfort.

Irritation of the nerves going to this lever, associated with neuritis or rheumatic disorders, may produce contraction and spasms. This type often comes in bouts and, between attacks, the individual will be relatively comfortable. Treatment consists of electrical stimulation of certain muscles, altho surgery may be indicated.

Another form is similar to a tic. The victim has no control over the jerky contractions which force the head to rotate sharply, particularly during periods of excitement. It is no different from a man who is winking or drawing one side of his face up continuously. In the past, girls with long hair used to toss it back over the shoulders automatically. When it was bobbed the habit persisted. These gestures are likely to prove stubborn.

Occupation may play a part. The diamond cutter who turns his head with his lathe may, after several years, continue the motion even when away from work. Before this stage is reached, the employé should be shifted to another routine. When the habit is fixed, physiotherapy may be helpful together with muscle training. Now and then the injection of an anesthetic into the area will ease tension.

BABY SNORES

M. E. writes: Our little 7 month old girl wheezes at times when awake and actually snores loudly when asleep. The sound seems to be in the throat. Some one said it was the thymus and could be serious. Will you advise?

REPLY

The thymus can be blamed for this symptom if other more common causes are eliminated. These include inflammation in air passageways, enlarged adenoids, and occasionally foreign bodies or tumor formation in the bronchial tubes. A thoro examination and X-ray studies will be necessary to disclose the seat of the trouble.

SCARRED APPENDIX

P. T. writes: What is an appendix with adhesions? Must the organ be removed?

REPLY

At some time in the past the structure was acutely infected but, fortunately, healed. As a result, bands of scar tissue formed in the appendix area. This may not be serious unless reinfection occurs. In these circumstances, the surgeon may encounter difficulty in removing it.

HEAT RAYS

M. N. writes: What is the infrared lamp used for?

REPLY

Any condition that is benefited by heat such as arthritis, rheumatic states, sprains, dislocations, bursitis, and backache. These rays should not be confused with the ultraviolet which have an entirely different action.

Bells, Ringing and Muted

If all the bells of England, long known as the "ringing isle," pealed out again the day peace came back to Europe, it must have been a glorious and solemn bedlam. While thinking of this the other day, we sighed for Belgium, for the bells of Belgium, as famous as, if not more famous than, those of England, must have been silent, for none was left to ring. The Nazis, true to the history of conquering hordes, had carried off the bells. As with all conquerors, bells to them were a menace, for the temper of the people lies in them.

Of all the appurtenances of the Christian era, bells probably have been nearest to the heart of man. They have sounded for his worship, his joy, his grief, and his alarm. They have called him to curfew, to arms, and to the grave. From their use sprang the Christian architecture of the spire and the tower, and from their maltreatment—for a bell is personal and feminine — have sprung some of the most beautiful of man's legends: The bells that ring beneath the waters off the Cornish coast in sorrowful memory of the pirate captain who [having stolen the bells] used profanity over them and thus lost them, his ship, and his life; the silver bell of Avignon that rings of its own volition when there is evil abroad; the bells of Sens, stolen in 615, which turned dumb on the road and lost their sound; the bells which rang without assistance when Thomas à Becket was murdered; the bells of Bruges which sounded of their own accord in 1062 when priests, burying a man dead of famine, forbade their tolling because the man was unknown. Bells, to the common man, mean justice and peace and good, as the inscriptions carved on them generally say.

"I praise the true God, I summon the people, I assemble the clergy [begins a Latin inscription on a 16th century English bell]; I mourn the dead, I put the plague to flight, I grace the feast; I wait at the funeral, I abate the lightning, I proclaim the Sabbath; I arouse the lazy, I scatter the winds, I soften the cruel."

The history of conquest has been a history of the destruction or silencing of bells. Thus it was not altogether unexpected that the Nazis should go bell-snatching, altho in some spots, notably Luxemburg, they met such opposition that the bells went unscathed. It was not unexpected, but the psychological effect was extreme and doubtless planned that way, for in Belgium a bell and a town were identical, and he who commanded one commanded the other. In that flat country, where bell sounds travel with lingering beauty and at far greater distances than in hilly lands, the carillon had been developed to its highest perfection. At least 30 of the world's most important carillons were scattered thruout it. For fully six centuries they had survived war after war after war, altho sometimes by a diplomatic ruse, as with the 45 bell carillon in St. Rombold's tower at Malines. During the French revolution the revolutionary council had decreed its destruction, but the carilloneur insisted it be preserved. "Otherwise," he asked cunningly, "how else celebrate la gloire de la Republique?" [He won.] Of Belgium's carillons the most celebrated is that of Bruges, but the most beloved bell is Roland, the great alarm bell of Ghent. It was cast in 1343 and recast in 1659, and the inscription on it says: "My name is Roland; when I toll, there is fire; and when I ring, there is victory in the land."

A month before the peace of Europe was official, a new commission was set up in liberated Brussels, a commission "for safeguarding the bells of Belgium." Its sole duty was to find and restore to their proper places the bells the Nazis carried off. How far they got before May 9 is not known, but unless Roland then was back in its tower, guarded by a gilded copper dragon, it is perhaps safe to say that the people of Ghent did not consider the peace complete. Nor could it be, for as Longfellow wrote a century ago, there must be doubt and anguish:

"Till the bell of Ghent responded o'er lagoon and dike of sand,
'I am Roland. I am Roland. There is victory in the land!'"

A FREE COUNTRY

Chicago, May 17—[News item: Truck drivers go on strike, tying up hundreds of deliveries.]

It's a free country, isn't it?

If a man wants to strike because he feels he isn't making enough money to live on, that's his privilege, isn't it?

If perishable foods are ruined because a man won't deliver his truckload, that's not his problem, is it?

If you've got to use forceful measures to get your wages raised, that's not your fault, is it?

You've got to stick up for your rights.

It's a free country, isn't it?

[News item: Casualties resulting from this war are 14,000 from the one million mark.]

It's a free country.

If the blood that stains an island shore or spills its rich, clear redness over a rocky stretch of coral reef is free. . . .

If the blood that dyes the fields of France is free. . . .

If the endless stream of tears that flows on countless pillows in the dark of the night are free. . . .

If the hopes that fade and die with a tiny slip of yellow paper are free. . . .

If a broken dream is free. . . .

Then I quite agree with you,

It's a free country. E. A.

MARGINAL DIET

Chicago, May 16—The OPA allows us only 50 red points each a month. With the present increase in points on butter and oleomargarine, what is left for meats and fats if they were obtainable?

Butchers are still displaying those beautiful OPA lithographs, educating the public on balanced diets, and those pictures of alluring cuts of meat are about all he can show you, when your number in his waiting line of customers is called.

Not only have point values been drastically raised, but prices have lately increased on most necessities.

It is nice to remember those palmy days before the November election, when rationing was eased to the point of disappearing on many commodities. But if we are to find relief now, it looks like the consumers will have to form organized groups in their various districts to register a volume of protests with their congressmen that will command attention. This might impress the politicians who are so sympathetic to foreign aid that we are now educating Europeans to eat butter and Americans to eat oleomargarine.

CRIPPLED PEOPLE AND STAIRS

Dundee, Ill., May 5—In today's TRIBUNE there is an article concerning crippled people's problems in connection with public buildings.

I am one of these crippled persons, confined to a wheel chair at all times. For this reason I have been barred—unintentionally, but still effectively—from enjoying the benefits of such places as the Field museum, Art institute, and Shedd aquarium. Last fall we wanted to shop in the loop, but were hampered by revolving doors. Most stores have one standard door, but you have to walk all around to find it. At least one store we were unable to enter, and one of the largest department stores can be entered by a person in a wheel chair only by going up an alley first.

There are now plans to erect a new railroad terminal in Chicago. Let's hope the designers will remember the crippled people who find it difficult, if not impossible, to go up and down steps. P. R.

BRIBING THE BUTCHER

Chicago, May 16—The meat situation has become such that certain butcher shops on the north side cater only to a few who tip the butchers in order to purchase meat. One tries to get a small portion and is refused, and the next one comes along and receives from three to four pounds. When the bill is paid and change is coming, the butcher is told to keep it. Much money daily is pocketed by these patriots. Rationing is supposed to distribute so that each gets what is coming to him, so is this fair? I don't think it is.

TAXES

Chicago, May 19—A farm was sold in October, 1944. Who must pay the 1944 real estate taxes on the property, the former or the new owner? A. M.

Ordinarily the taxes are pro-rated. If the sale was on Oct. 1, the seller would pay three-fourths of the 1944 taxes and the buyer one-fourth. If this was not done and the seller simply gave a warranty deed, then he would be guaranteeing against tax liens, and presumably would have to pay the entire tax.

CONTEST KELLY MOVE TO NAME 3 ON PORT BODY

Daley's Bill Countered by Republican

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 21—Whether Mayor Kelly should make any appointments to Chicago's proposed port authority commission became an issue in the senate tonight.

Sen. Richard J. Daley [D., Chicago] introduced a bill for a commission of nine to study Chicago railroad, truck, and bus terminals and report to the 1947 legislature. He proposed that three members be appointed by the mayor, two by Gov. Green, and that the other four represent the house and senate.

Sen. Rice-W. Miller [R., Hillsboro] countered the move with a bill for a similar commission which would have 11 members, none of whom would be responsible to Kelly. Five would represent Green, three the senate, and three the house.

Daley Asks $75,000

Daley proposed that the state appropriate $75,000 for the commission's expenses. Miller's bill held that $50,000 would be enough. Daley is Kelly's Springfield spokesman, while Miller has been prominent in an anti-administration Republican bloc.

When railroads protested, Kelly and Green last week dropped their bi-partisan bill for a new governmental agency to control passenger and freight terminals in Chicago. The Daley bill, for a commission to study the proposal, was designed as a substitute.

Under a bill which Daley said he would introduce tomorrow, the state would appropriate 20 million dollars for post-war development of super-highways in Chicago and Cook county. A quarter of the amount could be spent for engineering services. Construction would not start until after the war and would be controled by city, county, and township officials.

Fight on Slum Bill

A fight against a Kelly-Green appropriation of 10 million dollars for slum clearance was started by Sen. Baker [R., Davis Junction], who said: "It is foolish for the state to go into the housing business. We must stop, look, and listen."

Sen. Downing [R., Macomb], appropriations chairman, protested and Baker postponed the decision, by withdrawing his motion to kill the 10 million bill by striking the enacting clause. It was advanced to the passage stage.

The Illinois house voted 103 to 22 tonight to increase the present five cent mileage allowances by legislators by three cents and referred the proposed boost to the senate. A new attempt to raise old age pension monthly maximum payments from $40 to $50 was rejected along with an amendment to repeal responsibility of children to support aged parents.

FIND FLESH OF 3 SLAIN HUMANS IN SACK IN HUDSON

Newark, N. J., May 21 [Special]—Expertly butchered and packed tightly into a burlap bag, the partial remains of three men—presumably murdered racketeers—came floating down the Hudson river today and were taken out of the water by two guards at the navy medical supply base at Edgewater, N. J.

The grisly discovery, made at 9 a. m., consisted of the hips and other flesh from the lower parts of the bodies, which weighed about 100 pounds. It led police at once to seek a link with the killing of Joseph [Gunboat] Mastropole, 33 year old Jersey mobster, the lower half of whose body was also found in the Hudson at Edgewater on May 6.

Stephen Toth Jr., assistant Bergen county prosecutor, said his investigators were inclined to the belief the four men may have been slain at the same time and that all were "in the rackets."

"We would like to hear," Toth said, "from any police departments who have had racketeers reported missing."

DAY by DAY on the FARM
by BEN MARKLAND

May 21, 1945

MID-MAY usually is one of the most pleasant periods of spring on middle western farms and, altho rains have soaked the ground and delayed field work, not all of the signposts of the season have been obliterated by the weatherman.

Rob Roy creek, swollen by the May rainfall, swishes thru the meadows on the north side of the Fox river and rumbles like a miniature dynamo as its waters splash over the rocks; the massed flowers of the wild crab trees belatedly turn from vivid pink to the dusty salmon color which signals the end of their blossoming season; the coarse gray green leaves of the giant mullein plants sprout from the open areas above the creek; and strong winds cause the blue flowers of the wild phlox to swing back and forth like swaying flagpoles.

Wild Canaries Perform

Tiny ovenbirds, black and white warblers, and other members of the warbler family dart thru the thickets near the old windmill in the east woodlot of the Wheaton farm. The brilliant yellow and black goldfinches, known to farm youngsters as wild canaries, perform their characteristic gliding flights which always remind us of circus trapeze artists.

In the barnyard, the season has advanced to the point which will permit the flockmaster to use his cultivator and harrow as soon as his private garden plot is dry enough to be worked. These two implements had been standing near the fence which separates his garden from his lawn, and two mallard hens prevented him from using them by building their nests under the tools.

Mallards Win Strike

The gardener moved the implements once while the two ducks were incubating their eggs, and the hens showed their disapproval by immediately leaving the nests. No amount of coaxing would induce the two high hatted mallards back to their eggs. They merely walked back and forth in front of the nests, like strike pickets, until the flockmaster put the two garden tools back in their former position. As soon as he acceded to their demands, they returned to the nests and continued the incubation process.

Now both the hens have hatched and are leading their fuzzy, downcovered ducklings around the barnyard, so the flockmaster has their permission to use the cultivator and harrow as garden tools instead of protective coverings for duck nests.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS whose plots were not plowed last fall or during the favorable period of warm weather in March and early April this spring now are anxious to have their ground plowed and disked as soon as possible.

The saturating rains which fell in the first three weeks of May have left many garden sites too wet for immediate plowing, and gardeners who insist on plowing or spading wet soils will regret such action during the growing season. This applies particularly to plots on low, poorly drained areas and to soils which have a high clay content and thus retain moisture long after more porous soils have dried. Gardens plowed when wet tend to pack, and when this occurs it is almost impossible to prepare a suitable seedbed. In addition, the plowing of wet soils creates heavy clods which hamper cultivation during the entire growing season. A late planting in a good seedbed is preferable to an earlier planting in improperly prepared soil.

TAVERN, STREET BRAWL LANDS SIX IN HOSPITAL

Six men, one of whom had been shot in the leg and five others who had been badly beaten, were arrested by police yesterday after a street brawl at 45th and Wallace sts.

Wayne Wellington

The trouble began, police said, when Mrs. Edmund Charniak of 526 W. 45th pl., resisted the attentions of one of a group with whom she had been dancing in Louie's tavern, 4545 Wallace st. Her husband interposed and during the altercation some one ran out and smashed the windows of his car parked outside.

Charniak was said to have tossed the trouble maker out of the tavern. Another fight developed in the street with bystanders choosing sides and pitching into the affray. When it was all over John Bolster, 17, of 4447 Wells st., had been shot in the left leg by a bullet fired by Wayne Wellington, 30, of 6535 Woodlawn av. Other casualties were: John Doak, 35, of 359 W. 45th st.; Carl Harris, 39, of 525 W. 46th pl.; James Halpin, 21, of 4505 Wentworth av., and Gerald Reed, 30, of 529 W 45th pl. Supreme Court Refuses Slayer Bongiorno's Plea

The United States Supreme court yesterday refused to review the trial of John Bongiorno, 36, who was convicted of murdering a policeman in a 1933 holdup and sentenced to 199 years' imprisonment. The court's action climaxes several unsuccessful attempts to obtain a new trial by Bongiorno, who contended he had been denied his constitutional rights. Bongiorno was convicted of slaying Policeman Harry Redlich.

COURT RELEASES DR. G. WYNEKOOP ON SANITY PLEA

Sex Suspect Freed Thru Habeas Writ

Dr. Gilbert H. Wynekoop, 67, twice arrested in Chicago on charges of attempted rape and an inmate of Illinois Security hospital at Menard since 1937, was held sane and released from that institution on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge L. P. Harris in the Circuit court of Randolph county last Thursday, it was learned yesterday.

Dr. Wynekoop, who is a brother-in-law of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, sentenced to 25 years imprisonment for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Wynekoop, has been an inmate of the state hospital since Feb. 3, 1937. He was found insane by County court here after he had been arrested on a charge of attempting to rape a Negro woman who answered an advertisment for a servant.

Indicted for Attempted Rape

Previous to that arrest, Dr. Wynekoop was indicted in 1933 on a charge of attempting to rape a nurse who went to his home in answer to a call. He was found insane by a jury in Criminal court and sent to the state hospital at Menard. He was released three years later, on Oct. 26, 1936.

In the last few years, the physician made several unsuccessful attempts to be released on writs, both in Cook and Du Page counties.

Capt. Clyde Martin, assistant to Warden Edward M. Stubblefield of the Menard institution, said that Dr. Wynekoop filed a petition for a writ in his own behalf in the Randolph county Circuit court and acted as his own attorney at the hearing. No lawyers were present.

Court Orders Release

Capt. Martin said the only witnesses were Dr. Wynekoop and Dr. Groves B. Smith, state psychiatrist assigned to the institution. Dr. Wynekoop was questioned by Judge Harris. He told the court that he felt that he could take care of himself out of the institution. Dr. Smith testified that Wynekoop had shown great improvement recently and said he believed the patient could be released as sane. Judge Harris found Dr. Wynekoop sane and ordered his release.

DROP SLANDER SUIT AGAINST DRAFT OFFICIAL

A $10,000 slander suit against Arthur H. Meyer, member of an Evanston draft board, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti in Superior court.

The dismissal order was entered at the request of Attorneys William E. Kaiser and Cecil Emery, appearing for Meyer, and Atty. William A. Kelly, representing Miss Marjorie De Bolt, 38, of 1614 Sheridan rd., Evanston, who had instituted the action.

The attorneys told Judge Allegretti that the case had been settled out of court. Miss De Bolt's suit alleged that while she was employed by the board Meyer opposed a salary increase and described her as a "Howard st. doxie."

Contempt Charged

MRS. SHIRLEY VOLTZ

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday ordered Wilbur Voltz, 8248 Eberhardt av., to resume support payments of $18 a week to his estranged wife, Shirley, 25, of 7438 Essex av., and their two children, Judith, 2, and Jean, 17 months. The payments had been halted by Judge Sbarbaro April 16 when her husband charged that she was guilty of contempt by removing the children to Florida and outside the court's jurisdiction. The court ordered Mrs. Voltz to appear today for hearing on the contempt charge. Voltz was represented yesterday by Atty. Daniel Covelli; his wife by Atty. Gale Marcus.

BENNY, BOB HOPE, OTHERS AWAIT OVERSEAS CALL

Jack Benny is winding up his series, next Sunday and will stand by for his call to leave on an overseas tour of battle zones. Frank Sinatra has cut his series short and is waiting to go abroad. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy sign off next Sunday, Bob Hope on June 5, Ed Gardner of Duffy's Tavern on June 8, and Bing Crosby on July 5. Several of these, including Hope, expect to go to the Pacific.

Crosby will be off the air May 24 and 31 to do two weeks of benefit golf matches with Hope, one to be played in Chicago. Bob Burns will take Bing's place on the air these two weeks.

Time turned back the other day for Hazel B. Buckley of Elizabeth, N. J. Mrs. Buckley was selected to sing on Mutual's "Queen for a Day" program aired from New York, with W-G-N as the local outlet. More than 20 years ago Hazel Buckley sang over W-G-N and WTAS. Seventeen years ago she moved to the east.

MASSACHUSETTS HOUSE REJECTS PRESS GAG BILL

Boston, Mass., May 21 (AP)—The Massachusetts house today rejected a senate-approved bill which was assailed by one member of the upper branch as a "danger to freedom of the press."

The bill was referred to the next annual session by a voice vote, with only a few members supporting the bill.

The measure would have removed the word "knowingly" from a statute establishing penalties for making or publishing a false statement which is "designed or tends to aid or injure" a candidate for public office.

The Republican floor leader, Rep. John Valentine of Chelmsford, told the house he thought the bill would place members of the house "in a ridiculous position."

Winnetkans Keep Busy in War Gardens

BY JUDITH CASS

IN the few years since some 2,000 Winnetkans turned to war gardening their cultivating talents have blossomed forth to the extent that now many unusual products are being grown in the village, including peanuts, sweet potatoes, and cantaloupes. Because of Chicago's unseasonable spring, the gardeners took up their hoes and spades earlier than usual, and by now tender tufts of green are showing in the village's garden plots, including the largest west of Hibbard rd. and north of Skokie playfield, in which 100 Winnetkans are hard at work.

Mrs. Stephen S. Gregory Jr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Moulding again serve as co-chairmen of the Winnetka war garden committee, which has been under the supervision of the OCD. Representatives from local garden clubs include Mrs. Gregory and Mrs. William Moffat from the Winnetka Garden club, Mrs. Moulding and Mrs. Harold L. Klagstad from the Woodley Garden club, Mrs. Edwin Jordan and Mrs. Thomas Fentress from the Winnetka Weeders, Mrs. William Kelley from the garden department of the Winnetka Woman's club, Mrs. Leon Hamburger from the North Shore Garden club, and Mrs. Hugh Pope and Mrs. Bernard Hopper from the Winnetka Garden guild. The fruits of a spring and summer of gardening will be displayed as usual at a show in the fall.

Six north shore garden clubs will present Mrs. Edward Emerson of Greenwich, Conn., program chairman of the Garden Club of America, in a lecture at 2:30 p. m. today in the Winnetka Community house. The clubs are five Winnetka ones, the Winnetka Garden club, the Woodley Garden club, the Winnetka Weeders, the Winnetka Garden guild, and the garden department of the Winnetka Woman's club, and the Kenilworth Garden club. Proceeds will be used to continue the clubs' work at north shore army and navy hospitals and camps.

On the committee for the lecture are Mrs. Hal C. Kimbrough, Mrs. Paul L. Armstrong, Mrs. Denison Hull, Mrs. Lee Fetcher, Mrs. W. T. Stirling, and Mrs. Allen Bulley, among others. Mrs. Emerson, who is staying with Mrs. Bartholomay Chapin, will speak on "Flower Arrangements in Relation to Home Decoration."

News of Births

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foss Wilson [Pauline Wyman] became the parents of their second son Sunday in Presbyterian hospital. The baby, who has not been named, and his brother, Edon, are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson.

Somewhere in the Pacific Lt. Harmar Denny Ker of the naval reserve will learn of the arrival of a daughter, Susan Denny, May 17 in Good Samaritan hospital in West Palm Beach, Fla. The baby and her mother, the former Marion Gordon, and little brother, Frank Gordon Ker, probably will remain in Palm Beach during the summer. They are occupying the winter home of Mrs. Ker's parents, the Frank M. Gordons.

Lt. and Mrs. Robert W. Clark Jr. [Marjorie Kimball] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Robert III., yesterday in Passavant hospital. The baby is a grandson of Mrs. G. Cook Kimball. Lt. Clark is stationed here with the navy.

Lt. and Mrs. LeRoy Kramer Jr. [Betty Gillespie] have named their daughter, born last Friday in Passavant, after Mrs. Kramer's aunt, Miss Margaret Amsden. Lt. Kramer is here from Memphis, where he has been stationed with the navy, and will depart this week for Quonset, R. I. His wife and the baby will spend the summer in Leland, Mich., with her mother, Mrs. Frederick S. Gillespie, and Miss Amsden. The baby's paternal grandparents are the senior Mr. and Mrs. Kramer.

Today's Events

Members of the board of the Woman's Symphony orchestra have collected rare items for an Attic Treasure sale today and tomorrow at 1006 S. Michigan av. for the benefit of the orchestra. Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll and Mrs. Randolph Bohrer are chairman and co-chairman of the sale. Some of the contributions are a dozen and a half sterling after dinner coffee cups lined with Lennox china, a grandfather clock, a Persian lamb muff, an English baby buggy, early American glassware, costume jewelry, lamps, and crystal.

Miss Rosemary Rice of the cast of "Dear Ruth" will speak at a monthly unit meeting of Bundles for America at 2 p. m. today in the headquarters at 14 N. Michigan av. Miss Rice recently was appointed honorary chairman of the organization's furniture drive.

Here and There

Arriving tomorrow to spend three days in the Drake hotel is Mrs. Herbert T. Edwards, formerly of Chicago, who is on her way from the San Francisco conference back home to Kensington, Md. Mrs. Edwards, executive secretary of the women's division of the national Democratic committee, has asked a few of her closest friends to cocktails tomorrow in the Tavern club.

After a six month residence in the Hampshire House in New York Mrs. William P. Martin has returned to her Lake Forest home for the summer months. Her sister, Mrs. J. Allen Haines, who also lives in the Hampshire House, plans to visit Lake Forest in the fall.

Mrs. Charles Edward Brown was elected president of the Chicago Chamber Music society at the group's annual meeting recently. Also serving as officers will be Mrs. Otho Ball, as honorary vice president; Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mrs. William Saltiel, Mrs. Robert Reed, and Miss Elizabeth W. McCrea. Mrs. Clive Runnells and Mrs. Russell D. Hobbs were elected new members of the board.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 21—Louis Mayer isn't the only one in New York trying to persuade Laurette Taylor to come west for pictures. I've been shouting about Laurette for years, but the boys had to see her in "The Glass Menagerie" before they'd believe me. . . . Ramsay Ames still is collecting gold. This time it's in the shape of a cigaret case from George Jessel. . . . Robert Hutton, in a scene for "Janie Gets Married," ate 10 fried eggs. A GI standing nearby said, "and to think I went for two years without having one." . . . Xavier Cugat's doing the illustrations for Arthur Murray's dance book.

New Tenant, Same House

Jose Iturbi is planning a housewarming in two weeks. He bought the house Evalyn Walsh McLean and Elsa Maxwell warmed for two summers, but which Dorothy Di Frasso kept hot for years before them. . . . Teddy Lynch sells water from Hereford, Tex., so he is giving a water wagon party next week. I suggest they slip a little champagne in the back room, or the stars won't slip in the front. . . . Paul Hesse didn't go to New York to marry Cathy O'Donnell. He went back to see her, but doesn't think it's fair to ask her to marry before she's had a chance at a career, which is coming on nicely. We all met Cathy at Sonja Henie's party. Sam Goldwyn took such a shine to her he put her under contract, sent her back to the New York academy. And after her first season there, she got the ingenue lead in "Life with Father." Wouldn't it be nice if we had more Pauls in this town?

Now You Know the Lowdown

Yes, the Clark Gable and Greer Garson set will be closed 10 days. The studio feared the press would make a rush for Gable, and Missy Greer might not like it. What makes them think in 10 days the situation will be different? After all, Clark's been away—he's news. . . . I doubt if Walter Florell's hats will startle the ladies of our town as much as his two diamond rings. They're the size of dinner plates. That's why he gets a back table at Romanoff's. Even the maitre d' hotel decided not to blind his regular customers. . . . Jack Douglas, who sent me a pig a couple of years ago, is up to his old tricks. He swears he'll go to the top of our Hollywood mountain and restore the "H" to the Hollywood sign. Here's luck!

Just This and That

Phil Harris takes over for Kay Kyser when Kyser pushes off to the South Pacific. Kay's Canadian vocalist, Linda Stevens, is now an American. . . . Both Tamara Geva and John Emery are taking singing lessons. . . . Carmen Cavallero, who shone in "Diamond Horseshoe," is brightening up things at Ciro's, too. . . . Marguerite Chapman's birthday party for her standin had Leslie Fenton washing the dishes in the patio fish pond. . . . I don't believe Eddie Foy will play "Harvey" on the road. . . . Lenore Coffee's daughter, home for summer vacation, is delighted that she was invited back to the American academy in New York for next season.

Knows His Stuff

Smith Davis, who recently bought a Spartansburg, S. C., paper, can really do the life of the late President Roosevelt. I believe he has more real information than any man living, except perhaps Harry Hopkins. . . . Joseph Szigeti, that fine violinist, will do a guest spot with the Andrews Sisters. He has discovered a couple of American folk songs which the girls will sing while he plays. . . . Stu Heisler, before tackling "Blue Skies," took his wife and a couple of friends to Tijuana and the races. Looking over their cards, Mrs. Stu happened to see one nag called Muscatel. She said, "Well, I don't know about you guys, but my father's always had a glass of muscatel with his luncheon." And without saying anything to her, they all bet on it. The horse won and paid off 86 bucks. . . . Irene Ryan, when she wants to remember anything, ties a string around her lipstick, instead of her finger. . . . Vicki Baum says, "The war has taught me I can live happily without a maid. In fact, I write better without one."

Horror Films Offer Spooks in Assortment

"PHANTOM SPEAKS"

Produced by Republic, directed by John English, featuring Richard Arlen, Stanley Ridges, Lynne Roberts, Tom Powers, Charlotte Wynters, Jonathan Hale, Pierre Watkin, Marian Martin, Garry Owen, Ralf Harolde, and Doreen McCann. Presented at the Woods.

"VAMPIRE'S GHOST"

Produced by Republic, directed by Lesley Selander, featuring John Abbott, Charles Gordon, Peggy Stewart, Grant Withers, Adele Mara, Emmett Vogan, Roy Barcroft, Martin Wilkins, Frank Jaquet, and Jimmy Aubrey. Also presented at the Woods.

By Mae Tinée

The movie title, "Phantom Speaks," certainly belongs in the department of understatement. Said phantom not only speaks—he shouts orders and has them obeyed. His stooge is a scientist who sets out to learn whether the dead can communicate with the living, and he certainly finds out. Tom Powers plays the role of a murderer electrocuted for his crime, but, due to Dr. Renwick's strange will power, the criminal is able to come back and direct the scientist to seek vengeance on those responsible for his execution. The two have cozy little chats and accomplish quite a lot before a smart newspaper man [Richard Arlen] catches up with them.

No one in the cast is too bad, but nothing in the plot is much good, altho it should certainly teach you not to go fooling around with other people's minds.

As a kid I remember when we thought "he has a face that would crack a mirror" was a devastating remark, but I never saw it actually happen until yesterday—in "Vampire's Ghost." John Abbott plays the vampire, and his pan not only cracks mirrors, it smashes 'em to smithereens. A little girl about 8, sitting next to me, was extremely well versed on vampires, and when the oily, bug eyed man turned toward the mirror she called the turn—"It'll bust," she announced and sure enough it did.

This particular ghoul had been walking the earth for 400 years and was up to his usual tricks in a small village in Africa. There is much beating of jungle drums and similar hocus pocus, and, after a wearying hour, the foul fiend is routed.

Personally, I would have preferred to be out in the sunshine.

Petersen Foundation Sends $1,000 Check for Camp Algonquin

Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., yesterday received a $1,000 check from the Esper A. Petersen Foundation, which stipulated that the money be used for the Algonquin summer camp maintained by the United Charities for underprivileged Chicago children and their mothers.

"The foundation, established by Esper A. Petersen, a Danish immigrant, recently announced gifts totaling $70,000 to 12 charities.

Petersen, who came to the United States in 1924, is owner of the Chicago Die Mold Manufacturing company, custom molders of plastics, at 4001 Wrightwood av. He organized the foundation "for the improvement of social conditions and to advance good will among men thru education and charity." He hopes the foundation will be able to distribute $100,000 a year in the future.

Child Should Be Kept Aware of Fighting Father Overseas

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

As I sit writing in the familiar surroundings of home, even aware as I constantly am of the war, I still don't think of these words as being read in the far places of the earth. Yet that they sometimes are I have evidence in my mail, which comes from Hawaii, Guam, the Philippines, and other battle areas. A private wrote from the Marianas and, among other things he said:

"I read your article about mothers not letting their little children forget their fathers overseas. I thought it was swell."

At the time of writing that column I made a note to go back to the subject again, so I want to do that today.

There are three angles to this subject, determined by the age of the children: whether they are babies, young children, or older boys and girls who really have lived with their father and so have memories and associations with him of fun and companionship.

The last named really present no problem. It is the baby who was only a few months old when his father went away, or the little boy or girl who was 2 or 3 years old who make their mothers do some hard thinking on the subject.

Yesterday a young mother announced to me with shining eyes: "For the first time, after three weeks of my working at it, Jerry said 'Dada' when I showed him Bill's picture today. You know, when Bill left and Jerry was 6 months old he was saying 'Dada' when his father came home from camp each night. I believe if I keep this up that later, when he hears other children greet their daddies, and if he's learned to say 'Dada' to the picture he'll have some idea of what it's about. And when Bill comes home perhaps it will all slip into place sooner, like the pieces of a puzzle." This baby is now 9 months old.

With children who walk, talk, and have greater understanding you can do more. Certainly a child's father, by whatever name he is called, should be frequently in the conversation when you're talking to him and between the adults in his presence. Fathers might write short letters to these young ones. Other devices you will think up yourself.

Letters have come in about this. If you have worked out something successfully that would help other parents, one of whom is overseas, I'm sure the readers of this column would be eager to hear it.

Fathers overseas or at home will be interested in our booklet, "You and Your Young Child." To obtain it send 18 cents to Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, 11, Ill.

Thru the Looking Glass

If there's one item the fastidious man or woman can't afford to be without, it's a deodorant. We might laught at some of the ads and joke about it, but we'll steer clear of any one who offends our noses and sensibilities with a disagreeable odor which can be traced directly to carelessness in the regular use of an underarm deodorant. We're all aware that the price of most of the deodorants is not prohibitive and certainly they take little time to use. It just boils down to whether a person cares about good grooming and the ordinary standards of cleanliness.

There's a newcomer in the field of deodorants that has all the earmarks of becoming popular. It's the cream variety, smooth and fine textured, and has the added charm of being prettied up with a refreshing, spicy fragrance. Women particularly will like this last feature, and men too, will enjoy the clean, fresh aroma.

However, it isn't only the touch of spice that makes the deodorant pleasant to use. The cream is lightly moist [and remains so after the jar has been opened] so that it can be scooped out in a second. It's workable and spreads easily and the whole operation is over in a minute, insuring perfect protection against underarm odor. You'll be glad to make its daily use a regular habit and be assured that it will keep you fresh and clean smelling thruout the day.

For all its effectiveness, this is a gentle preparation and recommends itself not only for the adults in the household but for the boys and girls who have reached an age where they should start acquiring the habit of using a deodorant every day. LOUISE DOOLEY

ON THE AISLE

Some Ballet and Theater Notes, from Martha Graham to that Eminent Classicist, Bobby Clark

Ballet throngs the distant scene, but it looks like a long wait. In addition to the usual visits by the Ballet Russe and Ballet Theater there will be such exfoliations [fancy for chips off the old block] as the concert troupes headed by Massine, Baronova and Eglevsky, and Markova and Dolin, while Mike Todd has another form of ballet theater in mind and may even conjure up a third when he stars Bobby Clark in "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme." But at the moment I would settle for a season of Martha Graham comparable to that just ended in New York.

Miss Graham hasn't been here for three years or more, and we have a long way to catch up. At that time "Letter to the World" was her newest important work. Now she has half a dozen more, from "Deaths and Entrances" to "Appalachian Spring," "Hérodiade," "Mysterious Adventure," and "John Brown." Most of these have music worth noting. Aaron Copland's score for "Appalachian Spring" captured the Pulitzer prize, and Virgil Thomson calls it "poetically effective and theatrically functional." Of Paul Hindemith's "Hérodiade" he writes, "the music is sumptuously evocative, rich, complex, civilized." But Charles Mills' "John Brown" wins no more than the lambasting "subservient tweedle-dee-bang-bang."

All this is provocative, even a little irritating at long distance. But it may stir up Mr. Todd to do right by Monsieur Clark when that goggle-eyed elegant lands plunk in the middle of classic comedy. In casting his favorite star as the would-be gentleman, that eminent historian remarked that he is righting matters at last. He is convinced that Molière had Bobby Clark in mind for the part and, when frustrated in trying to find a 17th century counterpart, acted the role himself. The correct version will be seen in Boston about mid-September, and perhaps by then Mr. Todd will have decided on the music. He could try Richard Strauss' score used by Balanchine's ballet, or he could go right back to Molière for the original Lully.

For that matter, Lully could have inspired "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme." Son of a milliner, he began palace life as a kitchen scullion, but rose to such musical and courtly rank he changed his name from Jean Baptiste Lully to Lorenzo de Lulli, gentleman of Florence, and got away with it. Molière was in no position to complain, having himself been born Jean Baptiste Poquelin. Little did they know what can happen if they are consigned to the debonair mercies of Le Bourgeois Bobby.

Notes

K. T. Stevens and Hugh Marlowe have signed for another year, starting June 1, with "The Voice of the Turtle," and will tour to the west coast after the play leaves the Selwyn. Betty Lawford will just stick thru the Chicago engagement. . . . Several newcomers have been added to the "Life with Father" cast headed for the Erlanger next Tuesday. They are Cathy O'Donnell [Mary Skinner], Charles Wright, Charles La Torrella, Warren Briggs, and Peggy Cass. . . . If Katharine Cornell goes overseas again, how about calling the troupe "Kit and Caboodle?"

White Collar GIRL

Boss Man

The steno's plaint in verse
Leaves this mere man quite cold.
The boss' plight is worse,
Altho it's seldom told.
For he's a luckless chap—
The files are missing "Z"?
He always takes the rap—
It's in his desk—you'll see!
The customers are sore?
A badly worded letter?
His fault, as evermore—
He should dictate it better!
And is he leaving now?
He must give strict accounting—
When he'll be back and how—
[His temperature is mounting!]
He seldom rates "Hello"—
He seldom rates a nod—
His life is governed so—
He's ruled with iron rod!

Life Expectancy

Anent the life expectancy of a secretary, I heartily agree that much depends on the capability of the older secretary and whether she is fortunate enough to work for an employer who values her services. The business world needs more understanding and appreciative employers who conduct well run offices without so much employment of workers unable to handle the work, resulting in constant hiring and firing. Older—and younger—careerists are far better off in a well organized office. If it were possible to advise young white collar girls it would be to counsel them to seek a position with the right kind of people. Then, the life expectancy of a secretary is not such a problem.

Democracy in Business

"Democracy in industry is a goal well worth striving for. . . . It cannot be achieved overnight, but this is no reason to abandon it. In the long run it is not only the most consistent with American political philosophy, but it is the most efficient from a production point of view. It most effectively utilizes the talents of every one in the organization and, at the same time, gives him maximum incentive to do his best." This is from Robert N. Solid Bright Lights Advice Is Given Today

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Tomorrow is the big day . . . maybe it's prom night, graduation, or the senior party, but any gal smart enough to be a high school senior is smart enough to be prepared for the "big three." This sharp character knows that to look, and feel, her best there can be no last minute rush or confusion. She is ready for the big day the day before. Here is something to look over just before tucking yourself into your trundle bed the night before, four helpful hints to check before you turn into a cover girl, but queen sized:

1. Fit on your formal or new dress the night before, practice walking in it, put yourself thru the obstacle course of going up and down stairs and getting around furniture comfortably. Make sure the hem is short enough, the slip long enough, and that all snaps, buttons, and belts are secure and comfortable. Press the dress and hang carefully in the closet—all set for tomorrow night.

2. If you are allowing yourself the special treat of having your hair done by a hairdresser for this bright lights evening, have it done the day before. For confidence and assurance, have it arranged just as you always wear it, only a bit more shiny, a bit more sleek. You know that no gal can look glamorous with stiff, wiry curls, a hair net ring on her forehead, and the tips of her ears still red from the hair dryer.

3. Check on accessories. Your gloves, if you are wearing them, are fresh and neat, and your evening bag, if you are carrying one, is big enough to hold the compact, lipstick, and comb you will want to bring with you. If you are wearing a day time coat as a wrap, it is brushed, pressed, and cleaned, with all old history notes, gum wrappers, and ticket stubs out of the pockets.

4. If you expect to receive a corsage be sure to "wear" it, not just "pin it on." Too often flowers look extra because a gal is already decked with bows, clips, and bracelets. Plan where you will wear your corsage. If your formal is complete without flowers, plan to wear them in your hair, pin them on your bag, or tie them securely to your wrist with a broad ribbon.

THE QUESTION

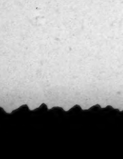
What subjects that are not now required in high school should be compulsory before graduation?

WHERE ASKED

Carbon and Carbide building.

THE ANSWERS

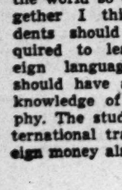
Lloyd Nielson, advertising writer, 5812 N. Artesian av.—A subject such as the science of practical living should be required—a course in etiquet, grooming, choosing of proper clothes, learning value of materials, interior decorating, etc. These subjects are so important to every one I can't understand why they aren't taught.



Mrs. Isabel Farwell, cashier, 839 Newport av.—Business law is an optional study but I think it should be required and should be more extensive than it is now. Students should learn how to read contracts, insurance policies, etc., and learn to know what they are getting into when they sign their name to an agreement.

Helen Wallace, salesgirl, 1218 E. 62d st.—High school students aren't too young to be taught the meaning of sex. They should be taught the same way the government is teaching the service men. It might be a little shocking to the students at first but it would be invaluable and may save them from serious mistakes.

Aileen Silta, counter girl, 615 Briar pl.—English is required but I believe four years of English should be required. It's so very important. Most people have a limited vocabulary. Students should be given an extensive course in the meaning of words in the English language. It may not be an exciting subject but important.



S. W. Evanger, general agent, 568 Arlington av., Elmhurst—Since the airplane has brought the world so close together I think students should be required to learn foreign languages and should have a better knowledge of geography. The study of international trade, finance, and foreign money also would be advisable.

INSTALMENT XXVI

OLIVIA THREATENED

The senator turned his back on her and watched the rolling woods and farmlands flash past. But he dragged his thoughts off Olivia and began to compose a speech for the commissioner. Mr. Jennesma had asked him to try to get Dirk Adams released to continue running the factory, with or without a bodyguard.

When they arrived at the group of handsome red brick buildings at East Lansing, Winnie refused moral support. She went into the administration building for her test, alone. The senator sought out the commissioner's office. Miss Warburton took out her perpetual war knitting and tried not to think. Kim strolled moodily over the well-shaved green lawns in front of the buildings.

Winnie came out alone, three-quarters of an hour later. She walked to the car stiffly as if she must hold her face just a certain way or the emotions would spill out. She got into the front seat.

Miss Warburton knitted in a discreet silence. In 15 minutes more, North and Kim returned together. Neither of them missed the exchange of seats, but neither commented on it.

The senator was full of the commissioner's praises on the way home.

"Very fine man!" North declared. "Sensible fellow. Made a splendid thing of the organization here. I found him very coöperative. I talked to the laboratory man, too," North went on. "They've been examining the knife I found in your back yard, Olivia. He says it is the same make and probable age as the other five and that it hadn't been in the ground long. I even got French to admit that finding it practically ruined the case against you, Olivia. There's very little doubt that Tillie buried the thing at dawn and that it was part of the job she was bribed to do."

Winnie and Miss Warburton had hardly entered their cottage when the telephone rang. The long distance operator said she had been trying to get Miss Winifred Leslie for hours. Philadelphia was calling.

"Just a minute, I'll call her." Miss Warburton put down the phone.

Winnie was lying on the living room sofa weeping with abandon.

"I can't talk. Tell whoever it is to call later."

"It's your father."

"Father!" Winnie gasped. She sprang up. Her tears were fast drying.

"Hello. Hello. Yes of course it's me . . . what? . . . I've been busy . . . no I did not say dizzy. B-U-S-Y. . . . I'm all right. . . . I can't. . . . I tell you I can't. . . ."

Miss Warburton closed the hall door and tried not to hear but it soon became impossible. Winnie's voice rose to a yell.

At last with a "I am not coming and that's final," she banged down the instrument.

Her face was crimson.

"Father's so unreasonable. Ordered me to come home. As if I could. But you can't explain to him. I had a perfectly foul time this afternoon. The police got all sorts of things out of me. Things I gave my s-sacred promise not to tell. I can't possibly forsake Dirk now till he's entirely out of this. I was the one person he counted on and I let him down. Now I've got to help him."

The very moment Miss Warburton entered her bedroom she saw it. And as soon as she saw it, she knew what it meant.

The cheap white envelope was laid on the pillow. It had no stamp or address. Its crude O. Warburton was printed in pencil.

She stood staring at it for some time, before her hand finally went out, unsteadily, toward it. She remembered she must not handle it, too much. Drawing out the single sheet of ruled tablet paper, now horridly familiar, she read, in clipped newsprint:

YOU Have 5 DAYS to geT AnOTHER JoB

She sank down on the bed without taking her eyes from the message. Her mind frantically demanded any sane reason for wanting her away from this place, and found none. After almost half an hour, she went downstairs.

"I'm positive we locked the back door when we left here this noon. Do you remember?"

"Yes, we did. I'm sure of it, too."

"Well, it was standing wide open when I went into the kitchen a few minutes ago. Where are you going?"

"To the house. I'll be back soon."

Winnie gave her a sharper look. "Anything wrong?"

She said, "I just want to see Mr. Jennesma."

Miss Warburton had just left the ravine and started across the lawn toward the big house when she met the senator.

"Olivia, what's the matter?"

She tried to evade answering. At last she said:

"O, if you must know every little thing! Here. Read that . . . and try not to get finger prints on it."

The senator stared truculently at the envelope. She explained where it had been left for her to find.

"The dirty devil! Now look here, Olivia. You can't stay on, after this. You've been offered another job. Very permanent! Now's the time to take it."

She snatched back the letter. "Please! I will not even discuss that while I'm mixed up in this revolting business. Every time I think I get free, something drags me back in. I'm getting sick of it!"

"Don't let it get you."

"O, I know."

"What are you going to do about it?"

"First I'm going to see Mr. Jennesma. Sybrand. I've had the wild idea that maybe he wants to get rid of me and hasn't the nerve to fire me.

"O, my dear, is that likely? You surely don't mean he is the author of all these anonymous notes?"

"Heavens no. I simply wondered if he could have taken advantage of the fact that they're being sent to horn in on the racket and send this to me. O, I know it sounds crazy. Probably all wrong. But I thought I might offer to resign and if he snapped me up on it I'd believe he sent me this note. I don't intend to show it to him."

"Why don't you show this to the troopers?"

"What troopers? I haven't noticed any hanging around today."

North said, "That's so. Bad business. I'll see about that."

"Please don't. They can't spare men to guard us indefinitely. And I do so loathe to be spied upon all the time."

"But French must know about this message you've received."

"I'll call him later."

Sybrand said, "Come in," in response to her tap on the door. Gerrit was with him.

Be sure to save all your coffee and mayonnaise jars for canning. They're fine for fruits, tomatoes and pickles, any food which may be canned in the boiling water bath. It's better not to try to use them in pressure cooker canning, for the glass may not withstand the pressure. Regular canning jars bearing the manufacturer's label, should be used in the pressure cooker.

Coffee and mayonnaise jars have smaller openings and must have special lids. Smaller than standard lids, 63 millimeters in diameter, are available for use with them. Besides these flat, self-sealing lids, you'll need metal caps, the ones which come on the coffee or mayonnaise. Remove cardboard from them, puncture several holes, and use them as you'd use standard screw-bands for regulation canning jars with the self-sealing lids.

The metal caps, like the screw-bands, may be removed when the canned food is cold, so that they may be re-used on other jars. This is well, because most women have more of these small-mouth jars on hand than metal caps for them, due to frequent purchase of coffee sealed only with cardboard.

Few women have any pre-war jar rubbers left, for use with zinc caps and glass tops. The war time rubber band is of poorer quality, and shouldn't ever be stretched to test for elasticity. It is smaller, too, and designed to fit around the rim of a glass lid to be used with a metal screw band. Last year and year before frequent cases of spoiled food were reported, the cause being ignorance on the part of the homemaker about where that rubber band belonged. Too many women tried to put it on the mouth of the jar.

Most of this year's canned food will be sealed with the flat metal lids and screw-bands, or glass lids, rubbers, and screw-bands. There is a difference in sealing, which should be understood by every home canner.

Glass lidded jars are sealed in the old fashioned way. You place the rubber on the glass, clap it on the hot food filled jar, screw the metal band tight, then release it a quarter turn. After processing the food, the band is tightened.

Metal lids with composition edges should be placed on the hot, filled jars in the same way. The screw-band then is screwed firmly tight and left alone. No releasing, and no tightening after removing the jars from the canner.

Screw-bands should not be removed until the food is completely cold. Then they should be taken off to test for seal, and may be saved for other canning. A perfectly sealed lid will not come off if you try to lift it with the tips of the fingers. It will stick tightly. If the lid should come off with the screw-band, the food must be re-processed. That won't happen if care is used in canning.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Beets in Orange Sauce
[Serves four to six]

- 1 bunch beets
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 1 tablespoon flour
- Grated rind 1 orange
- ½ cup orange juice
- ½ cup beet water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cut off beet tops about 2 inches above roots. Wash thoroly. Cook, covered, in boiling salted water to cover 30 to 60 minutes, or until tender. When beets are tender plunge into cold water and rub off skins and dice. Add flour to melted margarine over low heat. Add remaining ingredients and bring to boiling point. Add beets and heat thoroly.

Suit Pattern

In cottons or crepes, in plain colors, prints, or stripes, this two-some is the sort of thing you'll wear comfortably all summer long. The neckline may have a rolled collar or may be cut in the heart shaped manner, without a collar. The jacket lines are graceful and figure-flattering, and all types of silhouette will look well in the simple skirt. Style No. 2509 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35 inch fabric for collarless dress with short sleeves; 4½ yards of 39 inch fabric for model with three-quarter sleeves and collar.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Household Forum

Grace W., Chicago—I have started the practice this spring of saving a strip of wallpaper from every room we paper. I hang these strips in the attic where I'm going to let them age. If I need to repair any wallpaper later the strip will have grown old along with that on the walls of the room.

Mrs. Helen J., Cedar Rapids, Ia.—A fisherman in your family may like to know that my husband says he can keep minnows alive longer when transporting them if he puts half a dozen drops of iodine in the water when the minnows begin to show they are lacking oxygen.

Minnie S., Chicago—After each use of my washing machine I pour in a pail of clean hot water, run the machine two minutes, then drain and wipe dry, especially the metal parts.

Bloomer Dress for Cyclists Is Paris Surprise

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 21—Lucile Maguin's surprise for summer, 1945 is the exquisitely styled bloomer dress made of gaily printed silk or plain colored creaseless crepe, designed especially for cyclists.

"Pour Denise" is a model whose fitted skirt ends in breeches fastened at the knees. Of ochre silk crepe, this garment is trimmed with intricate rectangular shirring from the bust to the hips. Ochre colored embroidery forms a geometric pattern around the neckline and the long pockets. A tiny turn over collar fastens with a Van Cleef and Arpels brooch of diamonds, rubies, and emeralds.

The bloomers of another ensemble for afternoon wear, "Pour Marie-Louise," are camouflaged by cleverly designed fullness at the knees. This model is made of gaily flowered washable crepe with a wing-shouldered plastron in the same amber yellow as the print's background. The low neckline is V-shaped.

For sports wear there are vividly striped linen and shantung bloomer-dresses. "Pour Alice" is the name of the one with all-around plaited breeches. A raspberry pink repeating the tone of the stripes forms a removable bolero.

English Episcopal Bishop Will Speak at Diocesan Service

The Rt. Rev. George Kennedy Allen Bell, bishop of Chichester, England, who is visiting the United States to confer with leaders of the World Council of Churches of which he was one of the founders, will preach tonight at a diocesan service in St. James Episcopal church, Wabash av. and Huron st.

Dr. Bell long has been identified with the ecumenical movement in England, a movement which stands, in principle, for coöperation in international and social fields. Convocations of the Church of England have ruled that joint services are permissible where the objective is ecumenical, but it does not encourage indiscriminate joint services because many members of that communion deprecate an interchange of pulpits.

The choir of Seabury-Western Theological seminary will sing at the service tonight, which will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Duncan Browne, rector. Dr. Bell will be entertained at a tea today by the English-Speaking Union and will be the guest of the Episcopal clergy at a Round Table luncheon tomorrow in the Merchandise Mart.

Stritch and Sheil Mark Ordination Anniversary

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch and Bishop Bernard J. Sheil were congratulated yesterday on the anniversary of their ordinations. Both were ordained to the priesthood on the same day 35 years ago. Archbishop Stritch was ordained in Rome by Cardinal Respighi. Bishop Sheil was ordained in Chicago by Archbishop James E. Quigley. He celebrated his anniversary mass in St. Andrew's church, 3546 N. Paulina st., of which he is pastor, and visited St. Columbkille's, Grand av. and Paulina st., where he was baptized.

Dainty Apron

BY ELLEN BRUCE

Since crocheted aprons are such popular items these days, it is well to consider this attractive, lacy one with its dainty ruffles at bottom and waistline. Created of fine white thread, this may be slightly starched and worn over a basic black dress for street wear.

For instructions in crocheting the lace apron, No. E-1182, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

Snyder to Speak Tonight to Commerce Fraternity

President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university will speak tonight at a 6:30 o'clock dinner meeting of alumnae and active members of Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity in the Bismarck hotel. The gathering is a 40th anniversary observance. Among the guests will be John D. Sparks, national executive secretary of Alpha Kappa Psi, which is a professional fraternity in commerce. Dr. Snyder's address will be on "Education and Business."

Furs Should Be Stored Before Summer Comes

BY REA SEEGER

Any comfortably cool spring day is the right day to take your precious fur coat to town for safe keeping thru the summer months. For nothing looks as stuffy and sultry on a sticky day as a fur winter coat hung over the arms of a woman on her way to fur storage haven. If you do delay, bonded messengers from any of the reputable furriers, shops, and stores will call for your treasure and deliver it for you, without any further worries.

A fur coat of any price and especially the more costly models should be as cherished as the pampered family car. A fur coat should be meticulously cleaned before storage for the summer, and necessary or not-so-necessary repairs and changes also arranged for, so that such important work can be managed with leisure. Then when penetrating winds start blowing next fall, virtually a new coat will be ready for that season.

It takes experts and skilled professionals to examine and repair a fur coat properly. Furthermore, only the best conditions are suitable for the weeks or months of storage. The air must be the right degree of coolness, the humidity correct to a split degree, and numerous inspections should be made during the period of storage. Then and then only will the pelts stay vital and fresh with the moths at bay as well as the personal hazards of guarding your fur coat.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
Pass	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, jack of spades.

Today's hand is the one I liked best of the 140 played in the Masters' Individual championship recently held in New York City. Inasmuch as this is the one national title I had never previously captured, I have the temerity to seek your indulgence while I tell about the big one that didn't get away.

The deal came up in the final session, at a time when Albert Weiss of Chicago, the eventual runner-up and one of America's great players, was breathing hard on my neck. My partner at the time, in the North position, was Jack Cushing of Boston, Mass., whose handling of the bidding is worthy of comment. The one diamond opening was a little on the sketchy side, but it is accepted practice in match point play where each hand is a separate contest. West's vulnerable overcall of one spade was based on similar considerations. North's pass is, of course, routine and it was at this point that I began to lose interest in a slam. However, I elected to make an absolute force by jumping in a new suit, and I bid three clubs. Mr. Cushing's bid of three spades is very well chosen. It is the type of cue bid that cannot be misconstrued by partner in view of his previous pass of one spade and permits the hand to play at no trump from the other side of the table where the opening lead might be more advantageous.

The lead of the spade jack was won by the queen. The ace and king of diamonds revealed the favorable break and now 11 top card tricks were available, with a squeeze for the 12th fairly well indicated. In order to establish the squeeze, however, the inevitable loser must be conceded, so that at this point a low heart was led to the ten. East won with the jack and returned the six of spades, which was taken with the ace.

The ace and king of hearts were cashed, dummy letting go a club. Now all the diamonds were run and the end position was:

WEST

EAST

SOUTH

♣ A 9 6

On the lead of the last diamond, East had to hold on to the heart, so he shed a club. South now let go the useless heart. West had to retain the king of spades to take care of dummy's eight so he let go a club. South's three clubs were now established.

BUTCHER AND PIRATES BEAT GIANTS, 5 TO 2

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THE United States army is about ready to begin in Europe the most extensive sports program ever attempted. . . . It will involve hundreds of thousands of men waiting their return to their homeland or transfer to other theaters of operation. . . . American Olympic officials are hopeful the world games will be resumed within the next few years. . . . This department is ready to renew International Golden Gloves as soon as transportation facilities permit. . . . All of which makes one wonder about the absence of sports representation at the United Nations conference in San Francisco. . . . Invitations were extended in great numbers to social, political, business, labor, educational, religious, and professional organizations, but none to any group dedicated to the promotion of athletics. . . . It is fairly well established that nothing except education contributes more to the physical and mental mobility of a people than athletics. . . . It takes education, of course, to create an intellectual atmosphere favorable to the assimilation and growth of democratic ideas and concepts. . . . Athletics implement those principles by providing visual demonstration of them at work. . . . When one witnesses large segments of our polyglot population engaging in or watching recreational activities like baseball, football, basketball, boxing, and golf he sees definite evidence of democratic living thru amicable association and coöperation. . . . On occasion, of course, a pop bottle sailing onto the diamond or paper thrown from balconies slows a baseball or a hockey game, but for general amiability and good natured behavior it's hard to beat a sports crowd. . . . Our sports competitions, both on and off the field, can develop the same ideals of global coöperation that politicians are striving for thru Dumbarton Oaks, Bretton Woods, and the San Francisco conference. . . . Nations are seeking faith and trust in one another, team work and fair play, and the furtherance of the public good. . . . If the principal aim of the deliberations at San Francisco is to devise workable mechanisms for the insurance of world peace and security, it is strange, indeed, that such a popular activity as athletic recreation, with all its implications for democratic coöperation and understanding, could have been omitted from the agenda of the United Nations conference. . . .

Historically, most of the efforts that have been made to suppress war have been in the form of compacts or agreements among the political and military leaders of the countries involved. . . . The people were never consulted, seldom brought into the negotiations, never made to feel that theirs was the chief responsibility for the prevention of armed conflict. . . . Covenants were made, treaties were signed, a few leaders abjured war, and the people were left guessing. . . . Most people in their right mind [come, come now, of course that includes a few sports writers] know there is no surefire panacea for the deep rooted enmity that still prevails among certain nations. . . . Efforts made to eliminate clashes have achieved little more than to increase the virulence and perversity of man's tendency to wage war. . . . Peace and security will not come because 500 representatives of the nations of the world wish it or think it necessary or sign agreements to abolish war by declaring it immoral and an outrage of human decency and intelligence. . . . It will come, if ever, when efforts to give it personal meaning and reality are directed not only to the so-called top layer of a nation's people, but also to the rank and file. . . . All must be concerned in the common task. . . .

This is where athletic recreation and sports activity in general can be of value. . . . International games should be conducted annually instead of every four years. . . . Friendly competition bringing together athletes, officials, spectators, newspaper and radio reporters, and government bigwigs would do more to break down antipathies among people than all the words ever uttered by diplomats could possibly achieve. . . . Peoples whose penchant for hero worship is directed along athletic instead of military lines have an enduring and constructive tie. . . . It's high time recognition be given to sport for its social usefulness. . . . The rare acts of discourtesy which have arisen in past international games are lost in the benefits that accrued. . . . Athletic competition and recreation in mass quantity and on an organized basis between peoples of good will would do more to instill concepts of democratic association, of friendly coöperation and rivalry than all the nonaggression pacts that could be devised. . . . Of all the enthusiasms experienced by young men, or a septuagenarian, for that matter, the greatest is the infectious thrill that surges within one from the realization that his team is on the field fighting for victory. . . . It's also one of the most harmless. . . .

Maybe the trouble with the world is that too many try to be too profound and erudite. . . . Many of us don't understand big terms, but all of us know it's fun to crack a home run or race for a touchdown. . . . Until the diplomatic doctors meeting in San Francisco can offer a therapy more likely to rid mankind of the germ of war than athletics, why not let the peoples of the world give it a try? . . . It won't provide the whole remedy, of course, but it will do some excellent spade work for the final cure.

Ten Years Ago Today—Chicago's Golden Gloves champions defeated the Italian team, 5 to 3, before 23,256 in Chicago Stadium. . . . Notre Dame and Minnesota signed for a home and home football series to start in 1937. . . . Lawson Little, defending champion, entered the fourth round of the British amateur golf tournament by defeating J. P. Zacharias, 4 and 3.

42,179 WAGER $2,471,056 AS JAMAICA OPENS

Jeep Wins Feature; Double Pays $1,001

New York, May 21 (AP)—The Kentucky Derby stock of Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep took a decided upturn as racing got away to a delayed start in the metropolitan area with 42,179 fans packing Jamaica's compact plant today. Jeep stepped to victory in the featured Experimental handicap in a manner that stamped him as a contender in the Derby at Churchill Downs, June 9.

The attendance and wagering failed to equal that of 1944, when the New York season opened on a Saturday, but the $2,471,056 that passed thru the mutuels served notice of another record year financially. Last year 45,825 fans wagered $2,601,836 on the opening day.

The betting got off to a good start with Easy Spell and Triton winning the first two races and setting up a daily double that paid $1,001.10 for $2.

Jeep Finishes Strong

The Experimental is only a six furlong dash but at the finish Jeep, a son of the English Derby winner, Mahmoud, was two lengths in front of William Helis' Greek Warrior, indicating that he would like the mile and one-quarter distance of the Derby. Greek Warrior, also sired by Mahmoud, had another three lengths over Mrs. P. A. B. Widener 2d's Polynesian with Rick's Raft, considered as Helis' No. 1 Derby eligible, fifth in the 13 horse field of 3 year olds.

With Arnold Kirkland in the saddle, Jeep sped the distance in 1:11 3-5 under 112 pounds. Given only an outside chance to whip the highly regarded Flood Town from Lt. Edward Lasker's stable, the Whitney colt paid $30.90, $13.70, and $10.40 across the board. Flood Town wound up ninth after showing early speed.

Altho beaten, the Helis combination lost little Derby stature. Greek Warrior broke from the barrier in front and stayed there until passed by Jeep an eighth of a mile from the finish line. Even then the gray colt refused to quit as he shook off the stretch bid of Polynesian. Rick's Raft closed ground in the style of a Derby candidate.

GEORGE CASE WINS

Baltimore, Md., May 21 (AP)—The Cedar farm's George Case won the $3,000 Gittings purse, feature event today at Pimlico, defeating the favorite, E. C. Eastwood's Challamore, by a length and a quarter before 15,897.

With Sterling Young up, the 4 year old son of Quatre Bras II.-Trace o'Fun covered the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5, second fastest time of the meeting.

George Case paid $7.90, $3.10, and $2.80 for $2. Track officials substituted an allowance race for the Gittings handicap, originally listed as a $5,000 attraction at a mile and a sixteenth, but retained the name.

DERBY CANDIDATES WIN

Louisville, Ky., May 21 (AP)—Burning Dream, Col. E. R. Bradley's candidate for a fifth Kentucky Derby victory and Bymeabond a former Bradley colt and Derby entry now owned by K. Houssels, won impressive victories in today's Keeneland racing card at Churchill Downs.

Burning Dream followed the early pace set by M. J. Hogan's Artillerist, also a Derby candidate, took command at the head of the stretch and galloped home the victor by seven lengths. His time for the mile out of the chute in the seventh race was 1:39. He rewarded his backers at $2.40.

Bymeabond made a show of the seven 3 year olds he met in the six furlong sixth race. Outbreaking his field he raced to an early lead and won more or less as his rider, F. A. Smith, pleased in 1:12 4/5. His final advantage over W. C. Davis's Fire Ahead, another Derby eligible, was five lengths. Bymeabond paid $2.60.

CUBS PREPARE RECEPTION FOR EASTERN CLUBS

BY EDWARD BURNS

The first 1945 invasion of Chicago by the National league's eastern teams will get under way tomorrow afternoon in Wrigley field when the tail-end but improving Phillies will open a series of four single games. After the Phillies will come the Dodgers for four games in three days, the Giants for three including a Memorial day double header, and the Boston Braves for four games.

On their recent trip thru the east the Cubs played their guests of tomorrow only twice, for a split. There also was a split in Boston.

A Good Series to Forget

Then came the big foldup in New York, when the team blew four straight, tho ahead in three games.

The doings in Brooklyn are of more recent memory—how Charley Grimm tried to get four of his correspondence pitchers who trained in Havana, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, and Rogers Park, to function in the Dodger opener, only to lose, 15 to 12. Then came the glorious windup Sunday in which Grimm had two good pitchers ready, with the resultant double triumph over a team that had won 11 straight and 12 out of 13 before Paul Derringer and Hank Wyse tamed it.

Derringer and Wyse, only Cub pitchers who have won since April 25, have gained nine of Chicago's 12 victories but can't be expected to carry the rest of the staff much longer. Claude Passeau and Bob Chipman, each of whom won a shutout in the first 10 days of the season for his only victory, are looked upon as the best bets to be of some value to the team.

Catching Will Be Better

Mickey Livingston, first string catcher, and a .311 hitter who was away from the team except in the first game in the east, is expected to rejoin the squad tomorrow. Len Rice and Paul Gillespie did good jobs of receiving in Sunday's double header, but neither got a hit. Dewey Williams missed those two contests after catching earnestly thruout the six game losing streak prior to the Sunday victories. He complained his throwing arm is sore and weak. He was excused from making the trip to Battle Creek, Mich, for an exhibition game this afternoon.

Tribune, Illinois P. G. A. Give Golf Balls to Wounded Vets

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The happiest climax in the 13 year history of the free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America was attained yesterday afternoon at the Shoreacres club when a considerable number of golf balls was turned over to the veterans of World War II, now stationed at the Great Lakes naval hospital.

The presentation was made by Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section, to Commodore Robert R. M. Emmet, commanding officer of Great Lakes, and Capt. D. J. Wharton, executive officer of the hospital. The ceremony was witnessed by several hundred of the men who in time will derive the playing benefit of these pellets—convalescent veterans of all war theaters. Similar presentations of ball parcels will be made in the near future at Vaughan and Gardiner General hospitals.

Pupils Pass Up Prizes

Ordinarily, the peak of the free instructions given by the Illinois P. G. A. members in THE TRIBUNE schools was reached with a judging session in which the most apt civilian pupils were given golf equipment as prizes. Three years ago, the students relinquished their eligibility for these prizes when officials decided to turn them over to the U. S. O. center for use by service men and women stationed in Chicago or passing thru. This year, the classes heartily endorsed the idea of turning over golf balls to hospitalized veterans.

In accepting the gift, Commodore Emmet, himself an ardent sports fan, thanked the P. G. A. and THE TRIBUNE for what he considered an outstanding contribution to the rehabilitation of the veterans who will use these balls at Shoreacres. He praised the rehabilitation campaign of the National P. G. A., which will get under way the coming week-end, locally with the Bing Crosby-Bob Hope-Chick Evans-Jimmy Hines match at Tam O'Shanter on Saturday.

Bush and Cameron Win

Following the presentation of the balls, the Illinois P. G. A. members joined in a shotmaking demonstration for the veterans, with many of the latter trudging after them as they engaged in a pro-pro, best-ball tournament over Shoreacres. This event was won by the team of Eddie Bush of Oak Park, secretary-treasurer of the section, and Norm Cameron of Green Acres, formerly Byron Nelson's assistant.

Bush and Cameron assembled a fancy best ball of 31-36—67, to beat out a quartet of 68s. Eddie joined with John Revolta of Evanston, former National P. G. A. champion, and the able Jack Grout of Butterfield, in sharing individual honors at 71, one under Shoreacres' par.

The best ball scores for the pro-pro tournament follow:

Eddie Bush, Oak Park-Norm Cameron, Green Acres, 31—36—67.
John Gibson, Westmoreland-Jim Gourlay, Glencoe, 33—35—68.
Sam Bernardi, Old Elm-Bill Gordon, Tam o' Shanter, 32—36—68.
Jack Grout, Butterfield-Pete Thomas, Chicago Golf, 32—36—68.
Ky Laffoon, Chicago-Joe Jemsek, St. Andrews, 33—36—69.
Charley Penna, Beverly-Bill Brown, North Shore, 34—35—69.
John Revolta, Evanston—Lou Syrong, Park Ridge, 33—36—69.
Jock Hutchison, Glen View-Elmer Schacht, Ridge, 34—35—69.
Joe Paletti, Sunset Ridge-Lew Waldron, Voorhees range, 37—33—70.
Harry Adams, St. Charles-Jim Carberry, Phillips Park, 35—36—71.
Byron Harcke, Twin Orchard-Art De Mane, Oak Park, 34—37—71.
Ed Phelan, Oak Park-Jules Platte, Great Lakes and Shoreacres, 35—36—71.
Jimmy Hines, Chicago-Matt Jans, Rolling Green, 36—35—71.
Red Dennison, Midlothian-Gordan Haberkorn, St. Paul, 37—36—73.

White Sox Go East to Defend Lead

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox are about to show the east just what it takes to lead the American league race, altho they are giving no assurance that their show is going to continue indefinitely. But they will do the best they can, which, in the western end of the circuit was good enough to fetch them nine victories against four defeats. The Sox have a two game lead on Detroit and St. Louis.

James Dykes took his boys away from here yesterday afternoon. They departed early because of a promise to appear for an exhibition at Mitchel field, New York, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Buck Ross and Frank Papish, neither of whom has started a regular game thus far but may come in handy later on in the season, will do the pitching against the field forces. The Sox will open tomorrow in New York against the Yankees.

Bill Dietrich, who is rapidly recovering from the effects of the bone chip removal job performed on his pitching elbow, has gone to Philadelphia and will rejoin his mates when they arrive there next week. In the meantime he'll work the arm lightly and thus get himself ready to throw in batting practice while the Sox are in Connie Mack's park. With plenty of pitchers available for the time being Dietrich can be spared as a starter until the Sox return home in early June.

BRIEF MEETING TO CLOSE TODAY AT SPORTSMAN'S

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

One of the most formful meetings in the records of thorobred racing in Chicago closes this afternoon at Sportsman's Park, the half mile establishment in Cicero, which opened a nine day stand on May 12.

Well supported favorites have sped by the judges' stand in front slightly more than 50 per cent of the time in the 64 events arranged by Racing Secretary William R. Dahlstrom. The percentage of winning favorites during last spring's 14 day meeting was only 34.

The secretary has had a difficult time filling his fields, due to the four month government ban on the sport which prevented trainers of younger horses from bringing their charges up to good form thru actual competition. As a result many older thorobreds, popular winners in other years on the Cicero oval, came back and overran less experienced speedsters.

Rusty Gold Keeps Winning

Such a horse is Rusty Gold, owned by Guy Martin and ridden in the first race yesterday by Willie Gillespie. Rusty Gold, a 7 year old daughter of Bostonian-Ruth's Hope, whipped T. A. Casey's Playante by eight lengths in a 5 furlong race for older horses and returned only $3 for a $2 ticket. Yesterday's crowd of 10,204 wagered $639,200.

T. H. Cross' Just Hiram, a previous winner, was overlooked in the second and returned $17.60 to complete a $49.40 daily double. J. W. Martin piloted him just a neck in front of Mrs. J. L. Oglesby's public choice, Keyman.

After Lunch, a well bred 6 year old horse belonging to Lustgarten and Weinberg and ridden by Len Wegrzyn, popped in front of the favorite, Abreck, in the third, paying $19.60. Then David B. Jr., the favorite, with Bruno Pucci up, even matters in the fourth.

Two Tigers, 1 to 5, Wins

Two Tigers, the shortest priced favorite of the meeting, came down five lengths in front in the co-featured fifth race, the $1,600 Englewood purse. The 3 year old colt by Tiger-Supreme Sweep, owned by Leon Tikulski and ridden by Paul Glidewell, went postward at 1 to 5 and paid $2.40, $2.60, and $2.20 across the board. Corn Dodger, a first starter, took the place and Dauntless Bo the show.

Mrs. T. M. Pruett's King Epithet at 3 to 1 accounted for the $1,600 Geraldine Kroning purse, the sixth race. Ben Fogelson's Vinum was second and Sandstorm third. The 6 to 5 favorite, Happy Pilot, was fourth. The winner, with Aulile Carr up, paid $8.20.

The 8 to 5 co-favorites, Brilliant Jr. and Chance Taker, finished one-two in the seventh. The winner was ridden by Martin and paid $5.20.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 21 (AP)—Ernie Lombardi hit two home runs for New York's only scores as the Pirates beat the Giants, 5 to 2, in the first night game of the season in Pittsburgh. A crow dof 21,682 saw Lombardi hit his homers, his eighth and ninth of the season.

Big Max Butcher held the Giants to four hits in winning his third game of the season against two losses.

The Pirates started scoring in the first inning, getting three runs on a walk, Johnny Barrett's triple, Tommy O'Brien's double, and two infield outs. They added one in the third and one in the seventh.

Lombardi's first homer, in the fifth inning, was the first hit off Butcher; he hit his second in the seventh. Score:

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 21 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers closed their home stand against western teams on a sour note when they lost under lights tonight to the Cardinals, 4 to 0, for their third straight defeat. A crowd of 27,844 saw Blix Donnelly, who had lost four in a row, score his first success for the Cardinals and in blanking the home team yielded only seven hits.

Southpaw Tom Seats started for the Dodgers and after five scoreless innings yielded two runs in the sixth, the tallies coming on a single by Dave Bartosch, an error by Mickey Owen of Buster Adams' pop fly, a pass, and a two bagger by Whitey Kurowski.

Donnelly doubled in the ninth off Curt Davis to score a run and a single by Bartosch produced the final St. Louis run. Score:

LT. COL. BJORK, ONCE OF BEARS, WINS 2D MEDAL

WITH THE 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION ON OKINAWA—For heroic achievement in the battle of Okinawa, Lt. Col. Delbert L. Bjork recently was awarded the bronze star on the front line by Maj. Gen. Arch V. Arnold, commanding general of the famous 7th division.

Lt. Col. Delbert Bjork

Bjork, former athlete at the University of Oregon, was a member of the College All-Star squad of 1937 which beat the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0, in Soldiers' field. Bjork, a tackle, played with the Bears in 1937 and 1938.

On April 19, the battalion commanded by Col. Bjork was assigned the mission of seizing and securing Hill 178 on Okinawa. The hill was a commanding terrain feature on the left of his regimental sector from which the enemy covered all avenues of approach with mortar and artillery fire. It was taken after a bitter fight.

Col. Bjork received the distinguished service cross for his courageous actions against the enemy on Attu.

Football Team Loses 13 Men in Iwo Jima Battle

By Sgt. Bill Hegen of Minneapolis, a marine corps combat correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC [Delayed]—(AP)—Thirteen men on the squad of the unbeaten fourth marine division football team fell on Iwo Jima. Four were killed, one is missing, and eight were wounded.

The team, only undefeated eleven in the Pacific ocean areas last season in the pre-Iwo football campaign, was coached by marine Lt. Col. Pat Hanley of Hollywood, Cal., former head coach at Boston university.

Among the casualties were Lt. Howard W. [Smiley] Johnson, former Green Bay Packer, co-captain, and Pharmacists Mate 1st Class Earl G. Fleming, 4436 Sheridan rd., Chicago, both killed, and Pvt. Vic J. Uranowski, 13456 Avenue K, Chicago, and Sgt. Quinten H. Brunette of West Allis, Wis., former Marquette university quarter back, both wounded.

FENGER, TAFT LOSE 1ST GAMES IN CITY LEAGUE

Morgan Park, Lane Stage Upset Triumphs

Two leaders in the City league baseball race yesterday suffered their first reverses of the year as Morgan Park defeated Fenger, 8 to 3, and Lane beat Taft, 5 to 2.

Fenger's loss, coming after six straight victories, was occasioned by Morgan Park's five run rally in the sixth inning. Pitcher Lou Post started the rally when he doubled with three men on base.

Hyde Park Takes Lead

Fenger's defeat, coupled with Hyde Park's 13 to 9 triumph over Harper, placed Hyde Park in first place in the south section with a record of seven victories against one defeat. Fenger has now won six and lost one.

The first defeat in six games placed Taft in a three way tie for first place with Lane and Schurz in the north section.

Steinmetz defeated Washburne, 13 to 1, and Kelvyn Park beat Foreman, 12 to 4, as the two winners continued undefeated in the west section.

Wells Wins Wild One

In one of the wildest games played in recent years, Wells defeated Marshall, 26 to 16, with 28 errors charged in the game.

Concordia lost to North Shore, 2 to 0, to drop out of the lead in the Private School league. Luther took over first place with five victories and one loss.

N. U. IS HOST TO BIG 10 GOLF, TENNIS MEETS

Northwestern university will be host to both the Big Ten golf and tennis meets this week-end. Michigan is defending champion in both events. The Wolverines will be seeking their fourth consecutive championship in golf and their second tennis title in a row.

The tennis meet which will be held on the Wildcat courts in Evanston will be a two day affair with civilian entries playing first round matches on Friday and navy trainees confining their competition to Saturday. The golf tournament, which will be held on Northwestern's new course in Wilmette, will consist of 36 holes of medal play on Saturday.

Get Even with Ohio

Michigan's golf stock took a decided upward swing last Saturday when the Wolverines scored a 15 to 8 victory over Ohio State, thus reversing a 12 to 15 setback at the hands of the Buckeyes earlier in the season. Northwestern, with a record of eight victories in nine starts, and Minnesota, with only two defeats marring its record, also figure as contenders for the team title.

John Jenswold of Michigan, defending individual champion, will face a strong field in his quest for a second title. His strongest competition is expected to stem from his own teammate, Phil Marcellus, a three year veteran; Jack Aiten, Northwestern freshman, and Louis Lick of Minnesota, national collegiate champion.

Same Two Top Teams

Michigan and Ohio State, who waged a two way dual in last year's tennis championship meet before the Wolverines finally gained an 18 to-17 triumph, again figure as the top teams in this year's meet. Michigan, undefeated in dual meet competition, has four lettermen back, including Alden Johnson, Rogert Lewis, Dave Post, and Roy Boucher. Ohio State has six lettermen headed by the Franklin Brothers, Aris and Alex.

WILDCATS PLAY 2D GAME TODAY WITH CONCORDIA

Northwestern university's baseball team will meet Concordia college of River Forest today in Dyche field at 4 o'clock. The game is the second of the season between the two teams, the Wildcats having won the first, ended by rain after five innings, 3 to 2. Don Glander, freshman from West Bend, Wis., will pitch for the Wildcats.

Coach Wes Fry said yesterday that a return game with Great Lakes has been scheduled for Thursday afternoon in Evanston. The Bluejackets won three weeks ago, 12 to 0.

OHIO STATE ACTS TO CHANGE SITE OF PURDUE GAME

Columbus, O., May 21 (AP)—The Ohio State university athletic board approved today a recommendation by Purdue university's athletic director, Red Mackey, that the 1945 Ohio State-Purdue football game be transferred from La Fayette, Ind., to Columbus. The game will be played Oct. 20. A home game for Purdue, it had been scheduled for Cleveland, but an ODT ruling halted that.

BILL GIVING U. S. AID TO AIRPORTS ENTHUSES KELLY

Will Back Lea Measure in Washington Hearings

Mayor Kelly discussed Chicago's post-war airport with fresh enthusiasm yesterday as he made arrangements to attend hearings in Washington, D. C., May 29 on a bill to provide federal funds for half the cost. The bill, introduced by Rep. Lea [D., Cal.], makes 650 million dollars available to municipalities over a 10 year period, granting up to 50 per cent of the cost of airports approved by the civil aeronautics authority.

The mayor will attend the hearings in his capacity as vice president of the United States Conference of Mayors, which has approved the bill. He said yesterday he would tell the committee he long has held the opinion that airport development thruout the country deserves federal help.

Bond Issue on Ballot

"In the past, the government has made grants to promote railroad and canal construction," he said. "The same sort of help should be given in building airports."

A 15 million dollar airport bond issue will be carried on the June 4 ballot. When he recommended the proposition Mayor Kelly said he had in mind setting up a base for a federal grant. Under the Lea bill, another 15 million dollars could be obtained.

Three Sites Under Consideration

Three possible sites for the post-war port are under consideration. They are the Douglas Aircraft company's field, on the northwest side near Park Ridge; a projected filling in of Lake Calumet, and a location on Cicero av. south of Chicago airport. The Cicero av. site would be served by the projected super-highway from downtown over the old Illinois and Michigan canal.

Evanston's city council last night authorized Mayor Samuel G. Ingraham's airparks committee to meet with representatives of six neighbor villages to discuss formation of a north shore airport district. In addition to Evanston, villages proposed as members of the district are Wilmette, Morton Grove, Winnetka, Kenilworth, Glencoe, and Skokie.

RULE OPA TRIPLE DAMAGES ARE NOT MANDATORY

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday ruled that it is not mandatory upon courts to impose triple damages for over ceiling price convictions. The opinion held that courts retain the discretion to set either single or triple damages. It affirmed a lower court ruling.

The 2 to 1 decision, expected to have a wide application in prosecution of OPA price violation cases, was written by Judge J. Earl Major and concurred in by Judge Sherman Minton. It was handed down in a case which originated in the Indianapolis, Ind., federal court district, which had been appealed by Chester Bowes, national OPA administrator. Raymond Krodel, an automobile and truck dealer, was accused of selling a truck for $135 in excess of the ceiling price. Altho the OPA filed suit for three times this amount, the local court awarded only the basic overcharge.

The OPA based its appeal upon its contention that it was mandatory for the court to fix triple damages since no defense had been established to bring the defendant within other provisions of the regulations. Judge Otto Kerner dissented.

SENATE NAMES LILIENTHAL TO NEW TVA TERM

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The senate today confirmed the nomination of Chairman David E. Lilienthal for a new nine year term as a director of the Tennessee Valley authority. It was a voice vote with Senators McKellar and Stewart [D., Tenn.] against the nomination.

McKellar, before the vote, repeated that he and Stewart found the appointment "personally obnoxious." That usually has meant defeat of a nomination.

Stewart said "it was a sour day for the whole south" when President Truman reappointed Lilienthal.

Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] said he had no desire to disagree with the Tennessee senators, but the situation was not purely a Tennessee question. At least a half dozen other states derive benefit from TVA, he said.

3 DIE IN AUTO HIT BY TRAIN; CHILD, 8, KILLED

Three persons were killed yesterday when their automobile was demolished by a Grand Trunk train at the crossing on route 43, 20 miles south of Michigan City, Ind. They were Rudolph Hawkey, 48, of Rensselaer, Ind., a war plant worker; Thomas Pool and Donald Holwick, each 17 and both of Lafayette, Ind.

Police said the young men were hitch-hikers whom Hawkey picked up.

Carol Jean Hoyd, 8, of 2041 Diversey pkwy. was killed by an automobile last night when she ran into the street in front of her home from behind a motor coach bus. The car was driven by Byron Fauntleroy, 42, of 6037 Eberhart av., Negro. The girl's father, Milford, is in the navy.

SCHOOL PALS SAVE 2 BOYS IN LAKE MICHIGAN

Two 18 year old Elgin academy seniors were rescued yesterday by two fellow students after their dinghy capsized in Lake Michigan a quarter of a mile off the Glencoe beach, where 18 of the seniors were attending a picnic.

Rescued were Charles Race, of Oak Knoll rd., Barrington, and Paul Butler, of Oak Brook rd., Hinsdale. Their craft lost its rudder after it had scudded out into the lake, and when they attempted to lower the sail a gust of wind tipped the boat over.

Race and Butler clung to the capsized boat while others on the beach sought coast guard and police aid. Finally Stewart Templeton, 18, of Northbrook, and Gene Ratay, 17, of 2836 Cermak rd., swam out to the overturned craft with a lifesaver and a heavy plank.

Thoroly chilled, Butler and Race were taken to the home of Samuel G. Goss Jr., at 525 Greenleaf av., Glencoe, where they were given dry clothing. The dinghy was retrieved by the coast guard.

SENDING PAPERS OVERSEAS TO BE CURBED BY U. S.

After July 1 overseas delivery of newspapers and magazines to members of the navy, marine corps, and coast guard will be limited to personnel making written requests, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said yesterday.

Woman Clerk, 50, Hits Bandit on Head with Chair

Mrs. Mildred Brown, 50, a clerk in a millinery shop at 1609 Howard st., last night routed a paroled convict carrying a revolver who attempted to rob her. The gunman told her to sit down and moved toward a cash register. When he turned his back Mrs. Brown got up and struck him on the head with her chair. He fled and was captured by a police squad. Police said he is Edward McInerney, 31.

JUDGE REFUSES TO DISMISS SUIT OVER NEGRO BAN

A 20 year old decision of the United States Supreme court was cited yesterday by Superior Judge Donald S. McKinlay when he refused to dismiss a suit started by south side property owners to enforce a restrictive covenant.

The owners on July 1, 1944, signed an agreement binding themselves to exclude Negroes as residents of a square block lying within 61st, 62d, Loomis, and Bishop sts. A motion to dismiss the suit was made by attorneys of Clarence and Goldie Williams, owners of a two flat building at 6109 Bishop st.

Judge McKinlay said legality of the restrictive covenant had been upheld by state court decisions and by the United States Supreme court in 1925.

HARVARD C. OF C. PICKS JUNE 6 AS 4TH 'MILK DAY'

Harvard, McHenry county, center of one of the major milk producing areas of the country, will celebrate June 6 as "Milk Day." This is the fourth year that the Harvard Chamber of Commerce has set aside a day in recognition of the dairy farmers of the area who produce up to 2,500,000 pounds of fluid milk weekly.

There are three dairy bulk plants and one manufacturer of dairy farm equipment in the city. A national radio chain will broadcast a program from Harvard during the celebration.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

CORRIERO—Louis R. Corriero, May 22, 1937.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile;
Little do they know the heartache
That our smile hides all the while.
How often do we tread the path
That leads us to the grave,
Where rests the one we love so well,
But whom we could not save.
CORRIERO FAMILY.

CUNNAR—Ernest E. Cunnar. In memory of our dear husband and daddy, who left us one year ago today.

Time to Take PROFITS in STOCKS?

DOES end of German war create problems which make acceptance of stock market profits advisable? Or do brilliant postwar prospects warrant continued holding? The Bull Market is now in its fourth year, which makes it the third longest in history. War contracts are being cut back faster than civilian production can get under way.

Earnings Restricted?

Two factors will restrict earnings until well after V-J Day—taxes and price controls. Investors must decide to what extent these elements have already been discounted—to what extent they are offset by huge pent-up demands at home and abroad—by inflation, and by the record total of purchasing power.

Current UNITED Report analyzes this situation; weighs the favorable and unfavorable factors, and reaches conclusions of interest to those now holding stocks.

RAILS, SHIPPERS PLAN TO FIGHT RATE EQUALITY

Assert ICC Order Invites Chaos

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Eastern shippers, including those in Illinois, are expected to join with certain railroads in asking the interstate commerce commission to reconsider the order it issued Saturday directing the establishment of uniform class freight rates thruout the territory east of the Rockies, Chicago traffic men said yesterday. They asserted that the order would create chaos in the rate structure under which the north operates.

Class rates are charges for moving the higher grades of freight, including manufactured goods, such as shoes and electric goods. Commodity rates cover bulk shipments such as grain, cotton, coal, live stock, and the like.

Pending formal equalization of rates, which the ICC estimated may take about two years, the railroads in the official [eastern] territory were limited to increase their class rates 10 per cent and those in the south and western territory [east of the Rockies] to reduce their class rates 10 per cent.

Works Both Ways in East

The effect of the order will be to require railroads in eastern territory [from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic ocean, north of the Ohio river] to add 10 per cent to their class rates on shipments within the territory and to cut their rates 10 per cent on shipments of goods from points within the territory to point in the southern and western territories.

One railroad executive said that even if the order were acceptable it was doubtful whether the temporary rates could be put in effect by Aug. 30, as ordered, because a tremendous amount of work in rechecking rates will be required.

Another traffic executive said it was strange that the ICC had ordered a 10 per cent rate increase on certain freight, when on Jan. 1, 1945, it postponed action for a year on a railroad request for a 6 per cent over-all increase. The railroads were granted the 6 per cent boost several years ago only to have it taken away on the ground that the heavy war time traffic made it unnecessary.

Consider Truck Competition

Some of the eastern railroads which have been attempting to build up their less than carload and other class freight object to the 10 per cent increase because "it will play into the hands of the truck operators whose rates are below those of the railroads." On the other hand, the lowered rates in the west would give railroads there some advantage in their competition with truck lines.

Eastern shippers and manufacturers were reported aroused by the threat of increased shipping costs.

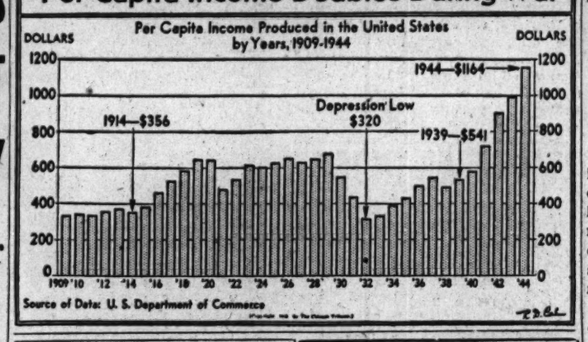
Meanwhile, western and southern railroads were apprehensive that after their war business is gone they will face loss of a substantial part of their revenues as a result of the lowered rates. To offset the reduced class rates they probably will seek higher rates for commodities, it was said, tho this would stir up the farmers who have opposed freight increases on grain, cotton, live stock, and other commodities.

Cheered by Exceptions

Western railroads found some cheer in a section of the ICC order which reads: "No changes in existing exception rates or column rates are contemplated by this finding." Exception and column rates are those approved by the ICC for specific items which are exceptions to the class rates. They account for a substantial part of rail shipments.

One traffic authority described the ICC finding as a "clear cut case of a surrender of the majority to the southern politicians." He said a daylight trip thru the densely populated east followed by one thru the sparsely settled west would show at a glance why rates were higher in the west.

Per Capita Income Doubles During War



Put Hard Coal Pact to WLB; Outline Terms

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The war labor board took under consideration today a new anthracite contract providing an average pay boost of $1.37½ a day to 72,000 Pennsylvania hard coal mines. Its effectiveness is contingent on government approval and price increases to cover added costs.

The agreement calls for underground travel time pay for the anthracite miners for the first time. It was computed at 45 minutes, and $1.132 per shift was allowed.

Another innovation in this contract, negotiated late Saturday after government seizure of the mines and a three week strike which was virtually ended today, was an allowance of premium pay of 4 cents an hour for the second shift and 6 cents for the third.

Vacation Allowance Hiked

The vacation allowance will be increased from $50 to $75 for miners who have worked in each of the 24 semi-monthly pay periods in the year ending June 15.

Overtime pay was provided at rate and one-half for all hours worked in excess of seven in one day and 35 in one week, with double pay for Sunday if it is the seventh consecutive day worked.

Like the bituminous agreement signed by the United Mine Workers and the soft coal operators on April 11, the contract would run indefinitely, but may be reopened after one year on 10 days' notice.

Speedy Action Indicated

Every indication at the WLB meeting was for speedy disposition of the contract. The bituminous agreement was approved by WLB and Economic Stabilizer Davis in less than one month.

J. J. Forbes, anthracite manager for the solid fuels administration, said 326 of the 333 mines under government control were operating with 93 per cent of the men at their jobs. Output was estimated at 85 to 90 per cent of normal.

HUDSON DISCLOSES BID BY FISHER BROTHERS FOR 400,000 SHARES

Detroit, Mich., May 21 (AP)—A. Edward Barit, president of Hudson Motor Car company, disclosed at a stockholders' meeting today that the five Fisher brothers had offered to buy 400,000 shares of Hudson common stock at book value—$21.66 a share. Of 2 million shares authorized 1,588,810 are outstanding.

The offer had been made in their behalf by B. A. Tompkins, vice president of the Bankers Trust company, New York, he said, after Carsten Tiedeman, a director, requested adjournment of the meeting to a later date "for reasons I do not wish to disclose."

"There has not been sufficient time to consider the matter," said Barit, "and the proposal is not before this meeting today." David G. Baird, vice president of Marsh & McLennan, insurance broker, and James W. Parker, president of Detroit Edison company, were elected new directors. Other directors and all officers were reelected.

When Tiedeman failed to obtain an adjournment he announced he was withdrawing his holdings and proxies totaling 406,000 shares, contending this left no quorum. Barit, as chairman, however, ruled that the meeting having been called with a quorum present, could not be adjourned without having taken action.

The Fisher brothers said Saturday that "at the present time there is no deal whatever" thru which they sought control of Hudson.

NEW MEAT PLAN ADDS CONFUSION, PRODUCERS SAY

War Mobilizer Vinson's new meat program instead of solving the meat shortage will only "add to the confusion" existing in the live stock industry and will fall far short of its objective, increased production, P. O. Wilson, secretary manager of the National Live Stock Producers' association, said yesterday.

Analyzing the new program in the June issue of the National Live Stock Producer, Wilson said it adds substantially to government cost thru increased and unnecessary subsidies, increases operating margins for processors, and leaves feedlot operators in much the same position as before, one in which cattle cannot be fed and finished with any assurance of a profitable margin.

COURT SUSTAINS ICC ON REDUCED COAL RAIL RATE

An interstate commerce commission order reducing the freight rate on coal hauled from western Kentucky to Chicago was sustained yesterday by a three judge federal tribunal in Lexington, Ky. The court refused to set aside the ICC order, and denied a petition asking that the ICC be restrained from enforcing the order. The ICC ruling reduced from 35 cents a ton to 25 cents the freight rate differential between coal shipped from western Kentucky to Chicago and coal shipped from southern Illinois to Chicago.

Bid for Eased Illinois Truck Law Muddled

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 21—Administration approved attempts to increase the maximum weights and lengths allowed motor trucks were muddled tonight by the appearance of a new series of 14 bills, sponsored by a joint subcommittee on motor vehicles.

Rep. Lewis [R., Marshall] and other co-sponsors of the new bills are among the most influential members of the house committee on motor vehicles and traffic regulation, which is scheduled to consider on Wednesday a truck bill indorsed by the state division of highways and by many portions of the motor freight industry. It was introduced two weeks ago by Rep. David Hunter [R., Rockford].

Would Increase Maximums

The Hunter bill would bring Illinois truck laws closer to the level of other states by increasing maximum axle weights allowed from 16,000 to 18,000 pounds and by permitting increases of five feet in the maximum lengths of the big truck and trailer combinations. In addition, trucking associations volunteered to pay increased license fees on the heaviest vehicles.

The subcommittee bills would forbid the length increases, limit any weight increases to the next two years, provide for higher license fees, and fix a series of penalties. Statehouse opinion was that it would be difficult to get a compromise.

In addition, the subcommittee bills would strip the state department of public works and vehicles of the division of motor carriers, which now regulates freight traffic. To replace it, the governor would be given a new code department of motor vehicles, to administer truck laws.

Suggest Permanent Committee

Another bill in the new series would create a permanent joint legislative committee to continue a study of vehicle laws started eight years ago by the present subcommittee. Charles F. Mansfield of Springfield was secretary of the previous truck investigating group and has been advising the subcommittee. Legislative leaders at the start of the present session refused to vote funds to the group to continue its work.

Rep. Lewis is vice chairman of the group which has continued to function as an unofficial subcommittee.

HOG SUPPORT WEIGHT LIMIT ENDED BY WFA TO LIFT PORK OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The war food administration today removed the 300 pound limit on the weight of hogs for which support prices are effective in an effort to increase pork and lard supplies.

Under the program prices will be supported until Sept. 1, 1946, at $13 a hundred pounds, Chicago basis, for all good and choice barrow and gilt butcher hogs [which include nearly all market hogs], regardless of weight.

A WFA spokesman said removal of the 300 pound top limit would encourage feeding of heavier hogs, altho at that weight most of the increase is in lard and a smaller proportion goes into meat.

LIVE STOCK PRICES FIRM

Supplies of all meat animals were smaller yesterday at the Chicago stock yards. Heifers outsold the best steers by 10 cents, bringing $17.75 a hundred pounds, only 15 cents below the highest May heifer price on record. The best steers sold at $17.65 and the bulk at $15.50 to $17.25. Bulls were weak to lower and other cattle steady. Lambs sold steady to 15 cents higher with top loads at $16. Hogs again held at ceiling prices.

OIL EXECUTIVES OPPOSE ALIEN CARTEL THEORY

But Favor Reality in Foreign Trade

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—Two oil executives testified today they opposed the principle of foreign cartels and monopolies, but asserted that United States business must compete abroad on conditions existing there or die.

W. S. S. Rodgers predicts spy system.

Orville Harden, vice president of Standard Oil company [New Jersey], told a senate oil resources investigating committee:

"We are opposed to cartels. We know of no dissent in the American petroleum industry on this point. All of us would like to see the adoption of our American philosophy of business world-wide."

Terms Foreign Market Vital

Whatever the answer to the cartel, however, Harden said, it couldn't be the abandonment of "our foreign markets" which he described as vital to the United States in prosecuting this war or any future conflict.

Laurence B. Levi, a director of Socony-Vacuum Oil company, testified that foreign governments encouraged cartel arrangements and that some grew directly from Russia of "dumping" quantities of oil on the market at unusually low prices to obtain foreign exchange.

"The one inescapable fact is that American companies, if they are to continue to carry on business abroad, must be in a position to meet in each particular country the conditions existing there," he said.

Other Nations to Benefit

W. S. S. Rodgers, chairman of the Texas company, said a proposed bill requiring public filing of foreign contracts would lead to a spy system for the benefit of other nations.

"I predict that promptly on passage of such a bill," he said, "a sort of international reporting service would be organized in Washington to flash this information quickly to interested business men thruout the world."

INCLUDE TRUCKS, AUTOS IN MAY 29 SALE OF SURPLUS

The department of commerce office of surplus property yesterday announced it will offer on May 29 approximately 250 government surplus motor vehicles, including trucks and passenger cars. The sale, open to all qualified automotive dealers in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Michigan, will be conducted at Camp McCoy near Sparta, Wis.

Grains Tumble as May Rye, Barley Options Drop Limit

May rye and May and September barley broke the 5 cent limit during the last 15 minutes of trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade when a flurry of long liquidation uncovered stop loss orders.

Short covering supported May wheat and corn, the latter closing at the $1.18⅛ ceiling, but all other futures contracts suffered large losses during the late sell-off. Analysts regarded the break a necessary technical correction because prices have risen sharply in recent weeks, rye and wheat selling at new 10 year highs.

May Rye Sets 20 Year High

May rye soared to $1.47⅞, up 3 cents on an early bulge that established a new peak since 1925.

The liquidation followed reports that large tenders of cash grain would be made on May contracts in which trading will close today. Longs, anxious to avoid accepting delivery of cash grain, touched off the break and prices plummeted, encountering little support except from shorts.

After the close the Board of Trade Clearing corporation announced receipt of notices of intention to deliver 1,135,000 bushels of oats, 490,000 bushels of rye, and 660,000 bushels of barley on May contracts.

Open Interest Listed

At the close of trading Saturday the open interest in May contracts totaled: 5,036,000 bushels of wheat, 2,198,000 bushels of corn, 4,969,000 bushels of oats, 3,959,000 bushels of rye, and 748,000 bushels of barley.

Wheat closed ⅝ to 2¼ lower, corn unchanged to 1 lower, oats lost 1¼ to 3¼, rye 4 to 5, and barley 4⅝ to 5.

OPA BOOSTS CEILINGS $2 TO $7 A TON ON 14 BASIC STEEL ITEMS

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—Increases of $2 to $7 a ton for 14 basic steel products were authorized today by the OPA, effective Wednesday. Five of the increases replace interim boosts of $2 to $5 a ton authorized in January. On the other nine products the ceiling price increases are the first since 1941.

Steel warehouses and jobbers will be permitted to pass on to customers only a few of the price increases.

Among the items increased were carbon steel plates, rails, certain nails and staples, tie plates, certain wire and galvanized roofing and siding.

CANADIAN PAPER OUTPUT TO RISE 6% IN 3D QUARTER

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21 (AP)—A prices board statement said today that it was possible to confirm estimates wood supplies would permit an over-all increase of 5 and 6 per cent in production of Canadian pulp and paper mills beginning with the third 1945 quarter.

The statement said Canadian manufacturers would "produce all they can, consistent with such limitations as may prevail at their mills respecting available labor and materials, including wood." It added that the third quarter allocation of newsprint for the United States would be at the rate of 215,000 tons a month of 32 pound paper, a total of 645,000 tons for the quarter. The newsprint allocation for Canadian consumption will be similarly increased.

STANDARD (N. J.) OPENS FIGHT FOR SEIZED PATENTS

New York, May 21 [Special]—The trial of a civil suit brought by the Standard Oil company [New Jersey] and three of its affiliates to recover 2,500 patents seized by the United States alien property custodian in 1942 and 1944, on the alleged ground they were controled by a German trust, the I. G. Farben Industrie, A. G., began today before Federal District Judge Charles W. Wyzanski without a jury.

Counsel for the plaintiffs developed during the proceeding that the German company received 35 million dollars of stock of Standard Oil for the patents when they were bought in 1929. Later the German interests under an agreement were given a 20 per cent royalty of the income derived by one of the subsidiaries, but Standard acquired complete ownership by 1939.

The patents dealt with improvements in the manufacture of 100 octane aviation gasoline and the development of synthetic rubber.

Molybdenum Corp. Elects Donald Nelson to Board

New York, May 21 (AP)—Donald M. Nelson, former WPB chairman, has been elected a director of Molybdenum Corporation of America, it was announced today.

Complete Wildcat Oil Well Mile from Odin, Ill.

Centralia, Ill., May 21 (AP)—Buell & Doran's No. 1 Martha Young, a wildcat oil well one mile northwest of Odin, Ill., was being completed today for a new producer in the cypress sand at 1,754-51 feet. About one mile from the nearest production, the well initially swabbed 85 barrels of oil in 24 hours.

PROFIT CASHING PUSHES STOCK MARKET LOWER

Rate Ruling Affects Rails Little

New York, May 21 (AP)—Altho certain utilities advanced in today's stock market, profit cashing on the recent upswing pushed many industrial leaders fractions to 2 points lower.

Favorable post-war prospects remained the principal bidding inspiration, but many customers trimmed accounts on the belief that the rise to eight year peaks may increase liquidation. Earnings and dividends aided a few issues.

Motors were heavy from the opening. Dealings slowed on the slump. Transfers were 1,080,000 shares, comparable to 1,430,000 Friday. The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.2 at 65.1, first drop since last Monday. Of 926 issues traded, 478 were down, 250 up, and 198 unchanged.

The interstate commerce commission freight rate decision, which would lift revenues of eastern roads and cut those of southern and western lines, affected carriers little. The reason suggested was that the excess profits taxes would tend to adjust advantages or disadvantages involved.

On the Curb Rath Packing rose on a boosted dividend.

CARRIER BONDS SAG

New York, May 21 (AP)—Light selling in a sizable group of carrier loans forced the bond market lower today. Declines were small, however, and numerous issues, both in rails and other departments, were supported. Trading was slow, sales totaling $6,610,000 compared with $9,740,000 Friday.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN

The Chicago stock market was slightly higher yesterday in 30,000 share turnover. Volume leaders were Admiral corporation, Asbestos Manufacturing, and Commonwealth Edison, each down ⅛, and Chicago corporation and National Cylinder unchanged.

RETAIL STORES GROUP MARKETS NEW PREFERRED

20th Century-Fox Issue Sold by Hutton

An underwriting group headed by Central Republic company yesterday offered 30,000 shares of $2.75 cumulative preferred stock of Consolidated Retail Stores at $50 a share subject to subscription rights of holders of 8 per cent cumulative preferred.

E. F. Hutton & Co. sold on the New York Stock exchange 12,600 shares of 20th Century-Fox Film corporation convertible preferred stock at 36⅝ less 65 cents a share selling commission.

Sells Porcelain Steel Shares

Kobbe, Gearhart & Co. and associated underwriters sold 100,000 common shares and 100,000 cumulative convertible preferred shares of Baltimore Porcelain Steel corporation. The stock was offered in units of one share of each at $5 a unit.

A banking group headed by First Boston corporation was awarded an issue of $26,600,000 of Texas Power and Light company bonds on a bid of 100.1529 for a 2¾ per cent interest rate. Halsey, Stuart & Co. bid 100.079 for the same rate. Reoffering is expected this week at 100⅝.

Offers Textron Debentures

Five million dollars of Textron, Inc., 15 year 4½ per cent debentures will be offered today by a group of 22 underwriting houses headed by Blair & Co. at 100 per cent and accrued interest. Proposed use of the proceeds was not disclosed. Textron produces synthetic textile products.

The Kansas, Oklahoma, and Gulf Railway company was authorized by the interstate commerce commission to issue $4,400,000 of first mortgage bonds bearing interest at 3% per cent. Proceeds are to be used in partial redemption of bonds bearing 5 per cent interest which the railroad proposed to call July 1.

ANY ALUMINUM OF CANADA LINK DENIED BY ALCOA

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—Aluminum Company of America today denied any connection with Aluminum Company of Canada and accused Secretary of the Interior Ickes of "unfair criticism based on misstatements of fact." In a letter to Chairman Murray [D., Mont.] of the senate small business committee, Alcoa said it wanted "the records set straight on testimony by Ickes last Monday.

Ickes discussed the Shipshaw [Que.] power project and aluminum purchases by the United States from Aluminum of Canada, expressing particular objection to a contract, since reduced, for 250 million pounds. The Alcoa letter, signed by L. W. Wilson, vice president in charge of operations, said Ickes told the committee he believed the agreement between the Metals Reserve corporation and Aluminum of Canada "was an arrangement between Alcoa and the government."

"Alcoa was not a party to this arrangement directly or indirectly," the letter said. "None of the officers or employes of Alcoa had any knowledge of the arrangement until several months after the contracts were made."

In reference to Ickes' statement that Alcoa and Aluminum of Canada have the same officers and directors, Wilson quoted court findings in anti-trust proceedings earlier this year which said that at no time did Alcoa and Aluminum Ltd., have a director or employe in common. Not since 1929 have Alcoa and an Aluminum, Ltd., subsidiary been connected, the court added. Aluminium of Canada is an Aluminum, Ltd., subsidiary.

GRANTS REVIEWS IN 2 NEWSPAPER PAY-HOUR CASES

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The Supreme court agreed today to review two cases dealing with application of the wage-hour law to newspaper publishing companies which contended they were not subject to the act. In separate actions, the court:

1. Granted the request of the Paterson [N. J.] Evening News that it rule whether government agents may "fish" thru its books when there had been no complaint of any wage-hour law violation.

2. Agreed to review a District court order requiring the Oklahoma Press Publishing company, Muskogee, to give the wage-hour administrator access to its books. The company said that since June 1, 1939, it had sold no papers outside of Oklahoma and contended the law was not applicable to its business.

Vote July 24 on Merger of Two Soft Coal Firms

New York, May 21 (AP)—Stockholders of Consolidation Coal company and Pittsburgh Coal company will vote at a special meeting July 24 on a proposal to merge the two companies under the name, Pittsburgh-Consolidation Coal company. Directors of both companies have authorized the merger.

Grant Oil Ceiling Boosts Under Stripper Subsidy

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The OPA today announced ceiling price increases of 7 to 35 cents a barrel for crude oil from 17 pools in Kansas, Lousiana, Oklahoma, and Texas. Retroactive to May 1, the increases were granted under the stripper well subsidy plan.

Net Income of Class 1 Rails Lower in February

Reports of 136 class 1 railroads showed aggregate net income in February was $37,378,247, compared with $48,758,446 a year ago, the interstate commerce commission reported yesterday.

People and Events

A portable motion picture projector manufactured by the late Herman A. DeVry more than 30 years ago and believed to be the first of its kind has been sent to the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., the request of institution officials, the DeVry corporation announced yesterday.

T. A. Corcoran, purchaing agent of the Louisville [Ky.] Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, will discuss the paper shortage at a meeting of the Purchasing Agents association of Chicago Wednesday evening in the Hotel Sherman.

Effective June 15, Tom F. Brown, regional manager at Kansas City, Mo., of the Chevrolet Motor division of General Motors corporation, will become assistant general sales manager in charge of parts and accessory merchandising, warehousing, and distribution.

W. T. Grant, chairman of Business Men's Assurance company, Kansas City, Mo., will address a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Accident and Health Underwriters today in the Chicago Real Estate board quarters.

J. W. Nicholson, assistant to the vice president of the Santa Fe railroad, was elected president of the Western Railway club last night at the annual banquet in the Hotel Sherman. Nicholson succeeds H. D. Long, general purchasing agent of the Burlington.

Frederick K. Barbour yesterday was elected chairman of the board of Bendix Helicopter, Inc. A director and member of the company's executive committee, he also is president of Linen Thread company and a director of several other companies.

J. A. C. Kavanagh, executive secretary of the Flexible Packaging institute, has invited members of the industry to a meeting tomorrow in the Drake hotel.

EXEMPTION HIKE TO AID FINANCING ADOPTED BY SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21 (AP)—The securities and exchange commission announced today the adoption of amendments to a securities act regulation which will raise the level of exemption from registering securities for public offering from $100,000 to $300,000 in accordance with a bill signed May 15 by President Truman.

Introduced by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], the bill was designed to encourage the investment of venture capital in small business by facilitating the public offering of securities. It permits $300,000 of corporate securities to be publicly offered entirely by the company or by the company and a controling stockholder within a single year. A controling stockholder, however, remains limited to $100,000 a year.

The SEC amendment to its regulation also increased from one to five days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, the time in which notice of offering and offering literature must be filed with its nearest regional office. This will provide more time for examination of the literature and recommendation of changes.

GROSS EARNINGS OF MILWAUKEE ROAD SET RECORD

Gross revenues of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific Railroad company [Milwaukee road] for the year ended Dec. 31, 1944, were the highest in the company's history, but net income was substantially lower than in 1943, the management said in its annual report yesterday.

The 1944 gross revenue amounted to $226,709,693, compared with $224,515,240 in 1943, an increase of approximately 1 per cent. Net income last year totaled $11,503,682, compared with $29,413,623, or an "adjusted" figure of $20,527,913 in 1943.

Reduction in net earnings resulted largely from wage increases and higher costs of materials and supplies and other operating costs, the company said.

SUPREME COURT CLEARS WAY FOR OLD CHASE SUIT

Upholds Amendment to Minnesota Law

Washington, D. C., May 21 (AP)—The supreme court today upheld a 1941 amendment to the Minnesota blue sky [securities] law which opened the way to reviving a suit previously barred by statute of limitations. Justice Jackson delivered the 8-0 opinion. Justice Douglas took no part in the case.

The high court affirmed the Minnesota Supreme court, which prior to passage of the amendment had held barred by a six year statute of limitations a suit by executors of Ruth Chase Donaldson. They sought to recover the purchase price of stock sold in Minneapolis in 1929 by Chase Securities corporation, a New York firm now known as Amerex Holding corporation. After the Minnesota legislature in 1941 revised the blue sky law, the executors sought to revive the suit.

Bars Toll Service Charges

The court also upheld a decree prohibiting District of Columbia hotels from collecting service charges on toll telephone calls made by guests from their rooms. Justice Jackson delivered the 7-0 decision. Justices Douglas and Black took no part.

Reargument next term of a case involving validity of the royalty adjustment act was ordered. The act permits the head of a federal agency to fix royalties if he believes charges are excessive for an invention used in the manufacture of products supplied to the United States for war. The Alma Motor company is contesting a war department order stopping royalty payments to it by Timken-Detroit Axle company. The 3rd Circuit court at Philadelphia upheld the order.

Denies Exporters' Exemption

A federal District court may try a Sherman anti-trust suit brought against an export trade association registered with the federal trade commission. Chief Justice Stone ruled in an 8-1 decision. Justice Roberts concurred in part and dissented in part. The United States Alkali Export association and 11 large chemical firms which are members contended the Webb-Pomerene act of 1918 gave the FTC control and supervision of export trade groups, removing them from court jurisdiction.

SAFETY COUNCIL GIVES CITATIONS TO 13 COMPANIES

The opening of Chicago safety week was observed by the Greater Chicago Safety council last night with a banquet in the Knickerbocker hotel and the presentation of awards for safety records. Thirteen industrial companies were cited for having had no accidents. They are: Visking corporation, Reid Murdoch & Co., Diamond Braiding mills, F. J. Littell Machine company, Bethlehem Steel corporation, Standard Brands, Inc., Norton Door Closer company, William P. Greenhill & Son, Inc., Marblehead Lime company, Anderson Shumaker company, A. B. C. Pattern and Foundry company, Patent Scaffolding company, and the Shell Oil company's East Chicago, Ind., plant.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's south works won the interplant accident prevention contest and Standard Oil company of Indiana had high rating for interfleet accident prevention.

EARMARKED GOLD

Please explain the earmarking of gold in this country. Is gold so held available as security for loans?—A. ...

Gold is earmarked, or held in trust, by federal reserve banks for the account of foreign governments and their central banks. Gold so held in 1933 was exempted from the requirement that gold in this country be turned into the federal treasury, and the earmarking privilege has been continued under treasury department regulations. Gold deposited in this manner is excluded from the official totals of the country's monetary gold stock.

Earmarked gold has been increasing as a result of transfers of United States gold to those countries which have built up large credits here during the war as a result of the excess of their merchandise exports to us over our exports to them. According to recent statistics, earmarked gold totaled $4,032,700,000, which compares with about $2,215,000,000 at the time of Pearl Harbor.

Under some conditions such gold is available as security for loans to the foreign government or bank concerned. At the end of last February $102,800,000 foreign gold was earmarked in the name of a "domestic bank" as security for a foreign loan. Such a loan was made to Holland by a group of American banks. Ordinarily advances on earmarked gold as security are made only to foreign central banks by a federal reserve bank.
